SUMMARY.

Viscount Haldane, Lord High Chancellor, said Sir Edward Carson had done his best to keep Ulster quiet.

The proposals of the amending Home Rule Bill would, the Government thought, meet the difficulty.

Sir Edward Carson advised Ulstermen at Belfast to use their weapons if anyone attempted to rob them of them.

Twenty suffragists chanted a suffragist litany in Brompton Oratory. One shouted, "For God's sake, stop forcible feeding!"

The congregation, including many women, fiercely attacked them, and an extraordinary and horrible scene took place.

Miss Sylvia Pankhurst told an East End meeting that she might not be alive on Wednesday.

She was determined that the East End people should settle the question by Wednesday.

President Huerta announces that he intends to blockade General Carranza's Constitutional forces at Tampico.

Two Mexican gunboats have left Puerto Mexico, followed by the United States cruiser Tacoma, and a gunboat.

The United States Naval Secretary says this development will not change the policy of the United States regarding Tampico.

Further hostile criticism has been aroused by Admiral Sir Percy Scott's declaration regarding Dreadnoughts and submarines.

The Berlin "Post" sarcastically hopes that Britain will adopt the theories of Admiral Sir Percy Scott.

The London Postmaster-General has refused to establish a representative committee for the demarcation of duties.

He animadverted on the syndicalist tendencies of the Postal and Telegraph Clerks' Association.

Germany is spending £25,000 on advertising abroad the progress of German industry and trade.

It is now generally reported that Prince William of Wied is about to abdicate the throne of Albania.

The Duke of the Abruzzi, and members of the Bonaparte family are mentioned as his probable successors.

Four hundred vessels will participate in the naval review at Spithead on July 18, which is a record.

Outbreaks of smallpox, attributed to bales of Mexican cotton, have occurred in several Lancashire towns.

Drastic penalties have been imposed by the President of the Chinese Republic on officials found guilty of bribery.

The Peking Government is prohibiting native Christians from preaching in the streets, fearing they may spread treason.

Three occupants of a balloon, including M. Le Prince, were killed by its explosion at Rheims.

Representatives of the Commonwealth and State Ministries held a conference at the State Premier's office yesterday.

Mr. Cook has now been assured that the printing of the New South Wales rolls will be completed in a month.

He declared last evening, however, that he could not even approximately fix the date of the elections.

Mr. Hedges, the former member for Fremantle, stated yesterday that he did intend to seek re-election.

He explained that practically nothing had been done to revise the Fremantle rolls, which were in a shocking condition.

Sir John Forrest spent some time in consultation with three or four Liberal members at Parliament House yesterday.

It is believed that the Federal Labour policy will include a scheme for pensions for widows and orphans.

The proposal for States-owned steamer communication with Tasmania will again be brought forward.

With regard to the electoral prospects in other States, three Labour seats in Victoria are open to serious attack.

Altogether nine Labour seats and three Liberal seats are regarded as unsafe in other States.

The Prime Minister said he had no notion what Mr. Fisher meant by talking about burning documents.

"It is a pity," he said, "that Mr. Fisher does not talk plainly instead of using innuendo and enigma."

Preparation of the electoral rolls in Victoria is much more forward than in New South Wales.

This has been to a large extent due to the efforts of the various Liberal organisations.

Mr. Hughes states that by the Governor-General's decision the Senate becomes a glorified, but very expensive debating society.

"It is," he added, "of less real importance than a shire council."

The caucus of the State Labour party will meet at Parliament House to-day to discuss the Government policy.

The Premier has a long statement to make to the caucus, which will probably be the chief thing dealt with.

It is thought probable that the approaching Federal elections will be the principal matter for discussion.

The effect of the Federal crisis on the opening of the third session will be explained by Ministers.

A meeting of the P. L. L. was held last evening to discuss the political situation.

It was decided to contest the Parramatta seat, candidates to submit their names up to 5 p.m. on Friday.

The New South Wales team defeated the English Rugby players yesterday by 11 to 3.

Little brilliancy was shown in the game, which was witnessed by an enormous crowd.

The Englishmen worked conscientiously, but they had no outstanding player in their ranks.

About 20,000 people attended the close of the A.J.C. Winter Meeting yesterday. Sir Al[illegible] won the Winter Stakes.

Eighty days were taken by the steamer Grange in sailing from New York to Newcastle, via Durban.

Mr. Massey said New Zealand was heavily in debt, and it was necessary to secure a larger population.

"But," he added, "we don't want Hindus. I feel very strongly about the subject."

Three cases of smallpox, one at Erskineville and two at St. Peters, were reported to the health authorities yesterday.

Sir John Forrest has appealed to those concerned to end the long-continued trans-Australian railway strike.

The Barrier Carriers' Union decided to demand of mining companies £1 a day for sulphide carters.

[illegible] were used by the steamer Mel[illegible] during a tempestuous voyage of [illegible] days.

Considerable damage was sustained owing to the violence of the weather, which also caused the cargo to shift.

Two spectators started a fight at the Richmond v Melbourne football match, at Melbourne, yesterday.

The arrest of one of the men by the police was the signal for a general riot.

The crowd rushed the cab, but the attempted rescue failed, and another man was eventually arrested.

The New Zealand Premier, Mr. Massey, said the Government would stand or fall by the principles of the Defence Act.

The Empire, he said, could not be kept together unless maintained in an efficient state of defence.

An attempt to apologise for Sir Ian Hamilton's remarks about Japan will be made by the Government.

Mr. Edgar Hardcastle, recently arrived from Buenos Ayres, says it is more advanced than Sydney in many respects.

Buenos Ayres, he said, was twice as big, with a population of a million and a half.

Weather Forecast: More showers on central and northerly coast, with squally southerly wind and rough seas, fine inland, with frosts and fogs.

EFFICIENT TAILORING.

The chief difference in "E. T. Walsh" Suits as compared with those produced at "mixed shops" is that ours bears the impress of the expert in every detail—in the faultless style, in the perfect workmanship, and in the pleasing manner in which they are finished. For instance, you'll never find a button out of place in an "E. T. Walsh" Suit, nor stitches dropped or shirred, nor even the slightest detail neglected in any particular.

WINTER SUITINGS. We have a really splendid showing, with many new designs and colourings, calculated to please those who like something different from the common run of clothes.

OBJECTS.

This Company has been formed with the objects of establishing Portland Cement Works in the State of Queensland, and carrying on the business of Cement and Lime Manufacturers, and, in pursuance of those objects, to purchase from the vendors:—
(a) Certain valuable Mineral Leases for Limestone deposits on lands near Warwick.
(b) Option on Freehold Lands at Darra, containing vast deposits of Shales and Clays eminently suited for Cement manufacture, and in close proximity to the Ipswich Coalfield.

CEMENT INDUSTRY.

THE WHOLE OF THE PORTLAND CEMENT CONSUMED IN QUEENSLAND IS IMPORTED, ABOUT 70 PER CENT. OF THE TOTAL FROM EUROPE, AND THE REMAINDER FROM NEW SOUTH WALES, VICTORIA, AND NEW ZEALAND. THE DEMAND FOR CEMENT FOR CONSTRUCTIVE WORKS OF ALL KINDS IS INCREASING SO RAPIDLY IN AUSTRALIA THAT THERE IS FREQUENTLY A SHORTAGE OF SUPPLIES, AND AS ALL FACILITIES FOR ITS MANUFACTURE ARE TO BE FOUND IN CLOSE PROXIMITY TO BRISBANE, AND THERE IS THE PROTECTION OF A HIGH TARIFF AND SUBSTANTIAL FREIGHTS, THE ESTABLISHMENT OF THE INDUSTRY IN QUEENSLAND SHOWS GREAT PROMISE.

LOCATION OF WORKS.

The works at Darra will be situated only 10 miles from Brisbane, on the southern main line, and practically in the midst of the great Ipswich coalfield. The whole 60 acres, on part of which the works are to be located, contain supplies of excellent shales and clays, in quantities far in excess of possible requirements, whilst water is to be had in abundance. The limestone deposit is 204 miles distant (to be reduced by 73 miles upon completion of the short-cut styled the "Via Recta") on the same line, but as the finished article will be manufactured so close to the main distributing market the fact of having to pay carriage on one of the three raw materials is more than counterbalanced. In this connection it is as well to bear in mind that the Cement works at Portland and Claudulla, N.S.W., are 110 and 150 miles from Sydney respectively.

THE LIMESTONE DEPOSITS.

These are to be found on lands near Gore, in the Stanthorpe Mineral Field, and are protected by six leases, covering an area of 44 acres 1 rood 16 perches. The deposits are about 3½ miles from the main South-Western Railway line, and to connect therewith it is proposed to erect a light tramway. The route being almost level throughout, the construction will be of the simplest character, principally along a Government road. Water sufficient for requirements is obtainable.

Mr. DUNSTAN, F.G.S., reports:—

"The rocks in the locality are slates, limestones, and quartzites, which all appear to be regularly bedded, the slates extending over a large area of country, the limestones and quartzites forming long, narrow parallel belts, alternating with the slates."

"The strike is north-east and south-east, the outcrops occurring at places in both directions for miles."

"THE QUALITY OF THE STONE AT GORE IS EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD. IT IS VERY COMPACT, AND IS PRACTICALLY FREE FROM IRON, ALUMINA, AND MAGNESIA, AND NO HESITATION NEED BE FELT ABOUT ITS SUITABILITY IN THE MANUFACTURE OF CEMENT OF THE HIGHEST STANDARD."

SHALES AND CLAYS.

Large deposits of these commodities are located in a ridge from 27ft (at the railway cutting) to 50ft in height, which runs through the property at right angles to the railway, and, as this would only entail "face" working, the shales and clays can be obtained at a minimum of cost with easy transit.

Mr. DUNSTAN states:—

"In a section of the Darra railway cutting 27ft of clay, sandy and ferruginous slates are exposed, which evidently extend over the property, and in some places with an elevation of 50ft above the railway."

"THE SHALES CONTAIN VARYING PERCENTAGES OF IRON, SILICA, AND ALUMINA, AND THE QUANTITIES ARE PRACTICALLY INEXHAUSTIBLE. THEY ARE EMINENTLY SUITED FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF CEMENT ON ACCOUNT OF THEIR VARYING AMOUNTS OF THE ESSENTIAL INGREDIENTS—ALUMINA AND SILICA—TOGETHER WITH THE PRESENCE OF IRON IN SOME OF THE BEDS OF SHALE."

Further—

"THE GORE LIMESTONES AND THE DARRA SHALES WOULD MAKE A PERFECT COMBINATION FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF PORTLAND CEMENT."

COAL.

As only 14,000 to 15,000 tons of coal will be consumed in the manufacture of 30,000 tons of cement (this being the suggested present capacity of the proposed works), the Directors are of the opinion that this can be obtained more economically from the numerous mines that surround the works. Should the Company decide at any time to mine its own coal there is every indication that coal seams underlie the property.

WATER.

The question of the quantities of water required and the method of obtaining same will be determined by the process of manufacture ultimately decided upon, viz., the "dry" or "wet slurry" process. Negotiations are in progress with the Water and Sewerage Board for a supply of water from their mains sufficient for the Company's requirements. Failing that, the maximum cost of obtaining water independent of process is estimated by Messrs. Frew at £3300.

COST OF MANUFACTURE.

The Directors have devoted careful thought and inquiry to this important question, and the following is the result of their investigations on the basis of 30,000 tons of manufactured cement:—

Limestone delivered at factory	£24,200
Coal delivered at factory	5,625
Clay and Shale delivered at factory	1,500
Repairs, Lubrication, etc.	1,500
Labour and Laboratory Expenses	8,250
Bags (not allowing for returns)	9,000
Management, General Expenses, and Depreciation	6,250
Total	£56,425

This is equivalent to 37/7 per ton at factory, or, adding freight from works, 40/1 per ton at Brisbane.

THE DIRECTORS ARE IN POSSESSION OF A GUARANTEE FROM A PROMINENT FIRM OF ENGINEERS, AUSTRALIAN AGENTS FOR A CONTINENTAL COMPANY SPECIALISING IN CEMENT MACHINERY MANUFACTURE, IN WHICH THEY UNDERTAKE TO MANUFACTURE STANDARD CEMENT FROM THE MATERIALS AVAILABLE AT A TOTAL MAXIMUM COST OF 35/ PER TON ON A 30,000 TON PER ANNUM OUTPUT AT WORKS, OR 37/6 AT BRISBANE.

PRICES.

One of the large importers of Portland Cement in Brisbane furnishes the folliwing as the net wholesale prices prevailing on wharf at Brisbane during the past five years:—

	Per Ton.		Per Ton.
1908—August to October	71/4	1911—August to November	70/8
1908—November to December	69/10	1911—November to December	71/1½
1909—February to March	68/9½	1912—January to October	73/11
1909-10—April to February	68/3½	1912-13—November to February	75/6
1910—March to April	71/1	1913—March to December	77/8
1910-11—May to July	70/8	1914—Present price	74/8

The average price over the past five years in Brisbane is, therefore, 71/11½ per ton.

The price at which the Brisbane Water and Sewerage Board have recently placed a contract for 82,000 casks of cement, equal to 13,400 tons, is 74/9 per ton.

The Queensland Public Works Department, large consumers of cement, give the following as being prices paid by them:—1911, 87/ per ton; 1912, 93/ per ton; 1913, 82/6 per ton.

PROFITS.

Taking a conservative extract from the above, it is possible to arrive at a reliable anticipation of the profits which would accrue from the manufacture of Portland Cement in Queensland under the conditions which this Company will be working:—

	Per Ton.
LOWEST NET WHOLESALE PRICE ON WHARF AT BRISBANE DURING THE PAST FIVE YEARS	68/3½
ESTIMATED COST OF CEMENT MANUFACTURED AT DARRA AND DELIVERED IN BRISBANE	40/1
ESTIMATED PROFIT PER TON	28/2½

Upon the assumption that with a 30,000 ton per annum output a third will be shipped for consumption in Central and Northern Queensland, it has been considered prudent to figure on a lower realised price for 10,000 tons, in view of the small difference in freights from Brisbane and Sydney to these parts. The estimated annual profit is therefore:—

28/2½ PER TON ON 20,000 TONS SOLD IN BRISBANE	£28,208 6 8
10/2½ PER TON ON 10,000 TONS SOLD OUT OF BRISBANE	5,104 3 4
TOTAL	£33,312 10 0

Upon the present issue of 100,000 shares of £1 each, this estimated profit shows an ample margin for substantial dividend, after providing for all contingencies.

WORKS, MACHINERY, AND PLANT.

Estimates have been obtained from several directions for the erection of suitable works equipped with the most modern plant for Portland Cement manufacture, so constructed as to allow for expansion when necessary. The capital that would be required to establish works of a 30,000 ton per annum capacity, with all necessary buildings, machinery, power, sidings, trucks, etc., and ample provision for working capital and contingencies, is estimated at £70,000.

AMONGST THE GUARANTEES AND OFFERS OF CAPITAL RECEIVED BY THE DIRECTORS IN SEVERAL DIRECTIONS IS ONE EMBRACING THE FOLLOWING UNDERTAKING FROM A TRUSTWORTHY AND RELIABLE SOURCE:—
1.—TO PROVIDE AND ERECT ALL NECESSARY BUILDINGS, PLANT, AND EQUIPMENT OF THE LATEST PATTERN AND SUITABLE TO THE COMPANY'S RAW MATERIALS AT A COMPETITIVE PRICE TO BE SUBMITTED AND AGREED UPON.
2.—TO MANUFACTURE NOT LESS THAN 20,000 TONS PER ANNUM OF PORTLAND CEMENT, TO PASS THE GOVERNMENT TEST, WITH THE MATERIALS AT THE COMPANY'S DISPOSAL.
3.—THE COST OF MANUFACTURE OF 20,000 TONS NOT TO EXCEED 38/6 PER TON ON TRUCKS AT WORKS, OF 30,000 TONS 35/ PER TON.
4.—TO ACCEPT 10,000 SHARES IN PART PAYMENT OF THE CONTRACT PRICE, WHICH, HOWEVER, THEY WILL SACRIFICE IF THEY FAIL IN THE UNDERTAKING.

MANAGEMENT.

To secure a fully-qualified and experienced works-manager is a very essential feature in the successful manufacture of Portland Cement, and the Directors intend to spare no effort towards that end.

With this object in view preliminary negotiations have been concluded with a European Cement Expert with considerable Australian manufacturing experience, in whose management the Directors would have every confidence.

SUMMARY.

Careful perusal of the foregoing discloses the following facts:—
1. SUITABLE RAW MATERIALS ARE TO BE FOUND IN ABUNDANCE ON THE COMPANY'S PROPERTIES.
2. THEY CONTAIN ALL THE NECESSARY INGREDIENTS FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF A PERFECT PORTLAND CEMENT.
3. CEMENT MADE FROM THESE MATERIALS, WITH VERY PRIMITIVE APPLIANCES, IN THE PRESENCE OF THE GOVERNMENT RAILWAY TESTING OFFICER, FULFILLED ALL THE REQUIREMENTS EXPECTED OF IT.
4. THE DEMAND IS ASSURED, THE CONSUMPTION IN QUEENSLAND DURING 1913 BEING 36,000 TONS, AND INCREASING RAPIDLY, WHILST THIS COMPANY'S OUTPUT IN 1915 WILL ONLY BE 30,000 TONS.
5. THE PRESENT WHOLESALE NET PRICE OF CEMENT ON WHARF IN BRISBANE IS 74/8 PER TON; THE LOWEST PRICE DURING THE PAST FIVE YEARS IS 68/3½. THE COST OF THE COMPANY'S CEMENT DELIVERED IN BRISBANE IS ESTIMATED AT 40/1. UNDER THE MOST UNFAVOURABLE CONDITIONS, THEREFORE, KNOWN IN THE PAST 5 YEARS, THERE WOULD BE A MARGIN OF 28/2½ PER TON ON CEMENT SOLD IN BRISBANE.
6. AMPLE PROTECTION EXISTS AGAINST IMPORTED CEMENT, THE EXTENT BEING 44/9 PER TON ON FOREIGN, 39/9 ON ENGLISH, AND 13/8 ON NEW SOUTH WALES, WITH PROSPECT OF INCREASE.
7. AMONGST OTHERS A GUARANTEE HAS BEEN OBTAINED FROM THE AGENTS OF A CONTINENTAL FIRM OF CEMENT MACHINERY MANUFACTURERS TO TURN OUT NOT LESS THAN 20,000 TONS PER ANNUM OF PORTLAND CEMENT WITH THE MATERIALS AVAILABLE, TO PASS THE GOVERNMENT TEST, AND AT A COST NOT MORE THAN 38/6 PER TON ON 20,000 TONS AND 35/ ON 30,000 TONS, UNDER A PENALTY OF £10,000.

CHAPTER XXVII.

Clive only retained a vague impression of what he saw. He hated the whole thing, and wanted to be through with it. The heat oppressed him, and now and again he was conscious of a rank odour which produced a sense of nausea within him. He did not want to listen to a dissertation on natural history, in which both of his companions indulged, arguing together this point and that, as if it were for his special benefit. Mr. Hartridge, in his wheeled chair, was always close beside him, and so he could not hurry along without seeming rude.

What a lot of hideous things the world contained. That was the chief impression in Clive's mind. He hated the ugly, squatting toads which may have been innocent enough but which left him with an impression of disgusting nightmare; he did not mind the lizards so much, with their bright eyes and changing hues, nor the green and yellow frogs, nor some of the gaudy beetles—but these were the exceptions—Mr. Hartridge's fame went out to the malignant, the poisonous, the abominable, and of such there was a rich variety.

At last they came to the place where the larger reptiles were kept. Here, in the centre, was a great pool of shallow water, in which alligators—one or two of great size—lurked sleepily. All around were the snakes, torpid for the most part, but some of them viciously active—lifting their horrid heads, protruding their fangs, and gazing at their visitors out of their cruel menacing eyes. They seemed to fascinate Mr. Richard, and the whole aspect of his face changed as he watched them.

The puff-adders had not yet been transferred to their permanent quarters. They were still contained in the boxes in which they had travelled, and Goddard removed the outer covering of these, one after another, in order that the creatures might be examined.

There were three of them, their bodies harmonising with the tawny soil upon which they lay. Clive noticed the red band between their eyes, and Goddard called his attention to certain marks which differentiated this particular, and most venomous, species from the better-known kinds.

Mr. Richard Hartridge was intensely interested, for this was the first time that he had really examined his new acquisitions. As Clive told himself, he seemed to gloat over them—he had one of the boxes lifted up for him so that he could bring his face quite near to the plateglass panel which was let in at the side, and he laughed delightedly when the creature, but little accustomed as yet to its captivity, made a vicious dart with its head against the glass.

The sight sickened Clive. He wanted nothing so much now as to get away.

"I really think I must be going," he ventured at last. Surely, he reflected, he had done all that politeness demanded of him. "I've inflicted my society upon you quite a long time for a first visit, Mr. Hartridge."

"Oh, but that's a pity," was the reply. "We shall be feeding the alligators almost immediately—it's very curious to see them. Well, if you really must go," he continued, taking Clive's hand and holding it for a moment, "I won't detain you. Goddard shall see you out. But you'll come to see me again, won't you?"

Clive assured him that he would, and then, accompanied by Goddard, who had been standing close behind him all this time, he retraced his steps through the insect home, towards the drawing-room.

Clive walked briskly, looking neither to the right nor to the left, and not saying a word to his companion. He was anxious to get away. That curious nausea had come over him again. It was the sight of Mr. Hartridge's face, perhaps, when the snake had made its dart. He had a longing for fresh air. Then, besides the nausea, he had a stronger feeling, something which he could hardly explain to himself, except that it was a violent loathing, a physical repugnance for the horrid creatures by which he was surrounded. It seemed as if every one of them, inimical to mankind in general, was particularly hostile to himself.

Without any tangible reason he felt his flesh creeping, his blood running cold.

He had almost reached the glass door that opened to the drawing-room when a slight tickling sensation at his throat made him lift his hands quickly. His fingers came in contact with something—something that was soft and oh! horror—alive. With a violent effort, uttering a sharp cry of disgust and alarm, he flung the thing from him. He heard it fall to the ground. He was just conscious of a glint of yellow as it ran, with the rapidity of a mouse, over the floor. He knew then, almost instinctively, and with a sensation of sickening disgust, that he had brushed from his neck one of the horrible spiders, the Galeodes, with which he had already made acquaintance.

He tried to stamp upon it as it fell, but the creature was much too quick for him, nor could Goddard, though he sped in pursuit, succeed in arresting its flight. The spider vanished among the overhanging fronds of some fern planted close to the ground, and further pursuit was obviously futile.

Clive stood up, rubbing at his neck where the creature had rested upon his skin, uncertain for the moment whether he had been stung or not. A rush of colour came to his cheeks and there was a heavy frown upon his brow. He couldn't understand how this thing had happened, and he was angry, struggling to stifle the words which were rising to his lips.

"By jove, Darrell, I'm awfully sorry, I don't know what to say; I can't make out how the beast got free. You're not stung, are you?"

Goddard, his features drawn together with sudden fear, his ruddy cheeks blanched, muttered the words excitedly. His concern was, to all appearance, genuine and spontaneous.

"No, I don't think I'm stung," returned Clive, swallowing with some difficulty the more violent expressions that suggested themselves. "But, damn it, man, you're responsible for the safe-keeping of these beastly creatures, aren't you? The least you could do is not to let them out."

His first and very comprehensible alarm was passing away. He had not been hurt. He had been too quick, and had swept the spider from his throat before it had time to do any harm, but it had been a narrow escape, and even now, when the danger was over, he shuddered, still under the sense of loathing caused by the touch of the horrid poisonous vermin.

Goddard was still muttering excuses. He had the appearance of a man who had suffered a tremendous shock, whose nerves had been upset to a terrifying degree. Clive, regarding him now, noticed this, and broke into a strained laugh.

"Why, how frightened you look, man! It's all right, I tell you. I'm not hurt, and I'm sorry if I spoke a little rough just now, but there was reason for it—you'll admit that there was reason."

Mr. Hartridge had come up by now, wheeling himself quickly over the smooth stone floor, and calling out, as he came, to know what was the matter. When Goddard explained, in faltering tones, that one of the Galeodes had escaped, and that Mr. Darrell had been within an ace of being stung, he became violently angry, and, regardless of Clive's presence, abused Goddard in no measured tones.

The latter, evidently accustomed to such manifestations of temper, did not attempt to defend himself until his employer's first wrath had spent itself. Then he explained that if the Galeodes had got free he himself had not the remotest knowledge of how the accident could have happened.

"I had a look at them myself this morning," he declared, "and they were perfectly safe then; that I can swear to."

He walked quickly to a spot, a few yards away, where the spiders were housed, and made a careful examination of the glass structure in which they dwelt. It was, to all appearances, perfectly intact.

Meanwhile Mr. Hartridge was making his excuses to Clive. He was loud in his protestations of anger and annoyance. It was disgraceful that such a thing should have occurred, and he would certainly find out who was the culprit and make an example of him. It must, of course, have been one of the men whose duty it was to clean out the place. He had very probably knocked over the bell-shaped bowl under which the spiders were housed, and so allowed of an escape. But, thank heaven, there had been no serious consequences, and Clive had escaped unhurt. The sting of a Galeodes was a serious matter, so he went on to explain, and it might, under certain conditions, even be fatal. The throat was a particularly bad place in which to be stung, as the venom would enter the blood much more freely and easily than by way of the hand and foot, where such stings were usually received.

Under the circumstances Clive could do no more than treat the whole affair as lightly as possible. At the same time, he was more than ever eager to take his departure from Swaneham Court. "It will be some time before this infernal insect house sees me again," he mentally decided, as, forcing a smile, he accepted Mr. Hartridge's apologies, and again shook him by the hand.

"There are three of the creatures got out," Goddard announced, as he rose from his examination of the spiders' house to conduct Clive to the door; "that is to say," he added, "that as far as I can make out there are three of them missing. But who on earth has done it, any why—why?" He kept muttering to himself as he followed Clive, and it was as if the words were not intended for his companion to hear.

Clive, however, took them as addressed to himself. "Why, it must have been an accident, of course," he declared. "What else?"

"Yes, of course, it was an accident," agreed Goddard, "and I hope, Darrell, you'll acquit me of blame. One of those idiotic assistants of mine—careless fellows, who don't know their work; but I'm sorry—I'm sorry—that you should have had such a fright."

Clive shrugged his shoulders with assumed carelessness.

"Oh, a beastly spider," he said; "let's forget all about it. But I wish I had crushed it. If these creatures are not properly shut up they're better dead."

With which he shook Goddard's hand and took his departure. When he reached a turn in the path which plunged him into the wood he glanced back over his shoulder. Goddard was still standing at the front door, staring after him. Clive waved his hand, but the other man took no notice whatever.

Clive walked back to the Castle with all possible speed. He felt defiled, unclean, and all his flesh was a-tingle. He could imagine the touch of those hairy vermin legs still upon him, and he wanted to tear his clothes off and wash his body from head to foot.

But of course it was an accident, he kept repeating to himself; not the sort of thing to make any fuss about or to take offence over. His absurd and exaggerated loathing of spiders and vermin of the kind was more to blame than anything else for what he felt now. Certainly he had had a narrow escape from what might have been a nasty sting; still he had escaped, and there was an end of it.

When he reached the Castle he hurried up to his room and took his clothes off, shaking out every separate article with the greatest care, for if three of the spiders had escaped wasn't it quite possible that he might have carried one away with him? He found nothing, however, and after he had had a bath and redressed himself in clean clothes he felt better, and almost inclined to laugh at the whole adventure. He had his dinner, and occupied himself for the rest of the evening by writing a long letter to his mother. Then he went quietly to bed.

Perhaps it was not strange, however, that he should be visited by nightmare dreams. He had dropped off to sleep directly his head touched the pillow, but he woke up again almost directly, trembling in every limb, his forehead bathed in sweat. And he could not recall what he had been dreaming of save that it was of something horrible, some formless thing which had stood obstructing his path, and which seemed at first inanimate—without life—but as soon as he tried to pass it by had shown a hideous face, and had stretched out thin, white arms, streaked with veins that stood out like whipcord, and the fingers were crooked inwards, and had talon nails, and it was as if they tried to clutch him—it was their clammy contact upon his flesh that woke him up.

He lay awake for some time, but this was almost as bad as being asleep, for his nerves had worked themselves up into an excited state—as bad as the night when he had heard the footsteps outside his door.

Once again the long shadows, creeping up the walls, took on actual shapes; he could distinguish draped figures—very much as in his dream—long arms that threatened—and faces that regarded him ominously and menacingly. Two little gleams of light, thrown somehow by the fire, flickered upon the ceiling, and they were like two red eyes blinking at him. He tried to occupy his mind by attempting to find out how they originated, but the effort was futile, for something else kept cropping up to divert his attention.

Then there were sounds. One or twice he was quite certain that he heard footsteps outside—then they were in the gallery, creeping stealthily along. He remembered that he had not locked his door, and wanted to jump out of bed to do so, but his limbs were like lead, and he could not move them. And so he would drop off to sleep again, only to wake up afresh, after some vision more ghastly than the last, to go through the whole performance once more.

And this went on till dawn flickered through the cracks of the shutters, and the room was illuminated with a dull, grey light. Then it was that Clive awoke from a deeper sleep than he had yet experienced, and it was with the same sense of loathing upon him that he had felt at Swaneham Court when the spider had touched his neck, the same nausea in his throat, the same sense of being in the presence of a foul thing.

He sat up in bed, rubbing his eyes, and realising that dawn must have broken, because the fire had burnt itself out, and he could dimly discern the various articles of furniture in his room.

There were two little diamond-shaped openings in the shutters, and through these a suggestion of sunlight streaked through straight on to his bed and in the light thus provided, he became aware of something that glinted yellow upon the counterpane.

He stared at it for a few moments, still half asleep, and then, with a sensation as if cold water was being poured down his spine, and a stiffening at the roots of his hair, he realised that the thing was moving—that it had long, hairy legs and horrid mandibles and fangs with black tips—and that it was advancing—crawling along the bed clothes—crawling towards him.

With a shout, that was almost a scream, he sprang out of bed, and, a fury of wrath seizing him, he gripped the first weapon that came to his hand—it happened to be his revolver, lying as usual by the side of his bed—and with the butt end of this he struck and struck again, blindly and frantically, but luckily with effect.

One, at least, of the lost Galeodes was put out of harm's way for ever.

But how had it come there—upon Clive's bed? God in Heaven—that was the question—how had it come there?

EDUCATION.

THE QUALIFYING CERTIFICATE.

Mr. H. D. M'Lelland, acting chief inspector, has issued an interesting report on the qualifying certificate examination. It is stated that in previous years the plan was tried of preparing different sets of papers for various parts of the State. Certain questions in each set were framed with reference to the pupil's environment, agricultural, pastoral, mining industrial, and metropolitan. Though such a plan had much to recommend it, experience revealed difficulties and disadvantage in putting it into practice. It was, therefore, decided this year to prepare one set of papers for the whole State. The special aim kept in view was that the questions should test how far the pupils had been trained, not merely to memorise facts, but to show some power to think about the facts and give connected expression to their thoughts. Slightly more than half of the pupils examined were able to meet such a test. The remainder failed.

PURPOSE OF THE EXAMINATION.

The real aim of the examination is to test the thoroughness of the instruction given during the primary course, and to select from among those who pass the test the pupils best fitted for higher education, both by mental endowment and sound preparation. Failure to pass the examination cannot be attributed to the difficulty of the questions, provided the candidates had completed the fifth class work. They were framed in strict accordance with the standard set in the syllabus, and the success of pupils from certain schools is a sufficient commentary on any complaint or excuse that too high a standard was expected from the ordinary boy or girl. That standard, it is stated, will not be lowered. No system of cramming can bring success at the examination. Sound teaching over a number of years in the primary school is expected to, and will, develop in all normal pupils the power to think clearly, and to express clearly what they think in the field in which they have been working.

TEACHERS OF COOKERY.

Mr. P. Board, Director of Education, states that an examination will be held on November 30 for candidates for training as teachers of cookery. Six candidates will be selected, the selection to be based on the results of the written examination and the certificates in the domestic science courses. The following conditions must be observed:—(a) Candidates are required to be at least 20 years of age on January 1, 1915; (b) the written examination will be on the subjects of English (including dictation and composition) and arithmetic, the standard being equivalent to that prescribed for the "Course of Instruction for Domestic Science in Superior Public Schools," but without the study of special authors; (c) before being received into training, candidates must satisfy the principal medical officer of the department as to their physical fitness. A similar examination will be held during the last quarter of 1915, but as the holding of the intermediate certificate is now a condition of acceptance as scholarship holders, admission to training at the end of the technical courses in subsequent years will be determined by the probable vacancies for cookery teachers and a consideration of the relative merits of candidates, as shown by their certificates. Candidates seeking training in cookery courses with a view to employment in schools not under the department, may enter such courses upon certain conditions, but in their case a fee will be charged for the professional training.

DEFERRED METHOD EXAMINATION.

It is stated by the department that the marks gained by ex-students of the Teachers' Training College in the deferred method paper will be combined with the marks obtained in the education papers taken during their training college course. Should a student fail in the deferred method paper, and by so doing cause his combined mark to fall below 50 per cent., he will be allowed to take the method paper again. After the second attempt, should the combined mark still be below 50 per cent., it will be necessary for him to take the education paper prescribed for second or third class, as the case may be, at the annual examination of teachers. Second-year students who left the college in December, 1913, are required to take their deferred examination in method at Easter, 1915, or later. The paper will be arranged in the following sections and subsections:—A: English, mathematics, history and geography, modern languages, Latin, nature study and science. B: Drawing, handicraft, singing and voice production, gardening, physical training, domestic subjects. Candidates will be required to take questions from three sections only—two from A group and one from B group. The examination will not be on set books, but will be on the subjects professed, and will test the candidate's classroom practice, as well as his knowledge of current opinion and practice.

NEW SCHOOLS.

The department has granted provisional schools at Chowar, near Moulamein; Gulligal, near Boggabri; Bridgelo, near Bylong; Glen Legh, near Glencoe; Baker's Creek, near Armidale; Terragon, near Uki; and at Blow Clear, near West Wyalong. Half-time schools have been granted at The Nile, near Glen Alice; and at Canandias, near Glen Alice. The applications for provisional schools at Cocomingla, near Cowra; Washpool, near Stroud; Mila (post town); Hiawatha, near West Wyalong; Ballengarra, near Rolland's Plains; Clifden, near Grafton; High Park, near Eugowra; Greenland, near Nimmitabel; Archerfield, near Singleton; Curracabad, near Baan Baa; Boxley, near Walcha-road; Galong Creek, near Galong; Camboon, near Rylstone; and Athol, near Uralla; and for Public schools at Anabranch, near Wentworth; Fairfield West, near Fairfield; and Rhondda, near Teralba, have been declined.

THE BROTHERLY LOVE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Mr. Thos. F. Milne and "Ancient and Modern," who have replied to my letter respecting the ship in which Captain Cook served his apprenticeship, have thrown no light on the matter. They are both dealing with a "brig" named "Brotherly Love," whereas what really has to do with the question is "a ship" of 450 tons, built at Whitby, and owned by Messrs. Walker, and named "Freelove." No change of ownership can convert a ship of 450 tons into a brig of 214 tons—"Ancient and Modern" says 101 tons.

Mr. Arthur Kitson, author of "Captain James Cook," published in 1907, who is on the spot, has made exhaustive inquiries, and, having before him other authors' books on the subject, has tested their statements, and has almost proved beyond doubt that the "Freelove" was lost "with one hundred and fifty passengers and the winter's supply of gingerbread for Whitby." The authority for this statement is given as the Yorkshire "Gazette."

"Lloyd's Register" of 1848 has no "Brotherly Love," nor has the 1862 copy, both in my possession. But the question is narrowed down to a ship of 450 tons being Cook's "Freelove," which could never have been afterwards a brig of either 214 or 101 tons, named "Brotherly Love."

I am, etc.,

ITCHING PILES CURED.

Mr. James Higgins, 21 Terry-street, Surry Hills, Sydney, says:—"Some years ago I suffered a lot from Itching Piles, the irritation being very trying, particularly so at night and during the hot weather. A friend advised me to try Doan's Ointment, and, knowing how good Doan's Kidney Pills were, I got a pot at once, and it proved a blessing. After a few applications I got relief, and as I continued applying the remedy the improvement was maintained, until finally the Piles completely disappeared. Five years have elapsed since I used Doan's Ointment, and I have had no return of the ailment all that time. I cannot speak too highly of Doan's Ointment, and recommend it to other sufferers."

Doan's Ointment is sold by all chemists and storekeepers at 2/9 per pot, or will be posted on receipt of price by Foster-McClellan Co., 76 Pitt-street, Sydney.

But be sure you get DOAN'S.—Advt.

DR. VON LEHR'S cure for grey hair—Surmanol—will bring the natural colour back to the greyest, whitest hair so easily—so simply—so quickly, that you will be filled with delight—wonder—gratitude. This is the first time in the history of Science that grey hair has been banished without the use of dyes or stains or restorers, or hair tints. It is a subtle, cunning, wonderful hair tonic—not for the growth of the hair, but for the COLOUR ONLY. It strikes at the weakened glands that supply the hair with its colour, and makes them strong and healthy again, so that they fill every grey or white hair with that deep full rich colour which was in them before the hair went grey. This is important: What colour was your hair before it went grey? Brown? Black? Golden? Flaxen? Light Brown? Red? Surmanol will bring that colour—that NATURAL colour, back to every single grey thread, and then you can leave off Surmanol, for that greyness can never—never return. No matter how long your hair has been grey, or what caused it, Surmanol will banish the greyness from it and make the scalp so strong and healthy and robust that year after your hair will never show another sign of greyness.

GREY HAIR CURED WITHOUT DYES.

You have no notion how many thousands of men and women folk in Australia are now curing their own grey hair in their own homes with Surmanol. Since Surmanol was brought to Australia a few months ago hundreds and hundreds of folk HAVE ALREADY CURED THEIR OWN GREY HAIR. Just think what it means. It means that you can do in weeks what it once took years to do—cure grey hair without dyeing or staining it. Dyes and stains ruin the hair, because they rot the roots and make the hair fall out in handfuls. What a blessing—what a comfort—what a boon, therefore, is this CURE, Surmanol. Surmanol is not a dye or stain. It commences to act the day after you start using it, and in a week or 10 days you find a dark ring at the roots of every grey thread. This dark colour creeps—creeps—creeps through the whole length of every grey thread until, in quite a short while, every trace of greyness has vanished, and your hair is just as it was before greyness set in. That greyness can never, never return, for hour after hour, night and day, year after year, the scalp is supplying the hair with that grand colour which makes greyness impossible again. Surmanol is 5s (post free 5s 9d) from The Edgeworth Laboratories, Hoffnung's chambers (1st Floor), Pitt-street, Sydney (near G.P.O.). When writing describe your hair and scalp troubles fully.

SCORES, 11 POINTS TO 3.

ENGLAND'S SECOND DEFEAT.

GREAT FOOTBALL ATTENDANCE.

In the second game of their tour the English Northern Union team were again outplayed by four goals and one try to one try—11 points to 3—on the Sydney Cricket Ground, before an attendance of about 49,000 people.

All round the playing arena the people were packed in dense masses, and from that heaped-up pile of sodden humanity steam rose as from a herd of driven cattle on a wintry day. Jupiter Pluvius was extremely unkind in refusing so liberal a supply of water, which brought forth complimentary remarks from the hundreds of spectators who had left their cup-coats or umbrellas at home.

TYPICAL ENGLISH CONDITIONS.

Although the Englishmen showed to more advantage than on Saturday last, they were again the most disappointing. The weather conditions were typically English, and the ground, particularly in the second half, was wet and muddy—just the sort of conditions that all English players are accustomed to; yet the New South Wales team kept them busily defending for three parts of the game. At half-time the scores favoured the home side by five to 3, and when the Englishmen started off in their clean jerseys for the second spell the field looked dismal enough to sadden the heart of any ordinary man. It soon became difficult to distinguish any particular player from the collection of mud-begrimed warriors who were slipping and floundering around like novices at a skating carnival. Yet the New South Wales team more than held their own throughout.

THE VISITORS' FORM.

It would be pleasant to be able to write appreciatively about the play of our visitors, in face of the adverse criticism of their performance on Saturday last; but the position is hopeless, as they were beaten fore and aft, both during the first half, when the field was in fair going order, and in the second half, when the playing conditions were entirely altered by the heavy showers that fell.

Summed up, the game does not call for much comment. It could hardly be called a dull display, and yet little brilliancy was shown. The huge crowd received but few thrills. However, they looked on earnestly, and waited expectantly, but received nothing to make them forget the rain or draw them from underneath the dripping umbrellas.

A BLOT ON THE GAME.

During the first half of the game there were no fewer than 26 free kicks awarded—16 to New South Wales and 10 to England—and a total of 48 for the game. This factor dispels any thought of describing the play as being first-class. For forwards to be penalised so persistently for free kicks, interferences, and off-side is both detrimental to scientific football and monotonous to all concerned. On Saturday last there were 49 free kicks throughout the game, chiefly brought about by faulty scrum work. Surely such figures are unworthy of first-class football.

THE SUBSTITUTE QUESTION.

Another disquieting feature of the afternoon was the stand again taken by the English management in not sending another player on in place of Hall, who received a nasty blow on the head, and was compelled to leave the field during the first portion of the game. This accident disorganised the English team, deprived the spectators of an evenly-fought contest, and robbed the visitors of the fruits of their achievement. When in England visiting teams conform to the customs and wishes of their hosts, so why not England when returning these visits?

BRILLIANT AUSTRALIANS.

Hallett at full-back was almost perfect—nothing ruffled him, and some of his kicking was truly wonderful. Horder was probably the outstanding figure in the game. He was as elusive as a hare, and handled the ball about as if a muddy ground were his specialty. Horder further emphasised his versatility by excellent goal kicking after Messenger, through an injury to his knee, had been replaced by Fraser.

The New South Wales forwards merit commendation for their grit and endurance in sticking to their burly opponents all through, and even gained points over them at every department of the forward game. Halloway and Norman were a happier and more reliable pair than in the previous encounter, and showed admirable judgment in altering their play to meet the altered conditions by short kicking when attempted passing movements with the soddened ball was not practicable.

It was not a superb triumph that New South Wales won, just a victory built by brains, stamina, and resolution over brawn and muscle.

The English worked conscientiously, but they had no outstanding player in their ranks.

The official return gives the attendance 48,660, and the takings £2913.

THE PLAY.

New South Wales won the toss, and played with the wind. Jarman kicked-off, and Hallett's return found the line at centre. From a scrummage New South Wales carried play to England's twenty-five, but Davies sent the ball back to neutral territory. England's forwards came away from the scrummage very smartly, and crowded the backs. For some minutes the play was characterised by vigorous forward play, with Rogers, Hall, and Wagstaff occasionally handling with effect. However, Hallett's powerful line-kicking thwarted England's onslaught. Coldrick and Holland were very prominent with fine footwork, and carried play to New South Wales twenty-five. Here a cross-kick by Hallett failed to reach touch, and the alert Moorhouse, racing at top speed, gathered the ball, and passed in-field to Wagstaff, and the English captain, running strongly, outpaced his opponents, and scored England's only try. The position, though handy, proved too much for Rogers, who missed the goal. England 3, New South Wales nil—after five minutes' play.

FREQUENT PENALTIES.

Feet up in the scrummage and off-side in the loose rushes were causing many penalties. Both teams seemed at fault, as Referee M'Mahon was distributing his favours equally. Messenger made one very good attempt, the ball just passing outside the post.

NEW SOUTH WALES AGGRESSIVE.

A fine line kick by Hallett gained much ground for New South Wales. He also tried at goal, but the ball struck the post, and shot over the goal-line, where Wagstaff was caught before he could force. From the ensuing scrummage the State team was penalised, and England relieved. Messenger made another attempt at goal from a penalty, without success, but he made amends immediately afterwards by goaling from another penalty. England, 3; New South Wales, 2.

Immediately after resuming Messenger was injured, and had to retire, C. Frazer, of Balmain, taking his place. Shortly afterwards Kelly made a spirited dash towards goal, but his pass to Burge was forward, and a splendid opportunity of scoring was missed. The game was fast and exhilarating, and the Englishmen gave occasional glimpses of their reputed form. Davies made one particularly fine run, but Hallett just got to him in time.

REAL ENGLISH CONDITIONS.

It was now raining hard, and the Englishmen seemed quite at home under the altered conditions. They attacked for some minutes, until Halloway drove them back with a well-placed line kick. However, the visitors came again, and Stokers got his backs moving in fine style. The ball travelled from the half-back to Wagstaff, to Hall, back to Wagstaff, then to Davies, who was forced out a few yards short of the line. It was a superb piece of combination, and brought the crowd to their feet. Good line-kicking by Hallett worked the ball to England's twenty-five, where Horder landed a magnificent penalty goal. New South Wales now led by four points to three.

HALL RETIRES INJURED.

Hall, the English stand-off half, received a nasty knock on the head, and, after being attended to by ambulance men, retired from the game. Following on the English custom, the ball back to neutral territory. England's forwards came away from the scrummage very smartly, and crowded the backs. For some minutes the play was characterised by vigorous forward play, with Rogers, Hall, and Wagstaff occasionally handling with effect. HALL RETIRES INJURED.

Hall, the English stand-off half, received a nasty knock on the head, and, after being attended to by ambulance men, retired from the game. Following on the English custom, the next thrill. After taking a long kick from Hallett, he raced up the touch line and brought Davies into action. The latter went ahead, and kicked into touch, the movement gaining much ground. The home side's forwards were wearing gradually their opponents down in the scrummage, and securing possession repeatedly. Halloway and his backs worked play into the Englishmen's 25, where Norman made a dash to get through, but lost possession. Kelly picked up, and after beating several opponents, passed to Halloway almost on the line, but the Eastern Suburbs half was recalled for off-side. A breach by M'Cue gave England's team an opportunity to relieve the defence, which was followed almost immediately by the half-time whistle. New South Wales, 6; England, 3.

SECOND HALF.

Fast and even play marked the reopening of the game, but neither team seemed sure of the ground, which by this time had become very slippery and treacherous. Several dashing movements were executed by the respective back divisions, but at the critical moment faulty handling pulled them up. From one of these passing rushes Moorehouse regained the ball after having lost possession, and racing towards the line transferred to Davies. The latter short punted across the line, and Kelly, coming across field at a fast clip, touched down. After Watkins had stopped a dangerous-looking rush, Horder picked up, and cleverly beating several opponents passed to Kelly, who dropped the ball.

ENGLISHMEN STRONG DEFENDERS.

From a penalty kick Burge followed on fast, and caught Jarman in possession, in his 25. A battle royal now followed for about five minutes, as from scrum after scrum the home backs tried to pierce the defence, but failed. Several times Halloway was held up by strong tackling when apparently over the line. The game for a period assumed the character of a long-distance kicking competition between the sides, as penalty kicks were frequent, so much so, that the ball would be hardly in play from one penalty than another breach would occur. The frequency of these breaches—foot up in scrum and off-side—jolted the game considerably, and spoilt the character of the play while it lasted. Jenkins changed the scene of play, however, by securing in midfield and kicking out inside the Welshmen's 25. The Englishmen were driven back only to come back to the attack more determinedly by dribbling and passing, which resulted in Thomas picking up and making a dash for the line. He was tackled strongly, and a little later Hallett from a clever mark transferred play to half-way.

HORDER'S GREAT KICK.

Sullivan secured in the mud at midfield, and, dribbling well, carried play to Jarman, who, in attempting to stop Sullivan, was penalised for illegal interference. Horder, by a great kick, goaled from within fifteen yards of half way. New South Wales now had a comfortable lead of 8 points to 3. Following on this score, N.S. Wales nearly scored again, as Fraser short-punted over Jarman's head, but in the race for the ball the Englishman won. From the kick-out, New South Wales rushed the ball back to the Englishman's line, but offside spoilt a likely-looking score. Dogged and slowly the visitors worked their way out of the danger zone to midfield, where play of a disjointed nature followed owing to the deplorable condition of the ground, which made running and handling almost an impossibility.

KELLY'S CLEVER SCORE.

Owing to the fading light, and the thick gusty rain which was falling the players were nearly indistinguishable. New South Wales carried play into the Englishmen's twenty-five, where Halloway suddenly emerged from a loose ruck in possession, and passed smartly to Kelly. The ex-New Zealander raced off like a stag, and cleverly side-stepping a brace of opponents crossed over. Horder's kick was fruitless. A little later the no-side whistle sounded with New South Wales victorious by 11 points to 3.

The teams were:—

ENGLAND.—Fullback, G. T. Thomas; three-quarters, S. Moorehouse, H. Wagstaff (capt.), R. Jenkins, W. A. Davies; halves, W. Hall (retired injured), W. Hall; forwards, J. Chilcott, D. Clark, W. Jarman, A. P. Coldrick, D. Holland, A. Johnson.

NEW SOUTH WALES.—Fullback, H. Hallett; three-quarters, H. Horder, W. Kelly, S. Deane, W. Messenger (retired injured, replaced by C. Fraser); halves, R. Norman, A. Halloway; forwards, E. Courtney, F. Burge, P. McCue, F. Burge, S. Pearce, C. Sullivan, J. Watkins.

BUILDINGS AND WORKS.

PROGRESS OF THE TRADE.

MUNICIPAL BUILDING ORDINANCES.

The suburban municipal councils have adopted building ordinances, which take the place of a Building Act; but they are not giving general satisfaction, and a movement is on foot with a view to repealing them. There is no doubt that some new system of controlling the erection of buildings in the suburbs is required. One council will permit a contractor to use a certain class of material which would be rejected by another council. Different aldermen hold different views as to the interpretation of certain clauses in the ordinances, and thus confusion often arises. In some municipalities the letter of the law must be followed, while in other districts the spirit of the Act alone is enforced. Great laxity is also shown in certain quarters in the matter of supervision, and speculative builders have often boasted of what they can do in one municipality as against another.

In some municipalities there are practical builders and architects holding positions of inspectors, and their duty is to advise the councils of defects in plans submitted for approval by the alderman. These professional men are able to judge whether a building is erected according to the approved plans.

In another municipality, however, the aldermen take unto themselves the duty of passing all plans and inspecting all buildings in course of erection. Most of the aldermen know very little about the practical side of the work of drawings, although they are able to admire a picture, and the result is that the seal of the council is frequently placed upon a set of plans which practical men would have no hesitation in rejecting. The present system, too, is open to abuse. Certain builders can tell of favours they have received which were refused to others. On the other hand, there are objectionable clauses in the ordinances. For instance, one clause sets out that the floors of all washhouses must be constructed of cement or concrete or some material impervious to moisture. To the practical mind there is no better floor than the one constructed of joists and flooring boards, providing there is a current of air and a proper system of drainage underneath. To ask a woman to stand all day washing on a cold hard cement floor is to lay the foundation for rheumatism and other troubles. Then, again, the designer of to-day very sensibly connects the kitchen and washhouse in the artisan's dwelling by means of a doorway, and very often the scullery and washhouse are well finished off as the kitchen. Why, then, should there be any difference in the material used for flooring? Many other demands are to be found in the clauses of the municipal building ordinances which are against common sense.

What is required is an up-to-date suburban Building Act, with a set of regulations based on the most modern ideas of sanitation and town planning principles, with a board of control to see that the Act is properly administered. These ideas have been suggested by practical architects and builders. However, we do away with existing ordinances, bad as they may be, until something better is framed, would, in the opinion of those able to judge, open the door to all sorts of abuse, and the system of "jerry building," which existed prior to the passing of the Local Government Act and its building ordinances, would no doubt be reverted to.

TRADES AND LABOUR.

COUNTRY GAS AWARD.

Gasworkers in the country have been granted an award, which will be gazetted on Wednesday. It is to have a currency of three years. It gives preference to unionists, but there is a clause which prevents any non-unionist being dismissed or compelled to join the union.

Wages provisions include the following:—Stokers in works with an annual output of over 15,000,000 cubic feet, 10s 4d per day; from 8,000,000 to 15,000,000, 9s; and under 8,000,000, 8s 6d; yardsmen, 8s 6d, 8s 6d, and 8s, respectively; pick and shovel men, 8s 6d; mainlaying ganger, 10s 6d; mainlayer, 10s; meter-reader, 8s; lamplighters, all round, £2 10s. Overtime generally, time and a half; for stokers, time and a quarter for Sundays, or 14 days' annual leave.

According to the secretary of the Gas Employees' Union, Mr. S. Rawlin, the award is not satisfactory. It was really a reduction upon the interim award recently granted, and the men would regard it as a step backwards. Two stokers would be required on a shift. The largest works, a short and a half on the average, for the second-grade, and one stoker for the lowest-paid grade. The man on the lowest grade would receive only 8s 6d, whereas the highest-grade man, who did the same work, would get 10s 4d. Hardly any of the men had got increases in rates, and the number of that figure. The maize crop promised well. He had been surprised to learn that the elevator system was not yet in operation in Australia. One of the Argentine elevators, that of the Great Southern Railway Company, was the largest in the world, a ship of about 7000 tons having recently been loaded from it in 14 hours.

ELECTRICIANS' AWARD.

The secretary of the Electrical Trades Union reported to the last meeting that a large number of irregularities had come under his notice, which in each case constituted a prima facie case for investigation, with a view to prosecution for breach of award. These included allegations as to the employment of unindentured youths at apprentices' wages; excess of apprentices to journeymen; non-payment of travelling time and award rates to mechanics and shift electricians. The meeting decided to report the cases indicated to the Department of Labour for investigation.

Newcastle.

ARMATURE WINDERS.

A reply has been received by the Electrical Trades Union from the Railway Commissioners, intimating that the method of computing armature winders' overtime at Randwick had been suitably adjusted. The union decided to send a further letter, asking that the adjustment on the basis of the average earnings of the staff should operate from the date of the award.

The winders submitted to the union the name of one of their number who would act as nominal prosecutor in the event of the union taking action against the department under section 26 for back pay at the rate of 11d per day per man, representing the difference between their estimated average earnings for the quarter ended December 31, 1913, and the outside award rate in operation during that period. As the Commissioner had not definitely refused the application, consideration of this matter was deferred, pending a reply from the department.

WORKERS' COMPLAINT.

BOARD'S UNFAIR QUESTIONS.

LITHGOW, Monday.

At a meeting of the local Labour Council a delegate referred to what he termed the unfair way in which employees were treated before the Wages Board. The bone of contention was that they were asked to tell how much money they spent in drink, tobacco, picture theatres, etc., and they had to give these particulars in open court. On the other hand, employers were asked to produce their books, but the evidence contained in the books was never disclosed.

I met grim Death in the park one day,
And here's what the tyrant had to say,
"I'm weary of mowing with my scythe,
Of parting children and husband and wife,
This word of advice to mortals I give:
Observe it if long you want to live:
Of victims to colds there would be fewer
If folks used 'Woods' Peppermint Cure.'"—Advt.

IN THE ARGENTINE.

DROUGHT EFFECTS.

OPENING UP THE COUNTRY.

"No rain in some of the wheat districts" poor crops; and a not too easy feeling as to the immediate future."

Thus Mr. Edgar Hardcastle, who is in business at Bahia Blanca, the principal wheat exporting centre of the Argentine, sums up the present prospects of our great producing rival. The outlook is not a happy one, for the Argentine has indulged, like other countries, in a certain amount of mild speculation, and it is at such times as these that follies come home to roost.

"But despite the outlook, money has been pouring into the Argentine from England and elsewhere. The railways are financed by English capital, and all the rolling stock is of English manufacture. Most of the wharfs, docks, and grain elevators are in the hands of English concerns."

Mr. Hardcastle, who arrived in Sydney on Saturday by the Knight of the Thistle, from Valparaiso, to which place he travelled overland, from Buenos Ayres, stated last evening that the export of wool from the Argentine was seriously decreasing, owing to the utilisation of the pastoral areas for agriculture. It was questionable whether the country had really gained much by gradually substituting wheat for wool. From Bahia Blanca, which was situated some 400 miles south of Buenos Ayres, one and a half million ton of wheat and oats had been exported four years ago. Since then, however, the inhabitants of certain of the agricultural areas had had the fruits of their labour snatched from them by drought, and the exports had fallen far short of that figure. The maize crop promised well. He had been surprised to learn that the elevator system was not yet in operation in Australia. One of the Argentine elevators, that of the Great Southern Railway Company, was the largest in the world, a ship of about 7000 tons having recently been loaded from it in 14 hours.

AERIAL-PROPELLER TUG.

FOR USE IN THE TROPICS.

According to advices received by the English mail yesterday Messrs. James Pollock, Sons, and Co., Ltd., of London, recently designed and constructed an aerial-propeller tug, driven by a 15-b.h.p. single-cylinder oil marine engine.

The tug is to be used in the tropics, and will tow 15 or 20 barges on a river. It will be steered by a native standing in the bows, who will keep it in midstream by occasionally prodding the banks.

This strange vessel has a hull of steel with a flat bottom. She is 30ft long, and has a depth of 8in. When she ran her trials on the Thames recently she was in many cases mistaken for a hydroplane by people on the banks. A satisfactory speed of five miles an hour was obtained with the vessel working against the Thames current. The engine normally runs at 450 revolutions per minute, but has been geared up to 1200 revolutions for the purpose of propelling the two-bladed propeller, which has a diameter of 9ft, and is carried between struts towards the after part of the vessel.

HOLIDAY CONVENTION.

The ninth annual holiday convention, which was held yesterday at St. Paul's Church of England, Chatswood, was attended by large audiences at every session. The conventions are for the purpose of bringing Christian people together, and giving them an opportunity of hearing the Christian religion expounded by some of the Church's ablest ministers.

At the morning session addresses were delivered by Rev. S. M. Johnstone, B.A., on "The Challenge of the Lord Jesus Christ to the Church," and Rev. A. J. H. Priest on "The Way of Holiness and how to reach it." The afternoon sessions were crowded, the church being hardly large enough to accommodate all those who attended. Rev. H. S. Begbie delivered the first address, and was followed by Rev. Ainslie Yeates, M.A., whose subject was "The Message of the Transfiguration." At the third and closing session Rev. G. Harvard Cranswick, B.A., addressed the convention on "The Meaning of the Discipleship." The rector, Rev. H. G. J. Howe, presided at each session.

FARM AND STATION.

AGRICULTURAL CLUBS.

The movement to establish boys' and girls' agricultural clubs in the different country districts is one that deserves the good wishes of all in the community. It is to be hoped that the meeting on Thursday will be well attended, and a strong association formed. This should be the case. Every business man in the city is interested in the development of rural industries, and nothing makes for a sounder development than the education of the young generation. It has been recognised for a long time that the best promise of an alteration in old methods of farming comes from those who will be the farmers of the future. It is difficult to get men reared and set along certain lines to depart radically from them, and hard to fight against prejudice or preconceived ideas. Otherwise farming would have progressed much more rapidly than has been the case. We have advocated the formation of these clubs in the past because the results secured in the United States are most encouraging. We live under very similar conditions, and should achieve equally satisfactory results. But even more important at this stage than the education of the future farmer is the desirability of inculcating into the young rural mind permanent interest and liking for farm work by broadening his mental outlook to grasp the deeper side of the industry. Farming may be merely an arduous and monotonous calling or what is almost a fascinating pursuit. In the latter case there must be first an understanding of scientific and natural laws, a knowledge that lifts prosaic farm work into a higher plane. It is mainly the difference between knowing how to do a thing (which is essential) and why it is done.

In the circular calling the meeting referred to the objects of the movement are well put:—

"As the future of our agriculture is largely dependent on the boys of to-day, it is the purpose of this club movement to assist the other forces now at work, such as the Education Department and the Agricultural Department, to arouse a keener interest in the work of agriculture in the minds of all boys between the ages of 10 and 17 inclusive. To instruct and direct them in all work relating to economical farming. To encourage diversified farming. To teach more intensive farming by following the best known methods of cultivation, selection of seed, manuring, and general crop management. To be the medium through which the latest information of the treatment and management of the different crops may be given the average boy in a form most readily assimilated. To suit the boy to his agricultural environments, and to enable him to express in his own way just what he thinks, and just what he has discovered and done in the matter of agriculture. To teach him the value of conforming to this intellectual guidance, careful observation, cultural comparison, and investigation, and the need of a broader education for the farming boy. To make an easy approach educationally to all the interest of the boy's life on the farm. The boys' demonstration plot should become not only the demonstration plot for himself, but for the parents themselves. It should become the connecting link between the parents, child, and school. It should form a co-operative atmosphere in which the commercial men of the city and the farmers of to-morrow should develop the highest ideals of life on the land. The main purpose of the organisation is to reach the boy and endeavour through instruction and direction, and the offer of rewards for his intelligence and industry, to very greatly improve present methods of cultivation, and to lay the foundation of a solid and permanent general improvement in our cultural methods.

These are laudable objects, and should attract extensive support. There should be no difficulty in securing the co-operation of the Departments of Agriculture and Public Instruction, and there is no reason to anticipate failure in the work of the association. It will take time probably for the movement to be understood thoroughly, but in the end it should create a live and permanent interest. It would probably be wise in the initial steps to concentrate attention on a limited number of centres, even one or two, as once they are solidly established and have "caught on" an extension of the work would be simple comparatively.

ENGLISH WOOL TRADE.

COMPETITION AND PRICES AT THE MAXIMUM.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, May 8.

We are now at the end of the second week of the third series of London colonial sales; in other words, about two-thirds of the way through them. There have been one or two notable changes in the course of values during the last week. The opening day saw merinos and fine crossbreds either equal to last sale's rates or 2½ to 5 per cent. higher. A good week ago, however, the Americans began to operate in earnest, and they have maintained their spirited buying. At least a few German firms and one in Switzerland have helped competition for fine wools, and it is a fact that for some parcels of greasy merinos 10 per cent. above the closing rates of March has been paid. The general advance, quotable on most fine lots, is 5 to 7½ per cent., instead of par to 5 per cent. as at the opening, and a lot secured at no advance on March rates is a very rare thing indeed. It is no uncommon thing for fine halfbred and comeback wools to sell at higher prices than merinoes, such wools being in great demand by nearly every section of buyers. Frequently 16d to 18d is bid for these wools, which is about the price at which some beautifully fine Tasmanian merinos sold on Tuesday and Thursday. All fine crossbred and merino wool is getting its full share of attention and competition, and prices have, on the whole, slightly advanced during the week. So far as one can see, there is no likelihood of their falling, not merely at these sales, but also for a few months, for wools of these descriptions are by no means plentiful.

The following is a list of the principal merino brands which have been sold this week, and the prices they have realised:—

Clifford (Q.): Greasy combk, /15 and /15¼; crossbred, /15, /14½, to /12½; pieces, /12 to /10; bellies, /10½, /10; scoured crossbred pcs, /15; locks, /13½. Thylungra: Greasy merino combing, /11½ and /11; scoured clo., /25; locks, /15, /14½. Isis Downs: Scoured fleece, /24½; pcs, /17; necks, /21, /20; bellies, /20, /19; locks, /16½, /15; lambs, /22½, /19½, /18¼, and /17½. Emmett: Scoured fleeces, /25, /24; pcs., /21½, /20; necks, /19¾; bellies, /20¼, /17¼; locks, /15¼; lambs, /20 and /15¼. Dagworth: Scoured merino comb, /26½, /26; clothing, /25, /24; pcs., /23½; bellies, /22; locks, /19. M. F. Adaford: Scoured merino combing, /25¼; clo., /22¼, necks, /21¼; broken, /21; bellies, /17; pcs., /16. Errowinbang (N.S.W.): Scoured merino combing, /23; comeback, /20¾; crossbred, /17; pieces, /17¼; bellies, /16; locks, /13¾. T. E. and Co. B. (Ltd.), in circle: Scoured merino combing, /26; clo., /22¼; pieces, /20¼, /18¼. C. Fort Burke: Scoured merino combing, /25¾, /25. Comongin (Q.): Scoured merino pieces, /14½; bellies, /16; locks, /12½; Shaw (N.S.W.): Scoured merino sup. combing, /31, /30; clo., /32; broken, /28; pieces, /28½; bellies, /24½; lambs, /19½; Morestone Downs (Q.): Greasy combing, /11½; clo., /10½; pieces, /10; bellies, /8; locks, /6¼. MEDIUM AND COARSE CROSSBREDS.

There has been wonderful competition during the week for the big quantities of New Zealand crossbreds which have been offered. "It seldom rains but it pours" is an oft-repeated saying, and the figure of speech is applicable to the catalogues this week. Some days we have had as high as 11,000 bales of crossbreds from the Dominion, and yet the market is as strong as at any time previously. It certainly is wonderful to find the home trade's capacity for absorbing these wools still to a large extent unabated, and, notwithstanding very doleful accounts emanating from Bradford, topmakers remain undismayed, but are willing to put good money into the wools. Earlier in the week competition was perhaps hardly as strong as during the opening week of the series, but towards the end of the current week fresh buyers have appeared on the scene, and those who have been holding off expecting cheaper wool seem to have made up their minds to begin to operate, the result being that quite lively sittings have again been experienced. The call for 50's to 56's quality is as keen as ever, and steady bidding is seen for 50's and below. It looks as if the offerings this series will almost absorb all the New Zealand fine halfbreds, and it is common knowledge that both home and American buyers are purchasing something for use later in the year. Some excellent figures are being paid for good halfbred wools, and evidently users have faith in the future. No doubt a good deal of substitution is being indulged in; at least, fine crossbreds are being bought for use in conjunction with merinos as much as possible.

In regard to medium and coarse crossbreds, there is a most healthy demand, and practically no change in values. Shabby 40's, which are largely unskirted fleeces, are selling, as a rule, at 10d, better parcels at 10½d, in fact from 36's to 46's wools, 10d to 11d is purchasing big weights of wool. Of course brighter and lighter fleeces, such as the Americans purchase, are being taken at 11d to 12d, and a comparison of prices for leading New Zealand clips sold to-day and about the middle of the March series shows that values are on a parity with that time. We find no change in the sale of scoured crossbreds or slipes, all of which are being absorbed most readily.

FACTORS DETERMINING WOOL PRICES.

In comparing the state of things at the present time with a year ago, one notices that many factors are now at work in the wool trade which were unknown or unfelt then. At the present moment there are more customers than ever before ready to buy Australia's, or any other country's, wool. Last year the Balkan States, by their hostilities, put the brake on the Austrian and German trades rather firmly, and also affected the trade of France to some extent. In fact, of the European countries, England was by far the best situated. The United States were very poor buyers. Nobody could expect them to take foreign wool into the country when the tariff would probably be removed a few months later.

Thus it will be seen that there are new influences at work, affecting the course of wool prices. Not the least of these influences is that of statistics. It is becoming more and more evident that people in the wool trade are taking more notice of figures, both those relating to the home trade (the mills, looms, spindles, combs, workpeople, etc.), and those relating to the oversea trade (the stations, flocks, rainfalls, etc.). They have need to do, for growing and consuming countries were never as close together as they are to-day. A good season or a bad one in Australia has an influence on Europe, and good or bad trade in Europe has an even greater influence on Australia.

BRADFORD AND PRESENT HIGH VALUES.

Bradford wool men have already seen that if wool is permanently and definitely to cost more, there will have to be a readjustment of values in every section of the industry. Trade in Yorkshire at the present moment could be much better. A large firm of worsted spinners and manufacturers failed this week. They had run their mills, but at unremunerative prices, having been compelled to pay more for tops and wools, and unable to make more for yarns and pieces. One or two topmakers have decided to give up business, one reason for their decision doubtless being that during the last two years wool has been very dear, and tops have not sold at corresponding prices. There is very little doing in Bradford at present. Owing to the price of wool, topmakers, especially merino men, cannot cede a fraction, and are compelled to quote as much as 2/7½ for a good 64's top. The little weights that users are buying, however, are being secured at 2/7, but to hope to get in below is vain. There is very little business doing in yarns. The Continent, an important customer, cannot see the way to pay present prices, and home manufacturers also are slow to do so. In fact, all round the trade it can only be said that the various sections are buying what they are forced to buy and no more. No one dare lay in large stocks of anything at present rates, and there is every justification for saying that if values all round are to be permanently higher, the change will come slowly in Bradford. It will take some time for Bradford or any other centre to become accustomed to the higher level, and when it comes, as stated last week, capital will have to be turned over more quickly to make the same profit. The value of the sovereign has depreciated of late years, in some trades more than others, and we have several times heard experienced woolmen say that 20 shillings buy little more than half the wool that they used to do.

BAD NEWS.

In addition to the above-mentioned failure, it is common gossip that two, if not three, other firms of topmakers are said to be seriously contemplating giving up business. At least three firms are spoken of, and, from what we know, there is every probability of their ceasing operations on their own account. Two of them deal almost exclusively in crossbreds, and the other in merinos. It is purely and simply a question of being disgusted over the course of the market, and the unprofitableness of the last two or three seasons' business. The principals have come to the conclusion that it is wise to stop before they lose all they have, and they prefer to live upon their means, in preference to engaging in what they consider to be a speculative piece of business, namely, topmaking. The fact is, Bradford topmakers have pursued this last few years a wrong policy, and if they would cease selling forward what they have not got, they would find that the best means of cutting off unprofitable business.

THE BUTTER BUSINESS.

LONDON MARKET MODIFIED.

LONDON, May 8.

Arrivals during the past fortnight have included from Australia the Osterley, 11,369 boxes; the Morayshire, 780 boxes; the Commonwealth, 1330 boxes; the Carpentaria, 200 boxes; and the Demosthenes, 2450 boxes; and from New Zealand, the Waimana, 18,010 boxes.

Since last writing the butter market has undergone considerable modification, and although Australasian is more or less unchanged, there is no doubt that the influence of large supplies of Irish, French, Dutch, Siberian, Danish, Swedish, Finnish, and local British makes is being seriously felt. Siberian butters in particular are making their presence felt, both by reason of the large quantities arriving, and also the very low prices which have to be taken in order to effect clearances. At the present moment there is no better intrinsic value on the market than these fodder-made Siberian butters. Within the last two weeks something like 27,000 to 28,000 casks have reached these shores, and although the butter is somewhat pale in colour, the quality generally is excellent. The very best dairies have been selling round about 98s to 100s ex wharf London, with really good, sweet, sound butter at 95s to 97s. Dutch butter is also coming forward in fair quantities, and is showing very good quality, prices ranging from about 102s to 104s f.o.b. for unsalted, and about 100s to 103s for salted. Spot prices for these butters are about 108s to 110s for unsalted, and 104s to 105s up to 107s for salted. Irish creameries are also improving in quality every day, and a good many in the trade are now interesting themselves in this article. Choicest centrifugal creameries are making 110s to 112s for unsalted, and 106s to 108s for salted. There are not many factories on offer so far. With regard to Danish, the Copenhagen quotation was last week reduced 3 kr. This week it was advanced 1 kr. This butter is now steady at about 111s to 112s per cwt. As far as New Zealand butter is concerned, supplies are now in manageable compass, and the best salted is selling freely at about 106s to 107s, and unsalted at about 111s. Second-grade salted New Zealand is of slow sale at about 100s to 102s. Trade in Australian butter is now quiet, and prices are maintained with difficulty. Strictly choicest salted is 102s to 104s, and good, sound, sweet butters are round about 100s. There is very little unsalted Australian on the market, strictly fancy quality of this description is in demand at about 106s to 110s, with secondary and inferior descriptions at from 96s to 102s.

Closing quotations to-day are:—Victorian, salted 100s to 102s up to 104s, and unsalted 104s to 106s and up to 108s, good to fine 96s to 98s, and unsalted 96s to 100s; New South Wales, 100s to 102s and up to 104s, unsalted 104s to 106s up to 108s, good to fine 94s to 98s, and unsalted 94s to 100s; Queensland, 100s to 102s up to 104s, unsalted 104s to 106s, good to fine 94s to 98s, and unsalted 94s to 100s; New Zealand, 106s to 107s, and exceptionally 108s, unsalted 114s to 116s, good to fine 100s to 104s; Argentine, salted 100s, and unsalted 104s to 106s, and 108s; Danish, 104s to 114s; Irish, 104s, 106s, and 108s, and unsalted 110s to 112s; French (extra mild), 116s to 118s, finest quality, salted, 110s to 114s; Paris baskets, 110s to 123s.

FRUIT EXPORT TRADE.

APPLES IN LIMITED SUPPLY.

LONDON, May 8.

Australian apples have been in somewhat limited supply, and this has caused a rise in prices, the following being about the average obtained for leading lines:—Cox's oranges, up to 18/, Ribston Pippins 10/ to 10/6, Scarlet Pearmains 10/ to 11/, New York Pippins 11/ to 13/, Sturmer Pippins 10/ to 13/6, Jonathans 10/ to 14/, Alexandras 9/, Alfristons 10/ to 10/6, French Crabs 11/, Adams' Pearmains 9/ to 10/6, Cleopatras 11/ to 15/6. Trays of pears sold at 4/6, Vicors obtaining best prices. Their condition was good. Complaint has been made that a number of very small undersized fruit were packed in the trays, and grading, now so well observed as to apples, might with advantage be started with regard to pears. A small lot of Australian plums have been all cleared. Victorian kinds sold at 12/6 to better prices per case of 20lb; Yellow Gage and Grand Duke brought lower rates. Prices of apples continue good, owing, as stated, to short supplies, but heavy arrivals are expected next week. Western Australian apples yesterday brought 12/ to 16/ per box. Considerable quantities of Australian fruit have been bought at Covent Garden for Germany, the temptation being the high figures realised for the first direct shipment. Recent arrivals here have been of better quality, and there has not been so much evidence of bitter pit. However, complaint is made that some boxes of South Australian apples have been underweight, and in other instances cases were found to contain apples of varying sizes. Prices of pears have come down, owing to over-ripeness of fruit. A small consignment of Western Australian grapes, 270 boxes, ex Osterley, arrived in fair condition, and brought average prices.

The Agent-General for Tasmania has found it necessary to correct a statement which has been published about a quantity of Tasmanian apples sold in Covent Garden on Monday last. It was described as a record cargo of 100,000 cases, which arrived by the s.s. Medic. The only cargo of Tasmanian apples this week arrived on Friday in the Medina, and it consisted of something under 40,000 cases, and less than 10,000 of these were delivered at Covent Garden on Monday. The Medic is not due until May 31, and if all her refrigerated holds are available and full she can only bring 47,000 cases. It is against the interest of producers that incorrect statements regarding the quantity of apples in the market should be published. As a matter of general interest, the Agent-General recalls that the record cargo of Tasmanian apples came over in the Durham in 1907, and it was 126,400 cases.

FROZEN MEAT TRADE.

LONDON, May 8.

Trade at Smithfield has been very quiet, but beef has been firm, owing to chilled being in short supply, due to a strike in Liverpool. Chilled beef is worth 3/6 to 4/ hinds, and 2/4 to 2/6 fores. Plate frozen beef is 2/10 to 2/11 hinds, and 2/4 to 2/5 fores; Australian 2/9 to 2/10 hinds, and 2/2 to 2/4 crops; New Zealand hinds 2/10 to 2/11, and 2/3 to 2/5 fores. Mutton, New Zealand ranges from 2/4 to 3/2, and ewes 2/2 to 2/6. Australian 2/2 to 2/7, and Plate 2/3 to 2/9. Lamb, New Zealand is 3/6 to 4/3, Australian 3/5 to 3/10, and Plate 3/4 to 3/10.

DAIRYING INDUSTRY.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE AND EXHIBITION.

The Co-operative Dairy Factory Managers and Secretaries' Association will hold its annual conference and exhibition in Sydney on July 21 to 24. Representative entries have been received for the opening classes of the butter competition. In the "eight weeks stored and salted" there are 31 competitors, and in the "unsalted" section 27. These exhibits are already to hand for preliminary judging. There are 26 entries in the "no preservative class," which will be subject to six weeks' storage. Entries close in the four weeks stored classes on June 15, and entries in the other classes on July 13.

STUD HORSE FARM.

QUEANBEYAN.—Mr. J. W. Dowling, of Bywong station, has disposed of that property to Mr. Anthony Hordern, of Moss Vale. The new owner takes possession on July 1, and will probably utilise the property as a stud horse farm.

CLOSER SETTLEMENT.

QUIRINDI.—Three applications have been lodged at Murrurundi for a farm on the Warrah closer settlement area, which had become forfeited. Every farm on this area has now been taken up, and though a number of holders have taken advantage of the provisions of the Act to have the payment of their first and second instalments deferred, there is evidence of great prosperity, and the resumption is one which must be looked upon with a great amount of satisfaction. Many comfortable homes have been erected. A new school on Warrah Creek has an enrolment of nearly forty, and the settlers express themselves as highly pleased with their prospects. It was from one of these farms that the best wheat crop in the district last season was harvested. This resumption adjoins an area of about 55,000 acres of Warrah, which the A. A. Company has cut up into about sixty blocks.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

FOREST REEF.—During the last month fine steady soaking rains have fallen, recording over two inches. The weather has remained mild for this period of the year, and all seeded lands throughout present a fine picture. The rabbit trade continues brisk, and with the rodents still numerous, trappers are doing well, and earning up to £1 per night. Foxes are also showing their depredations, principally amongst poultry, and as many as thirty have been accounted for in one week. Trappers occasionally find them in their traps, their skins adding to their income ranging from 5s to 10s each. Four were captured through poisoning a fowl, the poison being left in a hole torn in the side of the bird.

WOLUMLA.—Exceptionally sharp frosts are being experienced, and the late potato crops have been destroyed.

AUSTRALIAN PRODUCE ABROAD

CHEESE.

LONDON, May 8.

The cheese market continues quiet, and prices are a shade easier. Fancy first-grade white New Zealand is selling at 61/ to 62/, the latter price being exceptional, and only obtainable for strictly fancy quality. Coloured is still commanding a premium of about 2/ over white, and realised about 63/6 to 64/ for first grade, and about 62/6 to 63/ for second grade. There is an absence of speculative demand, and the trade generally is in a somewhat unsatisfactory state. Stocks of Canadian cheese are in a very small compass. At the same time trade is quiet, and prices are more or less nominal. Finest white commands from 68/ to 69/, and coloured from 68/ to 70/, and there are a few parcels of late-made Quebecs and eastern townships on the market for which as low as 65/ to 66/ is being taken. There is a good make of cheese in Cheshire and Lancashire, and reports from Scotland and the West of England also point to a fairly good production. Canadian fodders are being offered at from 58/ to 59/ c.i.f. for May shipments, and Junes are being quoted speculatively at round about 60/ to 61/ c.i.f. Prospects in Canada are also very encouraging, and it looks as if there will be a good make, always providing climatic conditions continue favourable. Australian cheese is of slow sale at about 59/ to 60/ for white, and 61/ to 62/ for coloured, according to size and quality.

BACON.

Australian Cumberland-cut bacon has been in quiet demand at 60/ to 61/.

COPRA.

Copra is quiet, with a slightly easier tendency. South Sea, March-April, has sold at £25/10/, l. and c.

SHEEPSKINS.

The demand for sheepskins is easier. There is not much change in prime tannages, nor in the demand for light-weights, but fair and middle-class descriptions are 1 per lb lower in average value, and weak at that.

TALLOW.

The Australian tallow market was last week very quiet, with sellers generally offering at /3 less money. Good mutton was in fair request, but other sorts were neglected. At auctions 1408 casks were offered, and 533 sold, at /3 decline for inferior grades, but the better sorts of mutton and mixed realised late rates. The market has been dull and inactive during this week. There is no large quantity offering; nevertheless it is in excess of the demand. Consequently a tendency for prices to move in buyers' favour is inevitable. Prices are /6 lower for near parcels afloat, and /3 lower for shipment. At the Wednesday's auction of 192 tons of better-coloured tallow and 247 tons of inferior kinds offered 168 of the former and 140 of the latter were sold, with /3 decline. The market closed quiet. Quotations are:—Australian mutton, fine 36/, good to fair 35/6 to 34/6, dull to dark 33/ to 30/6, hard 35/; Australian beef, fine 34/, good to fair 33/6 to 32/6, dull to dark 31/6 to 29/4, sweet 34/.

LIFE RAILWAY PASSES.

The Adamstown Political Labour League, at its last meeting, passed the following motion—"That we enter an emphatic protest against the proposal of the Premier to grant a further number of life railway passes, considering that it was recently found necessary to make an all-round increase in fares on the railways and tramways." The league decided to communicate with the Ministers in connection with the motion. The president stated that the concession on tickets allowed to students over 18 years of age attending technical colleges and continuation schools had recently been withdrawn. The league decided to write to the Minister for Public Instruction, asking the reason for the change.

TWO CHILDREN HAD SKIN ERUPTION.

427 Bay-street, Port Melbourne, Vic.—"Some time ago my two children were suffering from very nasty sores on face, hands, and legs. I tried various remedies without any good results. Seeing a testimonial in "Age," a case the same as his being cured by Cuticura Ointment and Soap, I obtained some of these and started to use them. I first made a strong lather of Cuticura Soap and hot water, bathed sores well with it, and applied Cuticura Ointment on clean rag. I have much pleasure in informing you that in a fortnight they were quite free from sores. Before I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment I was really ashamed to take the children out. They looked dreadful, and the neighbours were afraid to let their little ones play with mine, in case they got sores also. I think Cuticura is splendid also for the hair, as it cleanses the scalp from dandruff, etc., and so promotes growth. My sister is at present using it for eczema on arms and neck. I think Cuticura is the best Soap one can use." (Signed) Mrs. May Polson. September 25, 1912.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a sample of each, with 72-page Skin Book, will be mailed free on application to R. Towns and Co., Dept. T., Sydney, N.S.W.—Advt.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

PRIZE MEETINGS AT RANDWICK.

There was a large muster of marksmen at the Randwick Range yesterday, when a number of clubs held their annual prize shoots, but owing to the very heavy rain which set in after three o'clock, some of the competitions had to be postponed. The council of the National Rifle Association contested a match with teams representing the Wollongong, Lithgow, Gunning, and Hunter River clubs, but only one stage of the shoot could be decided. Some other country clubs also fired matches with metropolitan teams. In the morning a fairly strong wind blew from the south-west, but it freshened considerably in the early afternoon, necessitating up to 25 points of windage. The light was bad at times, but, notwithstanding the atmospheric drawbacks, some high scores were registered, including a number of possibles. Details:—

N.R.A. VERSUS COUNTRY TEAMS.

The council had arranged a teams match with the Hunter River, Wollongong, Lithgow, and Gunning clubs, the conditions being 10 men a side, 10 shots each at 500 and 600 yards, but owing to the heavy rain the latter match had to be abandoned. The Hunter River Club was the winner, with the fine score of 469 points. The match was fired with 1914 ammunition, a case having been supplied to the association by the Defence Department for testing purposes. The general opinion of those who used the cartridges was that they were far superior to last year's output. The council of the association entertained the visitors at lunch on the range. Scores:—

There were matches arranged for the 300, 500, and 600 yards ranges for one stage, and for 600 and 700 yards for another, but owing to the rain only the first-stage shoot was completed. Why they take
Sanatogen
THE FOOD-TONIC

"Neither well nor ill" is the general condition of many people.

If this is your condition, you should follow the example of the famous men and women whose letters are printed here.

They always keep in first-rate condition because they always take Sanatogen whenever their health is "below par."

A short course of Sanatogen—say two or three times a day for a few weeks—would probably mean to you all the difference between feeling a little "out of sorts" and splendidly well. Is not the experiment worth trying, and worth trying at once?

No other preparation possesses the splendid tonic and nutritive properties of Sanatogen.

A Safe Invigorator.

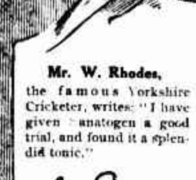

It is so safe, too, being absolutely free from reaction or other injurious effects. Sanatogen, in fact, is simply a pure, concentrated food, acting as naturally and harmlessly as any food-substance; but endowed with remarkable invigorating and strengthening qualities, and easily digested by even the feeblest stomach.

Ask yourself fairly: "Could my health be better than it is?" If the answer is in the affirmative, then the time for consideration is passed, and the time for action has come. Act, act here and now! Buy a tin of Sanatogen at your Chemist's to-day—prices, 2/6d., 3/6d. and 6/6d.—and see, once for all, whether you also will not join the ranks of those millions of people who are healthier, happier and efficient in every way as a result of taking Sanatogen.

Write to-day for a Free Booklet, "How to Live Healthily," which will be sent, post free, by A. Wulfing & Co., 17, Bond Street, Sydney, N.S.W., to all who write for it, mentioning this paper.

Mr. W. Rhodes, the famous Yorkshire Cricketer, writes: "I have given Sanatogen a good trial, and found it a splendid tonic."

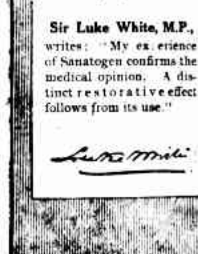

Madame Sarah Grand, the gifted Novelist, writes: "Sanatogen has done everything for me which it is said to do in cases of nervous weakness and exhaustion."

Lieut.-Gen. Young writes: "I find Sanatogen is a wonderful remedy for building up a run-down system."

Sir Luke White, M.P., writes: "My experience of Sanatogen confirms the medical opinion. A distinct restorative effect follows from its use."

The Right Hon. Sir Frederick Milner, Bart., writes: "Sir Frederick Milner was much run down from overwork when he took Sanatogen, and it certainly did good."

Mr. E. F. Benson, the well-known Author, writes: "I have tried Sanatogen, and believe it to be an excellent tonic."

SUCCESS OF FAVOURITE.

A WET DAY.

Although unfavourable weather, and the big International football fixture interfered with the attendance at Randwick, the winter reunion of the Australian Jockey Club was brought to a satisfactory close, about 20,000 visitors witnessing the races.

Heavy rain in the early morning drenched the course, so the going was rather heavy, and record times were not to be expected. Exciting finishes as well as surprises, however, lent interest to the events. It was not a picturesque crowd, in the sense of a display of brilliant colours, for those ladies that did venture out sported no fair weather finery, and dark cloaks and furs were the order of the day. In the Vice-Regal box were the Governor and Miss Strickland, Sir George and Lady Patey, and Captain Wallace. The Vice-Regal Band, under Mr. Louis de Groen, provided the music on the lawn.

The feature of the racing was the three victories of Mr. C. Hebden, who won the Second Hurdle Race with Hallmark, the Second Nursery Handicap with Little, and the Second Steeplechase with Torone. The green jacket and red cap seemed to monopolise the judge's attention. The big event was the Winter Stakes, and just as the horses lined up a heavy rain storm swept over the course. Twice Challenge Cross broke away, and finally had to be held at the start. But the field got away to a good start. At the back of the course the horses could be only dimly discerned through the driving rain, but as they entered the straight there were shouts of "The favourite wins," and though he was challenged by Barlow, St. Carwyne, and Offa, Sir Alwynton was first to flash past the post. Backers met with disappointment in their ventures on the steeplechase, for while they had too short odds about Altar Boy, Don Q., and Wadden, the finish was fought out between two outsiders—Torone and Sylvester—who started at 20 to 1, and Torone was just a shade the better of the two.

The attendance was estimated at about 26,000 and slow times were recorded. The general arrangements, which were in the hands of the secretary, Mr. C. W. Cropper and his assistants, were in every way satisfactory; while the tramway authorities provided an efficient service, conveying visitors to and from the course with a minimum of discomfort.

Sir Gerald Strickland and Admiral Sir George Patey were entertained at luncheon by the committee.

ON THE LAWN.

A DULL DAY.

Quite disappointing was the weather yesterday, and as a dress show Randwick has seldom appeared to less advantage. It was quite out of the question that women racegoers should put on anything that was not entirely serviceable and warm. The majority were clad in coats of fur, caracul, plush, or tweed. A few lovely seal coats were to be seen, and many sets of fur and other warm wraps. Even when these wraps were removed and left in the cloakroom the gowns were of the coat and skirt variety. Small close-fitting hats were quite the universal wear. There was a very satisfactory attendance of ladies, considering the weather; but the members' stand was sparsely filled, and, in fact, all the conditions usually attached to racing in the rain were fulfilled, and "then some," as the Americans say.

A large party was present in the Vice-regal box, the Governor, Sir Gerald Strickland, accompanied by Miss Strickland, and attended by Captain Wallis and Captain d'Apice, A's.D.C., the Admiral and Lady Patey, Lady Barton, Mrs. Finn, Mr. and Mrs. Rodham, Flag-lieutenant and Mrs. Poe, Mrs. Norman Falkiner, were seated there during some part of the day. Miss Strickland wore a grey cloth coat over a blue gown, and had a small grey felt hat, trimmed with pink and blue roses, and a grey quill; Lady Patey was in black velours, made with a tunic, and finished with black satin swathed sash; her hat was of bright cerise moire silk, with an upstanding loop. Mrs. Finn, in sapphire blue cloth coat and skirt, had a long black coat and a black velvet hat with feathers. Mrs. Rodham looked well in a belted coat and skirt of creme ratine cloth, with touches of black, and small black velvet hat, with soaring feather mount in front. Lady Barton wore grey tweed, with smoke fox furs and a small black hat, with pheasant mount. Lady Miklouho Maclay's black satin and ninon gown, with facings of sapphire blue, was worn under a coat of velours. Mrs. Poe, in a black duvetyn gown, had a marten necklet and a small black hat. Mrs. Norman Falkiner had a brown fur coat and a black taffeta gown, small black hat. Mrs. Kelso King was in black taffeta, with a very handsome stole and muff of ermine and seal, and black hat. Mrs. J. S. Brunton had a cigar brown tweed tailor-made, sable furs, and a sealskin hat. Mrs. Russell Watson had a black coating serge coat and skirt, trimmed with large black buttons, and a small round black hat, with a tiny bunch of blue and pink flowers. Mrs. Ralston had a sapphire corded silk gown, with velvet facings, black fox furs, and a black velvet and satin hat. Miss Ralston had royal blue cloth, faced with coloured embroidery, black furs, and black hat. Mrs. Cecil Cowper, navy cloth coat and skirt, and black hat with white plumes, black fox furs. Miss Mann wore a dark blue cloth coat and skirt, with a white muslin collar and small black hat. Mrs. F. W. Langton was in tango panama cloth, finished with black, black fox furs, and a small hat adorned with a pheasant's tail feather. Miss Spencer, navy coat and skirt, ostrich boa, nattier blue velvet hat, with touches of cerise; Miss Burston, mole taffetas, with long necklet and muff of chinchilla, round black velvet hat; Miss Roark (Melbourne), was in sapphire blue coat and skirt, with creme vest, white and black hat; Mrs. Cecil Jack wore black coat and skirt, and a black hat; Mrs. Milner Stephen had on grey tweed, made in tailor style, and a brown hat trimmed with velvet; Miss Grimes wore lime ratine cloth, with black pencil lines, black furs, and black hat; Mrs. U. M'Evilly had a sealskin coat over a black corded silk gown, and black velvet hat, with royal blue touches; Miss Beit had a navy tailor-made stone marten stole, and a hat brightened with orange corded silk ribbon; Mrs. Chris. Tayler had a long caracul coat over a black gown, trimmed with nattier blue silk embroidery, black hat; Miss C. Martin was in black Ottoman silk, and black velvet hat with feathers. Miss D. Roberts, in black cloth tailored suit, had a small tagel hat, with emerald green rosettes.

Also present were:—The Lord Mayor (Alderman R. W. Richards), Sir J. Carruthers, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Denison, Mrs. J. Caro, Mrs. Gerber, Mrs. Jas. Kearney, Mrs. Lumsden Fenton, Mr. Van Goes, Dr. W. D. Langton, Messrs. P. H. Morton, J. Perry, J. Storey, J. C. Holliman, R. B. Hogue, S. W. Moore, Cope, J. Mayo, Williams, J. Brown, W. Gardiner, E. Lamb, L. Stephen, N. Falkiner, and Colonel Russell Watson.

THE RACING.

The afternoon's sport was marred by the heavy rain overnight, and in the forenoon, the going being rendered very holding and that state of things was intensified by a downpour which set in just before the start for the principal event, which was run in dense rain, through which it was almost impossible to discern any of the riders for about one-third of the journey. The fields, with the exception of those for the hurdle race and the cross-country events, were of goodly proportions, speculation was brisk, and though a couple of first favourites and a second favourite claimed the attention of the judge, the unexpected successes of Collar in the Flying Handicap, and Torone in the second Steeplechase, left a fair margin of profit to the pencillers at the close of business in the betting ring. The only mishaps that occurred were in connection with the cross-country event, and the last race; Don Q parting with his rider in the former, and Star of the Empire acting similarly in the Exeter Handicap. The racing, which was of a highly interesting character, throughout, did not call for any intervention on the part of the stipendiary stewards. A feature of the sport was the successes achieved by the stable over which P. Nolan presides at Randwick, the winners of the Second Hurdle Race, the Second Nursery Handicap and the Second Steeplechase hailing from that establishment, while Idyia, who is also sheltered there, only missed the final event by a very narrow margin.

The Second Hurdle Race, with which proceedings opened, attracted only seven of the 17 coloured on the list, and the New Zealander, Forest Prince, took the track at the head of quotations, in which he was closely run by Hallmark; Zoeholme also received staunch support, as did Demand and Foothold, while Quedong was the outsider of the select party. The favourite and Hallmark, on terms, set the pace for the first three furlongs; then Forest Prince dropped back, and did not afterwards give his followers much hope; while Hallmark sailed along in front, escorted by Demand, and these positions were maintained to the end of the journey, Hallmark winning easily. Zoeholme ran in the back division nearly all the way, but made up some leeway in the last three furlongs, and cut Loughrea out of third money, while Quedong, who had tailed off at an early stage, pulled up six furlongs from home and walked in. The winner, who hails from P. Nolan's stable, is by Herloch (son of Lochiel), from Hallevale, by Ascot Vale from Halle, by Robinson Crusoe, and has earned several winning brackets over the sticks in the metropolitan area.

The Flying Handicap was responsible for a field of 15, the best-fancied of whom was Ligero, while Sweet Malt and Arlanza disputed second favouritism. There was also a fair demand for Averse and Sylvander, the best backed of the others being Herringbone and Kinetic. Adopting similar tactics to those in the June Stakes on Saturday, Sweet Malt was one of the first to find her legs, and, with Ligero and Best Scot in close attendance, she led to the bend, where Best Scot joined issue, and the pair swept into the home stretch together, but Sweet Malt retired ere the distance was reached, leaving Best Scot at the head of affairs, with Royal Pet coming fast, while Collar, who had made up a lot of leeway from the half-mile post, was coming with a fast run on the outside; Herringbone, on the rails, was threatening danger, and in the centre Ligero was putting in good work. Best Scot, Ligero, Royal Pet, and Herringbone were almost in line at the half-distance, where Collar put in her claim, and, passing her opponents in fine style, won by a neck from Best Scot, who was followed at similar intervals by Herringbone, Royal Pet, and Ligero. It was a good performance on the part of the winner, who at the five furlongs post was acting as whipper-in. Collar, who hails from J. Burton's stable, is by Collarit (son of Haut Brion) from Forest Belle, by Forest King from Oats, by Oatcake (imp.) from Harebelle, by Gemma-di-Vergy, and her only previous win was the First Nursery Handicap at the corresponding racing fixture at Randwick last year.

Of the two dozen listed for the Second Nursery Handicap 15 were stripped for the fray, and there was most money for Little and Royal Navy, the former of whom had the market call at barrier rise, while Lady Avington was the best supported of the others. The betting market accurately foreshadowed the result, for when three furlongs had been cast behind Little drew right away, and, spreadeagling his field, won in hollow fashion from Royal Navy, while My Palm filled the minor situation. The Persian Knight gelding Foxhound dwelt at the post, and ran last all the way. The winner is a smart-looking son of Bobadil and Lady Diffidence, by Grafton (imp.) from Diffidence, by Pilgrim's Progress (imp.) from Etraweenie, by Trenton, and was purchased as a yearling by Mr. C. Hebden for 330 guineas. The colt took part in the First Nursery Handicap on Saturday, for which he was stanchly backed, but met with some interference in the race, and failed to get a place.

The Second Steeplechase, which attracted only seven contestants, was responsible for a couple of genuine surprises. The Victorian representative, Altar Boy, was installed favourite, with Don Q. a stanchly-backed second favourite, while Wadden was the only other backed for money. The race was full of incident, and few were prepared for the result. After Don Q. had had a turn in front, and showed the way over the first three fences, Nolinga took charge, and, with Altar Boy and Don Q. as his nearest attendants, piloted his field across the hill for the first time. The fence opposite Kensington stopped the favourite, and two fences further on Don Q. hit hard and got rid of his rider. These mishaps left Nolinga with a substantial lead from Wadden and Torone, who were succeeded at length intervals by Sylvester and Captain Jingle, the latter of whom had already tailed off. Nolinga began to come back to his field as they crossed the hill for the second time, and he flew the Kensington obstacle 10 lengths clear from Wadden, Torone, and Sylvester, the last named of whom moved up within three lengths of the leader as they negotiated the second last fence, near the half-mile post, while Torone drew away from the wearied-out Wadden and set out in pursuit of the leading pair. Nolinga now began to tire, and as Sylvester headed him before crossing the last fence the victory of the Pretorious gelding was loudly anticipated, while his chances of success were accentuated when he came on to the course proper with about four lengths' advantage from Torone; but the son of Herloch, gamely responding to the call of his rider, Shepherd, gradually wore Sylvester down, and eventually beat him by half a length, amid a scene of great excitement. Torone is by Herloch, the sire of Hallmark, and is also trained by P. Nolan. He took part in the First Steeplechase on Saturday, but hit and lost his rider five furlongs from home. Sylvester's performance was a great improvement on his display in the cross-country event on Saturday, when he ran last all the way, but perhaps he was better suited by the longer distance yesterday. Captain Jingle, who came across with a good cross-country reputation from New Zealand, where he won several important events, including a Grand National Steeplechase, was included among the starters, but he tailed off at an early stage, and was about five furlongs away when Torone passed the post. He did not finish the course.

The scratching pen was pretty busy with the candidates for the principal event, the Winter Stakes, and only 13 of the 21 numbered in the book survived its assaults. Sir Alwynton was promptly installed favourite, and easily maintained his place in the market to the close of business; St. Carwyne was a stanchly-backed second favourite, while others to command a fair measure of support were Limelight, Matouree, Sir Vive, and Offa. When they assembled at the barrier, Challenge Crosse gave a fractious display, and twice broke through the webbing, severely testing the horsemanship of his rider, C. Barden, who stuck to him gamely, and eventually got him under control. For some time previously there were strong indications of a shower, which commenced to fall before the field was despatched on its mission, and, increasing in volume, became a heavy downpour as the race proceeded, almost obscuring the horses as they ran from the seven-furlongs' post to the half-mile post. When the barrier was released to a good start Sir Vive and Offa were the first to break the line, while Matouree and Vif were the last to get going; but when they had settled into their strides, Offa and Brunnhilda drew clear, and, on terms, carried the field along until nearing the half-mile post, where the favourite, who had been running in the ruck, came through, and Brunnhilda beating a retreat, Offa escorted Sir Alwynton round the bend and into the home stretch. Here Barlow and St. Carwyne put in an appearance; but the favourite had plenty in reserve, and scored comfortably from Barlow, who cut St. Carwyne out of second money by a head. When running well forward, Limelight met with some interference six furlongs from home, and lost a deal of ground, which he was unable to make up; Matouree, who was in the rear division in the early stages, worked his way into third position half a mile from home, but could not maintain that position. Offa ran a good horse, but was just beaten out of a situation. The winner was bred at the Combadello stud by Messrs. Moses Bros., and is by St. Alwyne (imp.) from Miss Symington (imp.), by Symington from a mare by Juggler. He started on seven occasions as a two-year-old without troubling the judge, but the following season he won twice out of three starts—in the Novice Handicap at City Tattersall's Autumn Meeting, and the Welter Handicap at the Moorefield July Meeting. During the current season he won the Winter Stakes at Tattersall's Club May Meeting, the Newcastle Cup on the following Saturday, and followed these successes up with a meritorious performance, yesterday.

The reunion was brought to a close with the Exeter Handicap, for which 16 were stripped, and Cedilla was sent out favourite, while second favourite was disputed by Marsinah, Idyia, Third Prize, and Symetris. Carna took charge at an early stage, and held his place to the bend, where the field closed up, and Symetris forging through, was escorted into the home stretch by Carna, Hobble Skirt, and Idyia. Idyia threw out a bold challenge to Symetris, at the distance, whence the pair had the issue to themselves, but the Fortunatus mare could only get up to the withers of Symetris as they flashed past the post. The winner, who hails from J. W. Cook's stable, is one of the speedy Maltster tribe, while her dam, Symmetry, is by Trenton from Buttercup, by Panic.

Forest Prince and Hallmark, on terms, made play, and the pair flew the first hurdle, near the mile post, eight lengths clear from Demand, Zoeholme, and Foothold, while the others were whipped in by Loughrea. In that order they ran to the five furlongs post, where Hallmark shook off the New Zealander, and passed the half-mile post a couple of lengths in front of Forest Prince, who was a like distance in advance of Demand; then came Foothold, Zoeholme, and Loughrea. Hallmark showed the way into the straight and over the St. Leger hurdle, with Demand and Foothold at his heels, and they were followed at length intervals by Loughrea, Forest Prince, Zoeholme, and Quedong. Without change they came down the running, past the judge's box, and along the side to the mile post, where Hallmark was still leading by a length and a half from Demand, who was a similar distance in advance of Loughrea and Foothold, who were followed by Zoeholme and Forest Prince, with Quedong tailed off. Save that Loughrea and Foothold changed places, and that Quedong was pulled up, there was no other alteration as they raced along the back and to the bend, where Hallmark was a length and a half in front of Demand, Loughrea was a similar distance off, and two lengths in advance of Forest Prince, with Zoeholme next. Hallmark was not afterwards troubled, and, coming on, won easily by six lengths from Demand, who was two lengths in front of Zoeholme; Forest Prince was eight lengths in, and ten clear from Foothold, while Quedong did not finish the course. Time, 5m 13s.

Sweet Malt jumped off in front, closely followed by Rymerhild and Ligero, while Collar was one of the last to get going. At the end of the first furlong Sweet Malt and Ligero were disputing the lead, with Best Scot and Arlanza at their girths, and they were succeeded by a clustered lot, whipped in by Collar. When they reached the half-mile post, Sweet Malt was leading by a length from Best Scot and Ligero, after whom came Hot Air and Royal Pet, while Arlanza dropped back, and Collar began to make up her leeway. Best Scot ranged up level with Sweet Malt as they rounded the bend, followed by Cool Air, Herringbone, and Ligero, with Alfred Jackson in the rear. Without change, they swept into the straight, where Best Scot headed Sweet Malt, and Royal Pet was coming fast, followed by Herringbone and Collar. A little further on Sweet Malt retired, and, at the half-distance, Best Scot, Herringbone, Royal Pet, and Ligero were fighting it out; but nearing the post, Collar got her head in front, and won by a neck from Best Scot, who was a similar trifle in advance of Herringbone. Royal Pet was a neck away fourth, and a head in front of Ligero; then after a gap of four lengths came Cool Air, Kinetic, and Sweet Malt, with Rymerhild and Sylvander at the tail of the bunt. Time, 1m 17¼s.

Mombassa, Royal Navy, and Herbie moved off in front, while Foxhound dwelt, and lost a number of lengths. At the end of the first furlong Mombassa, Little, and Royal Navy were almost in line, a length and a half in advance of Herbie, Upheaval, and My Palm, with Royal Tiara at the head of the others, and Foxhound last. When they reached the five furlongs post, Little and Royal Navy were disputing the lead, a length and a half from Herbie, Royal Tiara, and Upheaval, who were followed by Mombassa and My Palm. Without change they came past the half-mile post, but a little further on Little drew clear, and came round the bend with an advantage of four lengths from Herbie, who was followed at length intervals by Royal Navy and My Palm. Drawing further away at every stride, Little came down the running alone, and passed the judge's box about 15 lengths from Royal Navy, who was three lengths in advance of My Palm. Flavorous and Lady Avington were four lengths away fourth, and three in advance of Prince Palatine and Kolapore, with Berangie at the tail of the main body; and Foxhound last. Time, 1m 31¼s.

SECOND STEEPLECHASE, a handicap sweepstakes of 1 sov each, with 500 sovs added. Second horse 100 sovs, and third horse 50 sovs from the prize. About 3m.
Mr. C. Hebden's br g Torone, by Herloch—Token, 6yrs, 9st 2lb, inc. 2lb over (J. Shepherd) ... 1
Mr. H. Rowland's b g Sylvester, by Rustic—Recherche, aged, 9st 7lb (C. G. Morton) ... 2
Mr. N. J. Landy's b g Nolinga, by Pretorius—Fanny, aged, 9st (J. Collitt) ... 3
Other starters: Captain Jingle, 11st 12lb (F. Cress); Wadden, 11st 6lb (S. Howie); Altar Boy, 11st (A. E. Carter); Don Q., 10st 12lb (F. Moore).
Betting: 9 to 4 v Altar Boy, 5 to 2 v Don Q., 5 to 1 v Wadden, 12 to 1 v Nolinga, 20 to 1 each v Sylvester and Torone.
Captain Jingle and Don Q. moved off in front, and the former flew the first fence near the three furlongs post just in front of Captain Jingle and Altar Boy. Don Q. piloted his field over the first two sets of the quadruple in front of the stands, but Nolinga then took charge, and cleared the other two right clear from Altar Boy and Don Q., who were three lengths in advance of Torone and Wadden, with Captain Jingle 10 lengths away next, and Sylvester in the rear. Without material change they flew the fence opposite Oxenham's, and crossed the hill at the back, but the fence at Kensington stopped Altar Boy, while Don Q. hit the fence near the three furlongs post, and parted company with his rider. With a commanding lead of 20 lengths Nolinga showed the way over the quadruple in front of the stands for the second time, Wadden and Torone, on terms, acting as his escort; Sylvester was 12 lengths further back, and 30 lengths in front of Captain Jingle. The fence opposite Oxenham's and the racecourse double at the foot of the hill were negotiated in that order, and so they ran to Kensington, where Nolinga was beginning to come back to his field, while Sylvester commenced to make a forward move, and was upsides with Nolinga ere they reached the final obstacle, which Sylvester cleared just in front of Nolinga, who was passed, a little further on, by Torone. Sylvester came on to the course proper four lengths in front of Torone, who, from that point, finished with great determination and, decreasing the gap at every stride, just got up in time to beat Sylvester by half a length. Nolinga was 20 lengths off fourth, and six in front of Wadden, while Captain Jingle was five furlongs away. Time, 7m [illegible]s.

WINTER STAKES. A handicap sweepstakes of 10 sovs each, with 500 sovs added. Second horse 100 sovs, and third horse 50 sovs from the prize. 1m 1f.

Mr. W. Dalley's ch c St. Carwyne, by St. Alwyne (imp.)—Carwee, 3yrs, 7st 5lb (H. Redden) 3
Other starters: Limelight (imp.), 9st 4lb (J. Williams); Matouree, 8st (A. Callinan); Offa, 8st (A. Shanahan); Kilmeadon, 7st 10lb (H. Dorrington); Haze, 7st 9lb (J. Townsend); Brunnhilda (imp.), 7st 7lb (W. M'Cabe); Challenge Cross, 7st 6lb (C. Barden); Sir Vive, 6st 11lb (G. Meddick); Winora (imp.), 6st 10lb (J. Reynolds); Vif, 6st 7lb (F. Foley).
Betting: 2 to 1 v Sir Alwynton, 9 to 2 v St. Carwyne, 8 to 1 each v Limelight, Matouree, and Sir Vive, 10 to 1 v Offa, 14 to 1 v Kilmeadon, 16 to 1 v Brunnhilda, 20 to 1 each v Barlow and Challenge Crosse, 33 to 50 to 1 each v others.
Rain set in just before the start, and developed into a heavy downpour during the progress of the race. From a good start Sir Vive, Offa, Haze, and Challenge Crosse were the first to break the line, while Vif and Matouree were the last to get going. Offa and Brunnhilda turned out of the straight at the head of affairs, and passed the nine furlongs post with Kilmeadon, Winora, and Challenge Crosse at their girths, Haze was a length away next, followed by a big cluster, with Vif and Matouree still in the rear. Offa and Brunnhilda, on terms, rattled past the mile post, a length and a half in advance of Kilmeadon, Winora and Challenge Crosse; then after a gap of two lengths came Limelight and Sir Vive, with Vif whipping in the others. Offa and Brunnhilda, on terms, maintained the lead along the back stretch, a length from Challenge Crosse and Kilmeadon, while Limelight was knocked back. As they passed the six and five furlongs post the downpour became so dense that the colours of the riders were not discernible, but in that interval Sir Alwynton left the ruck, and at the half-mile post was in charge from Offa and Matouree, while Brunnhilda dropped out of the leading division. Increasing his advantage Sir Alwynton came round the bend and into the straight well clear from St. Carwyne, Offa, and Barlow, and, coming on, Sir Alwynton won easily by two lengths from Barlow, who was a head in front of St. Carwyne. Offa was a length and a half away fourth, and four lengths clear from Matouree, who had Limelight at his girths, then after a gap of five lengths came Sir Vive, Challenge Crosse, and Kilmeadon, with the others whipped in by Haze. Time, 2m. 20s.

Betting: 4 to 1 v Cedilla, 6 to 1 each v Marsinah, Idyia, Third Prize, and Symetris, 10 to 1 each v Holy Smoke and Hobble Skirt, 25 to 1 each v others.
Hobble Skirt and Carna moved off in front of Idyia and Third Prize, and at the end of the first furlong Carna took command, passing the six-furlongs post three lengths from Hobble Skirt, Marsinah, and Cedilla. That order was preserved past the five-furlongs post, and at the half-mile post Carna was still leading from Hobble Skirt, Symetris, and Idyia, after whom came Marsinah, Mustapha, and Cedilla. The field closed up at the bend, where Symetris came through, and as they turned for home she headed Carna, who was succeeded by Hobble Skirt and Idyia. When they reached the distance Idyia tackled Symetris, while Mustapha was coming fast. From that point the issue lay between Symetris and Idyia, and the former won by a neck, after an interesting encounter. Mustapha was five lengths away third, followed by Malthusian, Hobble Skirt, Perilla, and Third Prize, while Nunuoya was the last to pass the post. Time, 1m 48s.

CONFUSION OF VOICES.

The effect of the grant of a double dissolution on the councils of the Opposition has been well illustrated by the comments uttered by its members immediately before and after the decision of the Governor-General became known. There has been none of the unanimity to which we are accustomed when a meeting of the caucus has been held and members have been told what to do and say. Mr. Fisher is characteristically dignified and non-committal. He speaks as one prepared for the worst and ready to accept the decrees of fate, whatever they may be. Mr. Hughes equally characteristically has given ironical advice. Mr. Cook was to run no risks by postponing his request until the Postal Voting Bill had gone to the Senate. If he did so, and his request was refused, let him not say that while he was anxious to go before the electors the Labour party was unwilling to face him. Mr. Thomas declares that the King's representative, through following the advice of his Ministers, has become a partisan, and adds that he will say something more terrible about the middle of next week. Senator Pearce has suddenly become an outraged guardian of the Constitution. States rights, he declares have been attacked through the House which was designed to protect them. Senator McDougall thinks that the right thing has been done at the right time, even although the Prime Minister is responsible for doing it. Among recognised authorities only Mr. King O'Malley,

> Delaying as the tender ash delays,
> To clothe itself when all the woods are green, has not yet delivered his judgment. No doubt there will soon be an end of this confusion of voices. Senator McDougall can hardly change his opinion, since it was his determined "no" which enabled Mr. Cook to obtain a decision so soon. But it will be interesting to see precisely which line of criticism is to be adopted by the leaders of the party. Last year in the referendum campaign the argument was varied to suit the State in which it was used. In the larger States the party candidates were unificationists, or nearly unificationists. In the smaller States they pointed out how much greater influence each individual voter would have through the Senate when the powers of the Commonwealth had been enlarged. In the coming campaign apparently they will be guileless Federalists. The note which has been set by Senator Pearce, of Western Australia, will be taken up by Mr. Hughes of New South Wales, however much he may be tortured in uttering it. Mr. Irvine's speeches will be taken as the first blow at the Constitution, and the double dissolution as the second. The Prime Minister will be denounced for tampering with the bicameral system, our only protection against hasty legislation, and for refusing to allow smaller States to be protected against the doings of a House elected on a population basis.

It is obvious that the Labour party, if it is seriously to adopt the argument suggested by Senator Pearce, must first ignore or recant its own previous history. If it wishes to protest against this dissolution as an attack on State rights, the Liberal party no doubt will be perfectly willing to absolve it from any such obligation. But a more serious obstacle will be found in the terms of the Constitution. It is true that the Senate was established to protect the rights of the States, partly because the smaller States insisted on being protected in some way, and partly because it was contemplated that the question whether the powers of the Commonwealth should be enlarged or not would be the main, and not a subsidiary, question between the two parties. But the Constitution must not be interpreted by taking one or more sections apart from their context. Every section is made subject to the right of amendment in a prescribed way, as we were reminded more than once last year by Senator Pearce and his friends. Similarly, every power given to the Senate, and every privilege conferred upon senators, such, for instance, as their six years' term, is made subject to the contingency of a double dissolution if the prescribed conditions are fulfilled. The convention debates show clearly the importance of this condition. It was inserted after continuous discussion from one convention to another, and, with the provision for a joint sitting, was regarded as an indispensable preliminary to the assent of the larger States. Senator Pearce may say that this provision was intended to prevent the smaller States combining to obstruct legislation. In fact, it was intended to prevent a deadlock on a measure which was favoured by a majority in one House and opposed by a majority in another. That it was intended that the House of Representatives should control the Government is proved by the provision that measures must initiate there. The Senate is given time to reflect and come into touch with public opinion, as the House of Lords is under the Parliament Act. If it still refuses after three months, then the people are asked to decide between the two Houses, not by a referendum, but at a general election, at which the whole policy of the Government may be discussed.

To say that a House which can force a dissolution is without power is to speak with greater rashness than we are accustomed to from Senator Pearce. The right to compel a Liberal House of Commons to go to the country was the last privilege claimed by the House of Lords, and was the weapon of which the Parliament Act was intended to deprive them. In the Australian Constitution a double dissolution is the only means available of bringing the Senate into touch with the latest declarations of public opinion. It cannot but be suggested that a Governor-General or a Prime Minister must compare the degrees of emphasis with which public opinion has expressed itself or the rise of the majorities in the two Houses. The question to be considered is whether there is an irreconcilable difference of opinion. Possibly, had the position of parties been reversed, the dissolution could have been avoided. A Liberal majority in the Senate would have allowed the King's Government to be carried on with decency and order. A Labour Ministry might have been content to pass only such legislation as its opponents would call non-contentious. But the Labour majority has made legislation impossible, and hampered administration as far as it could. If the circumstances of this double dissolution were not contemplated at the conventions, it is because the founders of the Constitution could not have imagined that members of the Senate would conspire together to bring all the institutions of government so far into contempt. Mr. Cook, for his part, has insisted on observing the best traditions of responsible government. He has refused to hold office at the dictation of his opponents, or without a clear mandate from the people. He has brought us back to traditions upheld in this country by Sir Henry Parkes, the founder of the Federal movement.

NEW FRENCH GOVERNMENT.

Once more a French Government has been formed, although apparently M. Poincare's difficulties have been more than usually great. The fact that he felt able to call upon so many French statesmen to form a Ministry may indicate that the French President possesses an embarras de richesse in potential Premiers to which British communities are not accustomed. To those who look askance at the two-party system which is still in vogue in most parts of the Empire, the example of France may be taken as a warning. There are in the French Chamber of Deputies at least ten or twelve definite groups, subject to rearrangement and fresh combinations in kaleidoscopic fashion at any moment. The result is necessarily instability and insecurity in political life, and the frequent change of Government which such a system connotes does not make for the efficient administration of national affairs or continuity in national policy. The dangers of the present system are seen in the restiveness of the Russian Government at the apparent vacillation in France with regard to military provision, on which Russia had framed her own programme. From time to time a definite clear-cut issue, such as the separation of Church and State, may divide members of Parliament into two sharply defined camps. But the normal life of French politics is one continuous process of shuffling and reshuffling of parties, Governments, and portfolios in order that a majority may be obtained for particular measures. The Ministry of M. Doumergue was never anything more than a stop-gap; its fate was sealed after the retirement of M. Caillaux (its most brilliant and powerful member), and the scandals associated with him and his wife. But it cannot be said that the new Government which M. Ribot has succeeded in forming partakes of a different character. The government of the Republic has, however, to be carried on, and there will no doubt be opportunities for further negotiation amongst the groups in the near future with the view to the formation of a strong, stable Ministry. It cannot be satisfactory to Parliament or the country that most of the ablest men in political life should remain outside the Government.

Although the results of the recent elections in France were to some extent inconclusive, they registered a popular verdict in at least three directions. They demonstrated the definite desire of the French people to shoulder the growing burden of defence, and in particular the adoption of the three years' compulsory military service, which had been the subject of controversy. The people of France, like the people of Germany, Sweden, Russia, and other countries of Europe, have followed the lead of their Governments in an unmistakable fashion, and the race of armaments continues apace without any determined check from the popular will. The necessary concomitant of increased expenditure on armaments is additional taxation, and the policy of an income tax appears to have been approved at the recent elections, though less emphatically than the expenditure itself. It is often so. The most desirable objects of national welfare will be supported enthusiastically, but the methods of finding the wherewithal are not so cordially approved. Another definite feature of the elections was the emphatic expression of opinion in favour of electoral reform. The scrutin de liste, and some form of proportional representation seem now almost certain of adoption in France. The key to the political situation is, however, the attitude of the Socialists, who, as in Germany, have grown not only in strength in Parliament, but in their popular support in the country. The compact, disciplined party, ably led by the veteran, M. Jaures, can probably secure the downfall of M. Ribot, who will thus share the fate of many other French statesmen during recent months. When the controversy with regard to military service is removed from the arena of party conflict, there may still be possible the formation of the Cabinet of all the talents which seems to be the one hope for the stability of French political life.

NAVAL DOCKYARD REFORM.

It is clear beyond any doubt that the state of affairs at Cockatoo Island which now exists involves an intolerable public scandal. We believe that the advantage of the local construction of war vessels is so valuable an adjunct to the efficiency of the Royal Australian Navy, and is so essential to any efficient organisation on land which shall serve the purposes of an Imperial fleet in time of war, that its maintenance is worth a very considerable expenditure. If men are to be available at any time for the purposes of repairs and for the various duties which may at any moment become necessary in naval warfare, in order that the vessels may retain their efficiency as fighting units, they must be continually employed and trained to the technical duties associated with a naval dockyard. We believe that Australia is performing a truly Imperial service by erecting and maintaining such an organisation, which can be utilised in times of need for the general purposes of the Empire. And this is immeasurably enhanced by the Commonwealth relieving the mother country of the actual construction of warships, thus providing a powerful factor in making the Australian section of the Imperial naval forces of the Empire self-contained in all essential respects. But, if the naval dockyard is unable to fulfil its intended functions, if ships are to remain for half their effective life on the slips, and to cost as much as thirty per cent. more than should be the case, then the whole policy of local construction must be reviewed. We have no room in the national economy for a toy dockyard, the special reserve of a few boilermakers, whose only interest in life is to do as little work as possible for as much money as possible. Australia needs warships on the high seas and around her coasts, not at Fitzroy Dock.

The secretary of the Boilermakers' Society has expressed the view that the facts which have been revealed with regard to the state of affairs at Cockatoo Island would stagger the men. We trust that their publication may have this effect, for it is essential that the men who are employed at the dockyard should realise their responsibilities towards the country in connection with the work in which they are engaged. Reference was made in our news columns yesterday to the national character of the work which is being carried on at Cockatoo Island. This, indeed, goes to the root of the whole matter. For no effective and permanent reforms will take place at the dockyard unless and until the men realise that the building of warships, which are to participate in the protection of the Commonwealth, is not a task with which members of the Government and their official advisers can trifle. Any changes that may be made (and some drastic changes are obviously urgently necessary) in the organisation of labour at the dockyard must start from a clear recognition of this fact. If the men are willing to accept employment as Government servants, with all the advantages accruing from such employment, they must also discharge reciprocal obligations to the Government and the country. If they do this, we are convinced that the authorities will be found to be reasonable in meeting the men's wishes with regard to the conditions of labour. In the settlement of this problem we trust that the leaders of the political Labour party, whether in office or in Opposition, will use their influence in the desired direction. They have a special responsibility in the matter, because it is to them (as we freely recognise) that the initiation of the whole policy of local naval construction is largely due. Unless they are able to induce the men to act reasonably, they may find that the policy for which they were such enthusiastic sponsors may have to be abandoned. We hope also that the action which, it is stated, is to be taken by the Government will fructify at an early date. There has been far too much delay in the past in a variety of directions on the part of the authorities.

THE ARGENTINE.

Comparisons are proverbially odious, with countries as with individuals, but it is always interesting, and often instructive, to hear another point of view. We in Australia are supposed to be more ready to offer criticism than to accept it, and when a sojourner in our midst ventures to suggest that we have our limitations, we unite in condemning his observations because they proceed from a very inadequate acquaintance with Australia. It is good for us to realise that the roles are sometimes reversed, and that we are the people who are apt to undervalue the achievement of others. South America is a case in point. We are prone to think of that continent as a place of perpetual revolution, and little else. We are compelled to admit that despite these revolutions the South American States manage to export an immense amount of cattle and wool, and that in this respect the Argentine is a serious rival of Australia. But we do not know and do not care how the cities of the Argentine have developed. Elsewhere we publish an interview with an Argentine resident who comes to complain where self-satisfied folk would have thought no one in this hemisphere would dare to criticise. He points out that in many respects Sydney is behind Buenos Aires. Our places of amusement are fewer, our communications are more backward, our civic amenities are less than is the case in his own city. We do not propose to indulge in controversy on this point, but we merely observe that, while Sydney travellers may find much lacking in London or Paris or Berlin, Buenos Aires is able to find something wanting in Sydney. We—the critics—are now being criticised from a quite unexpected quarter.

Of course, it is not a matter of very great consequence that Buenos Aires has twenty theatres while we have less than half that number, nor need we feel any anxiety because the Argentine hotels are more luxurious in their appointments than our own. These are not the things which really count in a nation's development, though they may be symptoms of a nation's progress. It is extremely doubtful whether the twenty-fold possibility of theatrical entertainment and the splendour of accommodation in Buenos Aires have done as much for the country as is implied in Sydney's less glorified mode of life. The Argentine offers an even more cogent case for decentralisation than could even be found in New South Wales. If Sydney is a leech, Buenos Aires must be an octopus. South America in general and the Argentine in particular have many lessons to teach us, but we do not believe that they lie in the direction of providing amusement or entertainment for our city dwellers. At present we are more concerned to exploit our country districts, and though in this the Argentine has by no means solved the problem, it is at any rate pointing the way. The Argentine has tried the experiment of immigration on a wholesale scale, and it has received many citizens who were better qualified to sponge on the tourist in Genoa or Naples or Barcelona than to earn an honest living on the land. Still there has been a large residuum who have from paupers become wage-earners, and from wage-earners, proprietors, and these are just the people who are responsible for the extraordinary development of the country. We do not grudge Mr. Hardcastle his scale of theatres and his luxurious caravanserais, but we confess that we should like the immigration policy which makes these possible.

Income Tax.—A fact to be borne in mind by those who have been notified that they have been assessed for the payment of income tax is that to-morrow is the last day for the payment of the tax without incurring a penalty of a 10 per cent. fine. Remittances may be posted direct to the Commissioners of Taxation. There may be some delay if a personal rush to pay is experienced in the cramped offices occupied by this branch of the Taxation Department.

The French of the East.—"The Siamese are the French of the East," remarked Mr. J. Keddie, a visitor from Bangkok, yesterday. Mr. Keddie, who is a bank official, in Sydney on furlough, said that the Siamese had strict ideas of etiquette, and their ceremonies among themselves were full of polite expressions and punctilious observances. There were many beautiful palaces in Bangkok, and the Buddhist temples there were among the most magnificent in the world. The principal streets had as smooth a surface as Macquarie-street, and some of them were as fine as any of the boulevards of Paris. Every wealthy Siamese owned a motor car, and horse-racing was a passion with them, the principal event being the King's Cup. Bangkok was an up-to-date city, quite Continental in character. The Siamese army was a fine body, and they had an aviation corps and five aeroplanes, which frequently manoeuvred over the capital.

Introduced Birds.—When a British visitor arrives at Circular Quay, provided he has not landed at any other Australian port, the question he will probably ask himself, if he is an ornithologist or bird lover, will be: "Am I really 12,000 miles away from home?" One of the first birds that will arrest his attention, writes Mr. A. J. North, C.M.Z.S., in the handbook that has been prepared for the members of the Coming Science Congress, will be the house-sparrow, for it may be seen and heard in numbers about the Quay, and is ubiquitous in the parks and gardens. Another acclimatised species is the starling, which may be seen about the larger public buildings in the city and the grass lawns of Hyde Park and the Botanic Gardens. Farther afield it occurs in autumn and winter in immense flocks. Another introduced species may be seen in the metropolis—the spotted naked dove of South-eastern Asia. About the mansions of Double Bay, Rose Bay, and Vaucluse the Indian minah may be seen. It is remarkable that this species, although it has frequented the localities named for many years past, has kept in the comparatively near neighbourhood and has not spread over the surrounding country as it has in Victoria. The same, too, may be said of the introduced skylark, which is chiefly confined to the vicinity of Centennial Park, Randwick, Botany, and the lowlands about the mouths of Cook's and George's rivers. Other birds that have become acclimatised and may be seen around Sydney are the goldfinch and the greenfinch.

Coral Reef Problem.—Professor Morris Davis, Professor of Geology at the Harvard University, and a well-known scientist, will arrive from New Zealand by the Moeraki this morning. He is associated with the party of scientists which will visit Australia in August, but has travelled in advance with the object of visiting some of the Pacific Islands. He has already spent some time in Fiji, and in the course of a few days will go on to New Caledonia and the New Hebrides, returning to Sydney at the end of July. The purpose of his mission is to investigate the origin and formation of coral reefs. He has stated that so far research work goes towards confirming the Darwinian theory of subsidence. While in Fiji he examined no fewer than 10 islands, and was thus able to make a close study of the problem. Darwin's theory, he said, offered a far more reasonable explanation of the origin of coral reefs than any yet propounded. Professor Davis has asked Mr. Andrews, the well-known Sydney geologist, who has made a special study of coral reefs, to accompany him to the islands.

DEFENCE.

NEW ZEALAND AND JAPAN.

MR. MASSEY'S VIEWS.

WELLINGTON, Monday.

Replying to a deputation from the National Peace Society, the Premier (Mr. Massey) said he was just as anxious to preserve peace as anyone, but how was the Empire to be kept together if it was not kept in an efficient state of defence?

It was right that the matter of defence should be undertaken by the Empire, and it was also right that this part of the Empire should do its share. He did not agree with the views which were sometimes expressed about the effect of military training. His own boys were not of training age, but if they were and they declined to do their duty to their country he would be ashamed of them, and would disown them.

It had been suggested that the Government should apologise to Japan, or at least endeavour to explain away the statement made by General Sir Ian Hamilton. He did not intend to do anything of the sort, and would not be a member of a Government that would do anything of the sort. He might not agree with all that Sir Ian Hamilton said, but he was not going to reflect on a man who had done such good service for the Empire.

"The present Government," added Mr. Massey, "is going to stand or fall by the principles of the Defence Act. If you don't agree with that, you will get your remedy at the end of the year. Vote against us."

The Deputation: Hear, hear.

AUSTRALIAN ENTERPRISE.

INDIAN CONTRACT.

BIG ENGINEERNG SCHEME.

BOMBAY, May 15.

In competition against leading engineering firms in Great Britain and Germany, an Australian firm—Mephan Ferguson Proprietary, Ltd. (whose headquarters are at Melbourne)—recently secured the contract for a big engineering scheme in Bombay at a figure approaching £300,000. The scheme provides for the manufacture of 19 miles of steel pipes to form a portion of a new water main 33 miles in length, and the manufacture of the pipes is now being carried out here by the Australians.

This marks the first occasion that steel pipes have been made in India, and the engineer supervising the scheme states that the work being done by the Australian firm is particularly satisfactory. As all the big pipe manufacturing firms of Great Britain and Germany tendered for the work, the victory of an Australian firm marks an interesting stage in industrial progress in Australia.

The large amount of machinery which is employed in the manufacture of the pipes was made in Australia, and it is regarded as most up-to-date in all respects. The rough sheets of steel are imported from Great Britain, and at the works here they are made into pipes 8ft long by 4ft high at the rate of four an hour.

All the white workers engaged at the works are Australians.

BUILDING TRADE.

A FORTY-FOUR HOURS WEEK.

CRAFT UNANIMITY.

Since the Building Trades' Federation decided to press on with the agitation to have the week's work restricted to forty-four hours, the allied unions have been giving consideration to the proposal, and, without exception, they have favoured it, provided it involves no loss in wages. When, therefore, the federation delegates wait upon the Master Builders' Association on Thursday they will be able to say that they have craft unamity behind them. The federation represents about a dozen unions. The builders' labourers have already secured the 44 hours under their Federal award—a fact which has given the movement new life.

Practically all the employers have fallen into line with this Federal award, but some of them make no secret of the fact that much inconvenience is caused by tradesmen and labourers having different hours for starting and ceasing work. It is understood that Thursday's conference will be followed by a conference next week with representatives of the Builders' Labourers' Union.

In the meantime, the three societies of carpenters—amalgamated, progressive, and bridge and wharf—are appealing against their award, which fixed the week at 48 hours and the wages at 13s per day. The case is being heard by Mr. Justice Edmunds.

PUBLIC SERVICE.

QUESTION OF APPOINTMENTS.

NEW ZEALAND CASE.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Monday.

The Chief Justice (Sir Robert Stout) has reserved his decision in an important case, involving the question of the powers of the Public Service Commissioner.

The Public Service Association filed an originating summons against the Commissioner, asking for a definition of the Act as to whether a decision by the Commissioner under the Act in promoting or appointing an officer to a position that has become vacant, or to a new position, was final and conclusive, as against another officer who claims to be entitled to and applies for promotion to such vacant or new position; has such officer the right of appeal to the board of appeal against the decision of the Commissioner; further, what right of appeal has the officer who claims to have been passed over for promotion.

The association claimed that without the full right of appeal the Commissioner could be an autocrat, which was never intended by the authors of the Act.

During the hearing of the case, the Chief Justice said the Act had done away with the Governor and with the King. The latter was not even a rubber stamp now. It was certainly the most republican statute in any British colony, and seemed to go even beyond republicanism.

PERSONAL.

The Governor of Queensland (Sir William Macgregor), will travel to England in the steamer Marathon, due to leave Melbourne on July 18.

Judge Murray, Lieutenant-Governor of Papua, left by last evening's express for Melbourne.

Mr. Denham, Premier of Queensland, and Mr. P. J. M'Dermott, Under-Secretary of the Chief Secretary's Department in Queensland, who returned by the Niagara on Saturday from a visit to England, left by the mail train for Brisbane yesterday afternoon.

Phya Asvabada, Master of the Horse to the King of Siam, and his secretary, Mr. Herricks, have returned to Sydney from a visit to Queensland, and will leave for Java, en route to Bangkok, in the course of a week or two.

Commander T. B. Stevenson, R.N., and his wife arrived in Sydney from Melbourne yesterday.

The eleventh annual dinner of the officers of the 1st Regiment, N.S.W. Mounted Rifles, present at the entry of British troops into Pretoria, on June 4, 1900, was held at the Australia Hotel on the anniversary of the occasion. Lieutenant-Colonel Antill, C.B., presided, and among those present were Colonel Holmes, D.S.O., V.D.; Colonel J. H. P. Murray, Lieutenant-Colonel McGlinn, V.D.; Lieutenant-Colonels Watson and Lenehan, V.D.; Major Gribben, and Captain G. H. Legge.

BACKWARD SYDNEY.

COMPARED WITH BUENOS AIRES.

A VISITOR'S IMPRESSIONS.

"I expected to find Sydney much more up to date than it is," remarked Mr. Edgar Hardcastle, a visitor from the Argentine, yesterday. "First of all, I thought it was a larger city. We hear so much about it in the Argentine that I had somehow got the impression that it was another Buenos Aires. But Buenos Aires is twice as big as it. It is a city of a million and a half people. There are over 20 theatres. Most of the companies that visit us are Spanish or Italian.

"There are tiers of boxes in all the theatres, and, in addition to the booking fee for the box, which runs to about 15s, one has to pay the ordinary price for admission to the theatre. Some of these boxes are engaged by wealthy people for the whole of an opera season, as much as £1300 being paid for that privilege. I saw a most magnificent display of gems on the occasion of the first night of a grand opera season at the Colon Theatre. The boxes simply blazed with diamonds and other beautiful stones.

"The orchestra consisted of 200 performers, and there were 300 people in the chorus. The performances start later and end later than they do here. It is no unusual thing for the curtain to remain up till long after midnight. From midnight till 2 o'clock or 3 o'clock in the morning the cafes are thronged. There is probably more night life in Buenos Aires than in any other city in the world.

UNDERGROUND RAILWAYS.

"Buenos Aires has had to grapple with its traffic problem, the same as Sydney will have to do. Underground railways have already been built and are in operation. Streets have been widened. There are some really magnificent piles of buildings in the city, most of the newer ones being nine or ten stories high, while one or two run up to 15 stories. The hotels of Buenos Aires have more luxurious appointments than those of Sydney, and in many other respects the Argentine city is more up to date.

"However, Australia is a very fine country, and I rather fancy that some of its inhabitants do not know how well off they are. Living is nearly twice as dear in Buenos Aires as it is in Sydney, but wages are not correspondingly higher. It is not a good place for artisans, and certainly not for small farmers. It is a country for large concerns. English people do not find life in the back country particularly pleasant. A knowledge of Spanish is essential. The natives of the country do not take kindly to factory life, and so it happens that practically all the harvesting machinery has to be imported from abroad, a large proportion being obtained from Australia."

KING'S BIRTHDAY.

A WET HOLIDAY.

UNDAMPED ENTHUSIASM.

Yesterday the celebrations in connection with the King's Birthday were ushered in with pouring rain.

But it takes a great deal to damp the ardour of the average Australian, so the multitude sallied forth armed against the elements with overcoats and umbrellas and goloshes. After the early morning showers, the sky brightened, the clouds lifted, and several hours of fine weather were vouchsafed the holiday-makers.

There were many attractions. As usual, the harbour bays and inlets and the ocean beaches claimed their thousands, while the popular tourist resorts—the Hawkesbury, the mountains, the South Coast, and National Park—were well patronised. Sporting enthusiasts were adequately catered for, the main attractions being the international football match, and the winter race meeting. The former fixture attracted about 50,000 people to the Sydney Cricket Ground, where the English visitors fought their second engagement with the League football champions. There was excellent sport, and exciting finishes were witnessed at Randwick, where the winter reunion of the Australian Jockey Club was brought to a close. Unfortunately the rain came before the races were over, and drove patrons to the shelter of the stands.

The Rugby Union footballers provided amusement for enthusiasts, the chief competition matches being decided at the University Oval. Followers of the British Association rules were treated to an interstate contest at the Epping ground, where matches were played all day. Other competition and junior engagements were played on the various suburban grounds. Votaries of "the royal and ancient game" put in a pleasant day on the links, while some of the tennis courts in the metropolis were fit for play. But the rain in the afternoon militated considerably against the enjoyment of the sport.

In most of the theatres and picture shows matinee, as well as evening, performances were given, and nearly all were crowded.

HOLIDAY TRAFFIC.

A comparative statement of the bookings at Sydney and suburban railway stations between 5 a.m. and 4 p.m. yesterday shows that, despite the rain, an increase over last year's traffic resulted.

The totals were:—145,649 passengers (£3529 19s 2d), as against 120,817 passengers (£1712 17s 4d) last year, giving an increase of 432 passengers and £817 1s 10d in revenue.

A COTTON COUNTRY.

AMERICANS' OPINION.

WHITE AUSTRALIA IDEAL.

BRISBANE, Monday.

The American Trade Commissioners, who have returned to the city from a visit to the Bundaberg sugar fields, say they were astonished beyond measure at the magnitude of the sugar industry, and keenly interested in the fact that it is now a white labour industry.

"We have been wondering whether you will eventually succeed in this ideal," said Dr. Snowden. "We have been wondering whether you will not yet be tempted to utilise coloured labour, with restrictions, in the tropics. You see, your unskilled labour is the dearest in the world. What a field there is here for cotton if you could only find the labour. You may yet, who knows? Why, it is naturally a cotton country."

AUSTRALIA AND INDIA.

THE TOURIST TRAFFIC.

BOMBAY, May 15.

A feature of the Indian tourist season now closing has been the increase in the number of visitors who have come here from Australia and New Zealand. Visitors to India from Australasia have in the past been few, being principally confined to people who have friends in this country, and only now is the tourist traffic from Australasia being developed in any marked degree.

Discussing the matter the other day, a gentleman closely in touch with the tourist traffic mentioned that a suggestion had come from Australia that India should establish an advertising agency there, so that the attractions of India could be impressed upon Australians. While agreeing that the proposal is a good one, he was afraid that the Government of India would not take it up, as previous proposals to advertise India in other countries had not received the support of Government.

It has been suggested that at the beginning of the Indian season—about November or December—P. and O. steamers going home from Australia should call at Bombay, where Australians could break their journey, and join a vessel of the same line later on, or stay in India and work down to Colombo, from which port they could return to Australia.

THE WEEK IN LONDON

AN AUSTRALIAN'S NOTES.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

The Budget.

LONDON, May 8.

There is, no doubt, considerable responsibility upon a man who has to stand up in the House of Commons and budget for a cool two hundred millions to meet his country's expenditure. That, in effect, is what Mr. Lloyd George had to do this week, and it is possible that the weight of anxiety upon him affected his natural gifts of exposition. At all events, Mr. Lloyd George's Budget speech was far from being one of his successful efforts in oratory. Last year he was much better; but last year he was able to go off on tangets of sentimental appeal on behalf of his poor and distressed brethren of the sons of toil. This year he had no such spur to his perfervid eloquence. This year he was set to grapple with dull stuff, such as the relief of local rates, and his only chance of extending himself was in respect of his proposals for increased supertax and increased death duties. In those regards Mr. Lloyd George can wax ecstatic. Not even a Labour Government of New South Wales, letting itself loose among the big incomes, can display such whole-hearted enthusiasm for a great cause. But, somehow, on Monday he was below himself, and his explanation of the ways and means necessary to finance the coming year was soon too confused to be followed. The House of Commons, in fact, had to adjourn till next day so that members might have time to wrestle with the Chancellor's proposals. Even now there is considerable doubt as to what is involved. Briefly, provision had to be made for an anticipated deficit of £5,330,000, which was to increase to £9,800,000 by reason of a reformed scheme of grants to local authorities in relief of rates. The Chancellor's proposals for increase of income tax, and supertax, and death duties, and his taxes on foreign investments and on settled estates, are estimated to produce £8,800,000. He takes an extra million from the sinking fund, and—voila!—the income tax remains as at present up to earned incomes of £1000—9d in the £. Thereafter, a halfpenny here and a penny there produce £5,715,000. But, so far, discussion does not range round the extra charge upon affluence. It is concerned mainly with the local rates section of the Budget, as to which several Acts of Parliament will be required. With a view to them an autumn session was at first suggested, and the Government thereupon met with such flat rebellion from the ranks of its own supporters that the idea has been abandoned. Otherwise, the Opposition is out upon discovery of the real inwardness of the Budget. It was expected to be an election Budget, with concessions heaped up and running over. It is not that. But the sleuth hounds of the other side declare that it is cunningly contrived to produce so great a surplus next year that the Government will have millions in hand for their fell purpose of influencing votes, and, as a consequence, next year's Budget will be an unblushing distribution of favours. Such are some of the hidden possibilities of innocent-seeming national finance.

Shops and Stores.

One of the big announcements of this week is concerned with the shops of Regent-street, beloved by ladies, and crisply described by a headlinist as "the Empire's shopping centre." Possibly it is that. At any rate, Regent-street is a deservedly famous place. But the Regent-street of to-day, for all the fine stretch and reach of it, and the quite splendid curve of the quadrant at its lower end, is as nothing to the Regent-street of the rapidly coming future promised us. Harrod's is primarily responsible. Harrod's it is which has made to us this week announcement of its controlling interest in the business of Dickins and Jones. All London knows Harrod's great stores at Brompton, and all London knows, also, Dickins and Jones' sumptuous display of themselves on Regent-street. For a hundred years and more Dickins and Jones have had a great share of the patronage of the West End, and a great renown in silks and laces, and prettily elegant things of many kinds, but of few qualities below the best. And now Harrod's is going to transform Dickins and Jones's. Harrod's is going to build there in Regent-street, on Dickins and Jones's island site of 35,000 square feet, a seven-floor modern store on the American and Parision lines. In other words, Dickins and Jones is to be changed out of its century-old substance into palatial magnificence, and is to blossom forth as one more of those astounding places, a department store—the which being interpreted means not merely a shop, but a rendezvous, a restaurant, a promenade, a pleasure resort. Thus will Harrod's come up from Brompton to Regent-street to compete with Selfridge and his vigorous American methods. Thus will Dickins and Jones take a share in a greater enterprise than its own, and thus will one more great combine be added to the existing terrors of the small shopkeeper. And the transformation of Dickins and Jones is only one of various schemes now afoot for the architectural advance of Regent-street. Architects, indeed, are already out in competition for the new buildings of Peter Robinson. Liberty and Co. are also abandoning their historic foothold in Regent-street for newer and larger buildings in which to house their beautiful fabrics; while Swan and Edgar, on the corner of Regent-street and Piccadilly, only await the Government's final design for that hitherto disputed stretch of the quadrant, before proceeding to utilise one of the finest city sites in the world to something like its best advantage. Regent-street is, in point of fact, in such a condition of flux, that the crowds who throng it all day long will soon be finding it unfamiliarly above itself.

Fishermen All.

In the House of Lords the other day a grave matter was discussed by question and answer. Lord Alexander Thynne was the proponent and Lord Beauchamp, First Commissioner of Works, the Minister responsible to him, while noble lords all over the Chamber leaned forward with expectant eagerness for the word of authority. Lord Alexander Thynne put it to the Commission of Works that the time had arrived for a more honourable recognition of the claim of the tiddler and stickleback to be caught with rod and line, and a broader view of the rights of the small boys who in every park in London pursue the tiddler and the stickleback under disadvantage of jam-tins and bottles. And the noble Lord was gravely answered that the First Commissioner of Works had the matter under consideration. The House breathed relief. The strain was over. There will be no doubt of the ultimate decision. Nowadays, in any school vacation, the lake in St. James's Park, for example, is alive with ragged children from mean streets, for whom the quest of the tiddler is the supreme joy of life. They come every morning, hundreds of children, each one of them with a bottle or a tin, each one of them prepared for hours of anxious-eyed grappling within the muddy haunts of the stickleback. What they do with the fish I know not, but I have seen processions of boys joyously returning from the sport, their bottles filled, their trophies landed, and with them an attendant array of smaller boys and grubbier girls, proud of their indirect association with the conquest and the spoils. There are, too, other uppish boys who come to the lake with little nets—but that is poor sport compared with the swish and splash of the jam-bottle as it plunges and gurgles within the stream. Now, whether in deference to the tiddlers, or by request of the bottle brigade, I know not—it is asked that permission be given for the fishing of these grounds with rod and line. But I hope there will always be survivors of this picturesque present. I should be sorry not to find in St. James's Park that host of exploiters of the deep, and not to see them wading and plunging precariously at grip upon the bank, to emerge presently, triumphant, with their bottles held on high, and their escort of admirers walking respectfully in their wake.

MOBBED IN CHURCH

THE SUFFRAGISTS.

VIOLENCE MEETS VIOLENCE.

DRUGS FOR PRISONERS.

LONDON, June 8.

Extraordinary scenes were witnessed at Brompton Oratory yesterday.

Twenty women suffragists chanted the suffragist litany, and one stood in the aisle, shouting "For God's sake, stop forcible feeding."

The congregation fiercely attacked the disturbers, the women members taking a prominent part. Some of the suffragists had their hats torn off, their dresses disordered, and their hair streaming down their backs as the result of the scuffle. Others were bleeding at the mouth, and but for the protection of the vergers, they would all have been treated much worse. Eventually the vergers succeeded in carrying them out.

Further scenes occurred outside. As one suffragist was entering a taxi cab, a lady member of the congregation pulled her out and thrashed her.

Another suffragist, whose teeth had been injured by a blow from a man's fist, lay at full length outside the building, and refused to budge, letting the people trample across her.

She and another woman were arrested.

HOSTILE PUBLIC FEELING.

A crowd broke up a meeting of suffragists at Hornsey, North London. The suffragists had also a hostile reception at Hastings, while their van was smashed at Hitchen, the police having to disperse the assailants.

A suffragist speaker at a meeting on Clapham Common aroused hostility by making a veiled threat about bombs. The meeting was broken up, several suffragists having a narrow escape from lynching.

Similar scenes occurred at Hampstead and Hyde Park.

A woman was arrested for shouting during the sermon at the evening service in Westminster Cathedral.

SOLICITOR'S CLERK CHARGED.

The Public Prosecutor has initiated proceedings against Arthur Barnett, a solicitor's clerk, whose firm represented certain suffragists, for conveying letters and drugs to Grace Roe in Holloway Gaol.

It is alleged that the drugs were used to produce violent sickness after forcible feeding so as to secure her early liberation.

FOREBODING OF DEATH.

Miss Sylvia Pankhurst addressed a meeting in the East End yesterday, saying that when they saw Mr. Asquith next Wednesday she would ask the deputation not only to plead but to threaten him.

Miss Pankhurst added that she did not care about herself, and asked them to carry on the movement because it might happen she would not be alive on Wednesday. She was determined that the East End people should settle the question by Wednesday.

MORE INCENDIARISM.

Suffragists burned an untenanted house in High Wycombe.

A suffragist was found concealed in Reading Post-office.

RULER OF ALBANIA.

REPORTED ABDICATION.

SUCCESSORS SUGGESTED.

LONDON, June 7.

It is reported in Paris, Berlin, Vienna, and Rome that Prince William of Wied is about to abdicate the throne of Albania.

The Duke of the Abruzzi and members of the Bonaparte family are mentioned as his successors.

ITALIANS ARRESTED.

DURAZZO, June 7.

Dutch gendarmerie arrested Colonel Muricchio and Professor Chinago, Italians, on the ground that compromising documents had been found in their residences. Both, however, were released on parole.

The Premier subsequently apologised to the Italian Minister and offered satisfaction.

NAVAL WARFARE.

VALUE OF SUBMARINES.

CANDID CRITICISM.

LONDON, June 8.

Admiral Sir Francis Bridgeman, a former First Sea Lord of the Admiralty, declares that Admiral Sir Percy Scott's letter to the effect that submarines will supplant Dreadnoughts in naval warfare contains nothing new to the Admiralty, except advice to immediately reduce their shipbuilding programme, and resort to inaccurate and undeveloped weapons. "The time has not arrived," he says, "for such a radical change, although it may be ultimately reached by future developments."

Lord Sydenham, a well-known defence authority, and formerly Governor of Victoria, considers Admiral Scott's theory a fantastic dream. He emphasises the contention that aeroplanes are useless for scouting, or for assisting submarines at night time, or in foggy and stormy weather. The submarine, he points out, is very vulnerable when on the surface, while when wholly submerged its navigation is difficult and dangerous.

Mr. Leyland, editor of "The Navy," considers that we must "hasten slowly" along Sir Percy Scott's pathway, awaiting developments. He foresees that the size of submarines will increase until they attain the dimensions of battleships.

Sir Philip Watts, Adviser on Naval Construction to the Admiralty, states that half the submarine's power for harm lies in its invisibility, and it could not attack at night without the aid of searchlights, which would indicate its position.

GERMAN SARCASM.

BERLIN, June 8.

The "Post" urges Sir Percy Scott to endeavour to convince his own countrymen, and adds that Germany will not follow Britain's example, but will gratefully inherit the supremacy of the sea, which will then be hers without a struggle.

FRENCH CRISIS.

FORMING A CABINET.

RUSSIAN INTERESTS.

PARIS, June 8.

M. Rene Viviani failed to form a Cabinet owing to his inability to find colleagues unanimously in favour of the three years' period of military service.

M. T. Delcasse and M. Jean Dupuis declined invitations to form a ministry, and the President then summoned M. A. F. J. Peytral, who also declined.

Mr. P. L. Ribot was then invited, and is forming a Cabinet. His colleagues include Messrs. J. Noulens and Viviani.

The turning point of the crisis was reached when M. Paleologue, who succeeded M. Delcasse as French Ambassador at St. Petersburg, on arriving in Paris to make arrangements for President Poincare's visit to Russia in 1915, warned French statesmen that Russia's military reforms, already begun, were dependent on the maintenance of the three years' period of service in France. It is now known that inasmuch as the political and military problems are interdependent, the Russian Government will reconsider its attitude on many questions in the event of France repealing the triennium law.

M. Ribot declares that the new Government, like its predecessor, must faithfully carry out the triennium.

INTRUDER IN PALACE.

NOT A SUFFRAGIST.

LONDON, June 7.

A supposed burglar was arrested in the servants' quarters in Buckingham Palace at night time. He visited several bedrooms, all of which were occupied. He alleged that he only intended to prove how easy it was to enter the Palace, despite the police and military.

The intruder gave his name as Harry Pike, describing himself as an engineer's fitter.

POSTAL EMPLOYEES.

SYNDICALIST TENDENCIES.

LONDON, June 7.

In reply to representations made by the postal societies, Mr. C. E. H. Hobhouse (Postmaster-General) declines to establish a committee on which they would be represented for the purpose of dealing with the demarcation of duties.

Mr. Hobhouse animadverts on the syndicalist tendencies displayed at the conference of the Postal and Telegraph Clerks' Association.

BALLOON EXPLOSION.

THREE PEOPLE KILLED.

PARIS, June 7.

A balloon exploded near Rheims, and the three occupants were killed, including M. Le Prince, a well-known aeronaut.

An ascent was being made at a fete in the Rheims district, when the wind drove the balloon against the trees. The escaping gas ignited with a terrific explosion, and forty spectators were injured. M. Le Prince was incinerated.

CHINESE JUSTICE.

DEATH FOR BRIBERY.

PEKING, June 7.

The President has issued a decree which imposes the death penalty on officials accepting a bribe to effect a miscarriage of justice.

Lesser offences of bribery will entail banishment to unhealthy districts.

The death penalty will be inflicted in the case of an official embezzling a sum of £500 and upwards.

IRELAND.

ILLEGAL ARMIES.

HOME RULE SITUATION.

GOVERNMENT'S PROPOSALS.

LONDON, June 7.

Viscount Haldane, Lord High Chancellor, speaking at Oxford last night, said that, although he regretted some of Sir Edward Carson's utterances, he had done his best to keep Ulster quiet.

Both the National and Ulster volunteer armies, he added, were grossly illegal, but the Government had wisely allowed events to take their course.

The amending Home Rule Bill, he said, would make propositions which the Government thought would meet the difficulty.

NATIONAL VOLUNTEERS.

Mr. Devlin, M.P., in the course of an address to the Belfast National volunteers, said the National volunteer movement had been started to maintain the liberty Ireland had won after a constitutional battle extending over 30 years.

SIR EDWARD CARSON'S ADVICE.

Sir Edward Carson, M.P., speaking in Belfast, advised Ulstermen to stick to their arms.

He declared that if any one attempted to rob them or break the peace, they should not hesitate to use their arms.

ARCHBISHOP'S APPEAL.

LONDON, June 8.

The Archbishop of York, in a letter to the newspapers, urges Parliament to face the facts of the Irish crisis afresh, and emphasises the argument that since some form of exclusion for Ulster is an immediate necessity it will be dangerous to prolong the armed tension by asking proposals concerning the duration or area of the exclusion.

On the other hand, Ulster's exclusion did not solve the problem, and ought to be the prelude to a serious attempt to devise a system of devolution in which Ireland would be assured a place, doubtless first in point of time, but not essentially exceptional.

CORK COUNTY COUNCIL.

The Nationalists have captured Cork County Council, the O'Brienites losing seats in seven divisions, including Monkstown, which has latterly been represented on the Council by Mr. McDonald, chairman of the All For Ireland League.

HUERTA'S NEW MOVE.

TO BLOCKADE TAMPICO.

UNITED STATES' ATTITUDE.

WASHINGTON, June 8.

The possibility of a recrudescence of war is contained in an announcement by President Huerta, that he intends to blockade the Constitutionalist forces under General Carranza at Tampico.

Two Mexican gunboats have left Puerta Mexico, followed by the United States cruiser Tacoma and a gunboat. Huerta ordered his gunboats to seize the cargo of the Cuban steamer Antilla, which was on its way to Tampico, consigned to Carranza's followers.

Mr. J. Daniels, Naval Secretary, announces that this development will not change the policy of the United States to keep Tampico open for all commerce.

DEATH OF MR. WATTS-DUNTON.

LONDON, June 7.

The death is announced of Mr. Walter Theodore Watts-Dunton.

Mr. Walter Theodore Watts-Dunton was one of the best known English litterateurs of the old school, and was the life-long friend of the poet, Swinburne. He was 81 years of age, was a solicitor in early years, and then devoted himself to literature. He acted as leading critic on the "Examiner" and "Athenaeum" for a great many years, and was a prolific contributor to the "Encyclopedia Britannica" and other works of reference and periodicals, especially on poetry and poets and English literature generally. His best known publications were "Aylwin," a poetic romance; an edition of Lavengro, with reminiscences of George Borrow; a treatise on the romantic movement; and studies and essays of Shakespeare, George Eliot, Charlotte Bronte, Rossetti, Swinburne, Charles Dickens, Matthew Arnold, and numerous other famous figures in literature. Although much of his work was critical, he published from time to time a good deal of important original work, including some pleasing poetry and essays on a variety of subjects.

OFFICIALS IN CONFLICT.

A CURIOUS INCIDENT.

BOWRAVILLE, Monday.

An illustration of two Government departments in conflict was given at the police court, Macksville. Forest-guard Keays seized 100 railway sleepers, and asked the Court to forfeit them to the Crown. The sleepers had been purchased for the railway, and landed at the depot. Royalty not having been paid, they were liable to forfeiture. The holder of a timber license has the privilege of cutting sleepers, but before they are removed, royalty has to be paid. The engineer in charge of railway construction declined to recognise Keays's authority in this matter, and had the sleepers removed. In order to test the matter, the forest guard took action, which resulted in the confiscation of the timber.

FOOTBALL RIOT.

DISGRACEFUL MELBOURNE SCENE.

CROWD STONES POLICE.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

During the football match between Richmond and Melbourne at the Richmond ground to-day, two of the spectators started to fight, and a crowd gathered round them.

Two constables arrested one of the men, and when he commenced struggling he was handcuffed. A section of the crowd appeared to resent the action of the police, and as the constables struggled towards the gate about 500 people followed. The man under arrest was placed in a cab, but before he could be driven away the disturbance developed into a riot. Stones were hurled at the police, and the cab from all directions, and someone fired a shot in the air. The crowd then rushed the cab and took the horse out.

The policemen climbed out of the cab with a firm grip on their struggling prisoner. When they pushed their way through the mob towards the police station more stones were thrown. Another man was arrested on the way, and both men were locked up. One was charged with using obscene language, behaving in an offensive manner, and resisting arrest. The other man was charged with having incited a prisoner to resist.

CAUCUS.

TO-DAY'S MEETING.

The caucus of the State Labour party will meet at Parliament House at 10.30 this morning. The meeting is likely to be concerned mostly with Government policy matters. The Premier has a long statement to make to the caucus, and it is expected that this will be the chief thing dealt with.

Members of the party do not regard it as likely that the matter of Mr. Holman's recent attack on Mr. Meagher will be alluded to owing to the way in which the order of business has been arranged.

The approaching Federal elections will be a matter that will excite a great deal of discussion, and, between this and the debate on the Government policy generally, it is thought that any other items of possible business will be crowded out.

The duration of the current recess will in all probability form a subject of discussion. The effect of the Federal crisis on the opening of the third session will be explained by Ministers.

There is expected to be a full muster of the party. Mr. Scobie has now sufficiently recovered to be able to get about; and Mr. Cochran, who was injured in an accident some time ago, may also be present. The meeting is occasioning great interest in political circles.

APPEAL FOR PEACE.

OVERLAND RAILWAY TROUBLE.

ARBITRATION URGED.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The long-continued strike at the Kalgoorlie end of the transcontinental railway has distressed the Federal Treasurer (Sir John Forrest), and he appealed to-day to those concerned to end the strife if possible. Sir John Forrest made the following statement to-night:—"The prolonged continuation of the strike on the trans-Australian railway at Kalgoorlie has given me great anxiety. I have been unable to find any justification for it, and I wish to do all in my power to have the matter settled, and work proceeded with. I sent telegrams to-day to the Mayors of Kalgoorlie and the Boulder, to newspaper editors, and to the presidents of the trades unions at Kalgoorlie, urging them to use their influence to bring the matter to a satisfactory end. I pointed out that the basis for settlement in industrial disputes, which has been placed upon the statute book with the full support and concurrence of the Labour party, is arbitration, and that it seems to me that to refuse to have troubles of this kind settled by arbitration is most inconsistent. I hope everything possible will be done to end the dispute."

ROUGH WEATHER.

STEAMER USES OIL BAGS.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Monday.

The Melbourne Steamship Company's steamer Melbourne arrived at Lyttelton on Saturday from Newcastle, after a tempestuous voyage of seven days. On Tuesday last the steamer's decks were awash fore and aft, the deck fittings being bent and broken, and the starboard boat stove in. The Melbourne was hove to for several hours, and oil bags were used. The cargo shifted, and the vessel arrived with a decided list.

HINDUS NOT WANTED.

DOMINION PREMIER'S ATTITUDE.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Monday.

In the course of a speech at Christchurch, the Premier (Mr. Massey) said the country was heavily in debt, and it was necessary to secure larger population. "But," he went on, "we don't want Hindus. Next session I hope to put through legislation to make it impossible for Hindus to come to this country. I feel very strongly about the subject. We don't want Hindus at all."

A GREAT HORSEMAN.

WAGGA, Monday.

The death occurred last week of Mr. John Thomas Hely, formerly a celebrated horseman, who had a rather adventurous career. He was a native of Parramatta, and was 81 years of age. When a youth of 17 Hely left home to join "Tinker" Brown's circus, and he had charge of the horse on the Ovens fields which was shod with gold and was driven in the circus by Mr. Cameron, who afterwards became the first member for Beechworth in the Victorian Parliament. While with the circus Hely toured the mining fields of Victoria, and could tell many interesting stories of the "roaring days" of the gold rushes. He afterwards took up farming and grazing, and was known in Riverina as a great horseman. When Earl Carrington, then Governor of New South Wales, visited Wagga Hely was appointed to drive his Excellency about the district.

UNION SUBSCRIPTIONS.

NEW ZEALAND SUIT.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Monday.

The Canterbury Drivers' Union to-day sued two drivers who had joined the new union for their subscription. On behalf of the defence the contentions were raised that the rules did not provide for resignation; that the men had a right to leave, as the act of the union in striking had brought members under legal penalty.

The magistrate said it was an obvious defect in the Act that no power was given to men to resign, and he gave judgment in equity and good conscience for the defendants. The union will appeal.

A LONG PASSAGE.

80 DAYS FROM NEW YORK.

NEWCASTLE, Monday.

The steamer Lowther Range reached this port from New York, via Durban, this morning, with a cargo of case oil for Suva, Townsville, and Rockhampton. The whole of the passage occupied 80 days. She arrived at Durban on May 3 last, and left for Newcastle two days later. Captain Gundry is in command.

ELECTIONS.

DATE DEPENDS ON ROLLS.

THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

LABOUR CRITICISM.

The date of the elections will depend on the completion of the rolls, the preparation of which has been much delayed, especially in New South Wales.

August 29 is still, however, persistently mentioned as a likely date for the election.

A conference was held yesterday between representatives of the Commonwealth and State Ministries, with a view to settling difficulties with regard to the preparation of the New South Wales rolls. Messrs. Cook, Kelly, Holman, and Cann were present at the conference, in addition to the officials.

Mr. Cook stated that the responsibility for the delay in connection with the rolls rested with the State Government, who had delayed granting the services of the police. Mr. Holman attributed the delay to a difference of opinion between the two Governments with regard to the remuneration of the police.

An arrangement has, however, now been arrived at by which the rolls in New South Wales will be completed within a month. The supplementary rolls will be additional to these.

The Prime Minister added, however, that he could not fix the date of the election, even approximately. "I can only say," he said, "that it depends upon what time it takes us to get supply through both Houses."

The Victorian rolls are in a much more advanced state, and the Liberal organisers state that the process of purification has resulted in a considerable improvement upon their condition last year.

It is stated that the Labour policy at the elections will include pensions for widows and orphans on similar lines to those now granted to aged persons and invalids, and also protection for deserted wives and children, and State-owned steamer communication to Tasmania.

Mr. W. M. Hughes, ex-Attorney-General, made a trenchant attack on the Governor-General last night, and described his action in granting a double dissolution on condition that supply was granted as "wrong, not sanctioned by precedent, and completely opposed to and destructive of the foundations upon which the Federal compact rests."

"If the Senate is not to be allowed," said Mr. Hughes, "to have any share in legislation, it is only a glorified and very expensive debating society."

An analysis of the electoral prospects in other States shows that there are nine Labour seats and three Liberal seats which are open to serious attack.

The outlook in Victoria for the Liberals is regarded as particularly hopeful, as there are three Labour seats which may be possibly won, whilst all the Liberal seats are considered safe.

THE ROLLS.

SPEEDING-UP AGREEMENT.

PRIME MINISTER AND PREMIER.

A conference in regard to the date of the elections was held yesterday at the State Premier's office, between representatives of the Commonwealth and State Ministries. There were present besides Mr. Holman, the Premier and Treasurer, and Mr. Cann, Chief Secretary, the head of the State electoral and police departments, the Prime Minister, Mr. Joseph Cook, and the Assistant Minister for Home Affairs, Mr. Kelly. The Commonwealth Electoral Officer for New South Wales, Mr. J. G. McLaren, and the State Government Printer, Mr. W. Gullick, were in attendance.

Mr. Cook, on arrival the previous day, stated that it was the state of the rolls in New South Wales that primarily had brought him over to Sydney at this juncture, and it appeared from a statement that he made after the conference, that the responsibility for any backwardness of the rolls in this State, if such exists, rests not with the officials of the Commonwealth electoral office in Sydney, but with the State Government in granting the services of the police to undertake the work of collecting the rolls. Nearly two months, Mr. Cook said, elapsed between the application on the part of the Commonwealth for the services of the New South Wales police for this service, and the granting of the application.

SERVICES OF POLICE.

The State Government on its part declines to be saddled with any responsibility for the delay which occurred in agreeing to the police being put on to collect the roll, there being a difference of opinion between the two Governments as to the remuneration the Commonwealth should pay for this service. The State Government contended that as the police would in a great many cases be practically doing nothing else but roll-collecting, the whole of their salary should be paid for by the Commonwealth authorities.

The matter has now been settled on a basis satisfactory to both sides, though the Prime Minister yesterday was reticent when asked what arrangement had been made by the two Governments in this regard. "It is enough to say," said Mr. Cook, "that the police are now at work."

TO BE COMPLETED IN A MONTH.

The net result of the conference was that the Prime Minister has every assurance that the printing of the rolls in New South Wales will be completed in a month. These, of course, will not be the final rolls, as names can be added right up to the date of the issue of writs which will not take place till ten days after the dissolution proclamation. These additional names will form what are known officially as the supplementary rolls. The Prime Minister yesterday said that in the circumstances existing in New South Wales, a considerable shifting population there must be congestion of the rolls at the best of times.

DATE OF ELECTION.

Although an important step was taken yesterday at the conference in the direction of getting the electoral machinery in order for the elections, the date cannot yet be given. The Prime Minister said last night that he could not fix the date of the elections even approximately. "I can only say that it depends," he said, "upon what time it takes us to get supply through both Houses. When we get supply," Mr. Cook added, emphatically, "we will proceed to the elections at once. That is the vital factor."

"It is not intended, the Prime Minister further stated, "to submit any other business to Parliament beyond the two supply bills, one for loan and the other for ordinary expenditure."

"BURNT DOCUMENTS."

MR. COOK AMUSED.

"INNUENDO AND ENIGMA."

The Prime Minister was asked last night if he knew what Mr. Fisher, the leader of the Opposition, meant when he referred on Saturday to the burning or destruction of documents that had figured in the negotiations between the Prime Minister and the Governor-General in connection with the request for a double dissolution.

Mr. Cook smiled when he heard the question. "I have not the faintest notion what Mr. Fisher means," he replied. "I don't know what he means to convey by 'burning and destroying.' I know of nothing that has been burnt or destroyed. It is a great pity that Mr. Fisher does not talk plainly instead of indulging in innuendo and enigma. If he knows of anything that has been burnt or destroyed I would advise him to tell the public all about it. I don't."

It was suggested that perhaps Mr. Fisher was referring to the statement of the case for a dissolution prepared by the Attorney-General, Mr. Irvine, for presentation to his Excellency in support of the request for a double dissolution?

Again Mr. Cook smiled, on this occasion more broadly than before. "That is another assumption, and infers that an elaborate document was presented to the Governor-General." The matter seemed to amuse Mr. Cook very much, and he laughed heartily, but without making any further comment.

THE DISSOLUTION.

"BUTCHERED CONSTITUTION."

MR. W. M. HUGHES'S VIEWS.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Mr. W. M. Hughes, M.P., made the following statement to-day:—"The announcement made by the Prime Minister that the Governor-General had granted a double dissolution—contingent apparently upon supply being agreed to—came as a surprise to many.

DECISION IS WRONG.

"In my opinion the decision of His Excellency is wrong, not sanctioned by precedent, and completely opposed to and destructive of the foundations upon which the Federal compact rests. Let me briefly set forth the facts of the case. The Federal Parliament is the creature of the Constitution. Its powers and liabilities are limited by that document. When it was first framed the Constitution was regarded as an almost flawless instrument. Latterly, some doubts have arisen whether it ought not to be amended. But every attempt to amend it has been vehemently denounced. It therefore stands practically as it left the convention, and under it the Senate has for all practical purposes the same legislative powers as the House of Representatives. The Senate has been dissolved improperly. It did nothing that it was not entitled to do under the Constitution. It was, in fact, charged by the Constitution to do the very thing it did do. It had, moreover, the authority of the people, given twelve months ago, behind it. The Senate acted within its constitutional rights. If it did not, there is no need for the Senate and it ought to be forthwith abolished. The question is, was the Senate under the Constitution within its rights in rejecting this measure. The answer is to be found from an examination of the Constitution itself and in this way only. This point needs special emphasis.

BOUND BY THE LAW.

"There seems to be good reason for the opinion that in the present case this fact has been ignored, or has been ingeniously glozed over by the legal advisers to the Crown. The discretion of the King's representative as to the dissolution of the Lower House is unfettered. But with a double dissolution the position is quite different. It may be a most expedient thing to dissolve both Houses of Parliament at once, but the Governor-General has no discretion to do what is expedient. Section 61 makes him the defender and guardian of the Constitution. He must do what is right from the standpoint of the Constitution. He is bound by the law, as is the judicature. He must satisfy himself beyond reasonable doubt whether, considering the Constitution as a whole, he is entitled in any given circumstances to dissolve the Senate at all. For advice upon the legal position he must go to the Attorney-General, without whose certificate he assents to no bill. For, unless that be so, the question of whether it is expedient—expedient I mean in the interests of the people, not in the interests of party—to dissolve does not arise. That is the position of the Governor-General under the Constitution.

"The Senate was to be a great and powerful Chamber. This decision of the Governor-General has made it of less real importance than a shire council. If the Senate is not to be allowed to have any share in legislation, it is only a glorified and very expensive debating society. If the Constitution intended that the Senate should pass every measure sent up to it by the House of Representatives it would have said so. No doubt the will of the people must prevail, but the Constitution is the concrete embodiment of the will of the people. It can be amended, but its provisions ought not to be ignored. In any case, in order to serve mere party interests, so far as the figures of the last election show, the will of the majority of the people is behind the majority in the Senate which threw out the bill, and the minority (of one) in the House of Representatives, which voted against it.

REPUGNANT TO CONSTITUTION.

"The contention that the rejection of any measure by the Senate makes a dissolution of both Houses imperative is repugnant to the Constitution and to common sense. Section 57 was not intended to cover a sham intended as a pivot for party manoeuvring like the so-called "test" bill of the Government. If it was right to dissolve the Senate because it voted against the Preference Prohibition Bill (an admitted sham), then the Senate can be dissolved if they dare to vote against or amend any bill, no matter how trivial.

"But such a view is completely inconsistent with the wide powers with which the Constitution has deliberately clothed the Senate, and this the legal adviser of the Crown, and upon whose advice the Governor-General, a layman and unfamiliar with the Constitution, must have wholly relied in this matter, knows perfectly well. Upon him rests the responsibility in this matter. Now as to the other point, that of expediency. Granting for the sake of argument that under the Constitution the Senate may be dissolved, the question then arises, is it expedient to dissolve it? It has become an axiom of responsible government here that the possibilities of the Parliament must be exhausted before a dissolution should be given. It may be urged that the Parliament is unworkable. What reason is there for believing that an appeal to the electors will materially change the position? The figures of the last election are fatal to such a presumption. The overwhelming victory gained by Labour over Liberalism in New South Wales last December shows the Government to be a falling star. Admittedly, anything may happen in politics, but the probabilities have to be looked at, and these are fatal to the contention that an appeal will give the Government a working majority in both Houses. In the Senate it certainly will not. But if the double dissolution will not give the Government a working majority there is absolutely no justification for granting them a dissolution. Success is the only justification.

THE COUNTRY UPSET.

"If the probable results of an appeal are to leave things in essentials as they were, a dissolution only disturbs business, and wastes money. Any unprejudiced person familiar with Australian politics knows that the results of the next appeal to the people can only put an end to the existing state of things, and enable business to be smoothly carried on—viz., that the Labour party should secure a majority in the Lower House. That is the only possible solution. But for that very reason a dissolution ought not to have been granted to the present Government. It is highly improbable that they can convert a minority into a majority. Every one who has the least knowledge of Commonwealth politics knows this. If the Labour party does not get a majority in the House of Representatives the position will not be in any way improved by the appeal. A sum of £80,000 will have been wasted, and the country upset. The fact is this: That the crisis has been engineered for party purposes. The Constitution has been butchered in the hope of securing a party triumph, and those who have done this thing pose as champions of the Constitution and denounce every attempt to amend it. The people have been appealed to. If they will but contrast what Messrs. Cook and Irvine promised 12 months ago with their actions since there is little doubt as to the result of the appeal."

ANOTHER LABOUR ATTACK.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

An attack upon the Governor-General was made by Mr. Matthews, M.P., at a meeting of the Port Melbourne branch of the Political Labour Council to-night.

He said the one to blame for the double dissolution was the Governor-General.

"My opinion is this," continued Mr. Matthews, "that the Governor-General, though fresh here, might just as well pack back again. If there is any method of recall for a man being biassed it should be exercised at this particular time."

OPPOSITION LEADER.

"NOTHING TO TALK ABOUT."

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Both at Parliament House and around the Federal Departments there was nothing to-day to suggest that a dramatic development had occurred in political circles and a double appeal to the people was pending.

Interstate members, as usual, spent the week-end at their homes, and will not be back in Melbourne until to-morrow or Wednesday. The party rooms at Parliament House looked cold and uninviting, with so few members about the building.

A public holiday means total abstention from work for politicians, and to-day was no exception to the rule.

During the afternoon the leader of the Opposition (Mr. Fisher) was in his room for an hour or so, and the whole of the time was spent in conversation with callers interested in the Labour cause who desired to consult him.

"I have absolutely nothing to say," was his reply to a question with regard to the political position, and, he added: "What can there be to talk about on a holiday?"

The only Minister who could be found was Sir John Forrest, who spent some little time in consultation with three or four members of the Liberal party who visited Parliament House. Among the callers on the Federal Treasurer was the former member for Fremantle (Mr. Hedges), who stated that he did not intend to seek re-election on the approaching election. In conversation, Mr. Hedges explained that practically nothing had been done to revise the Fremantle rolls, and that they were still in a shocking condition.

Members of both parties expect to be kept busily employed to-morrow. Notices have been sent out by whips on both sides for meetings in the afternoon, and preliminary steps will no doubt be taken towards conducting the campaign.

A meeting of the Cabinet will be held in the evening, but no announcement is expected with regard to the date of the election, and no decision is likely to be aimed at, until arrangements have been made with the Opposition concerning the length of the debate on the Supply Bill. It is generally believed, however, that the date already given—Saturday, August 29—will be very near the mark.

An indication that there will not be a great waste of time in the House of Representatives is that the Opposition whip (Mr. Page) hopes to leave Melbourne for England on Friday next, and the Treasurer expects to be back in Western Australia within three weeks.

PENSIONS FOR WIDOWS.

LABOUR PARTY'S PROPOSAL.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Although no official announcement has been made by the Federal Opposition leader (Mr. Fisher) it is stated that the Labour policy on which the approaching campaign will be fought will include at least one feature calculated to act as a "draw" to those who are not altogether in sympathy with the Labour objective.

This is said to be a proposal that pensions should be made available for widows and orphans on somewhat similar lines to those already granted to aged persons and invalids. Protection for deserted wives and children will also be in the forefront of the programme, and the proposal to establish State-owned steamer communication with Tasmania will again be brought forward.

THE PROSPECTS.

POSITION IN OTHER STATES.

PARTY CHANCES.

Whilst it is generally agreed that New South Wales will be the pivot State, as far as the House of Representatives is concerned, the position in the other States is also important. A Labour gain in Victoria, South Australia, or Queensland would counteract any advantages secured by the Liberals in this State. A statement of the position, as far as it can be gauged, is, therefore, of interest.

The position appears to be that there are open to serious attack in Victoria three Labour seats; in Queensland one Labour seat; in South Australia two Labour seats and one Liberal seat; in Western Australia two Liberal seats; and in Tasmania three Labour seats; or, altogether, nine Labour and three Liberal seats.

VICTORIA.

HOPEFUL OUTLOOK.

The position in Victoria is that the Liberals hold twelve, and the Labourites nine seats. None of the latter are country electorates. They comprise Ballarat and Bendigo, and the seven Melbourne divisions of Batman, Bourke, Fawkner, Maribyrnong, Melbourne, Melbourne Ports, and Yarra. Of the Melbourne seats Batman, Bourke, Melbourne, Melbourne Ports, and Yarra are held by such large majorities (ranging from 17,846 in the case of Melbourne Ports to 6419 in the case of Bourke) that the sitting Labour members are almost certain to retain them. Maribyrnong was won by Mr. Fenton last year by 6696 votes. He is being opposed on this occasion by Mr. E. H. Reynolds, a very young candidate, who is a capable and forceful speaker. He will be very fortunate, however, if he shakes Mr. Fenton's seemingly impregnable position.

Fawkner was a Labour win last year, when Mr. G. Fairbairn was defeated by 2033 votes. It was generally recognised that deficient organisation and slackness on the part of Liberal supporters were largely responsible for the result. On this occasion the Liberal candidate is Mr. F. Carse, a young lawyer, who has an attractive personality and a reputation as a public speaker. With an energetic campaign it is just possible that this seat may be regained, though it seems as if it is the only one of the Labour seats in Melbourne in which the Liberals have a reasonable chance.

Ballarat and Bendigo were both Labour wins last year, and special interest attached to both divisions, because Ballarat was Mr. Deakin's old constituency, and Sir John Quick was defeated at Bendigo. In both instances there is a possibility of the Liberals winning on this occasion. It is still uncertain whether Mr. H. V. M'Kay, of "Harvester" fame, will again be the candidate at Ballarat. He was defeated by only 368 votes at the last election. There was a good deal of criticism with regard to the manner in which the election was conducted, and the purification of the rolls will, it is believed, assist the Liberal candidate. The sitting Labour member has achieved a certain amount of popularity locally in Labour circles, by reason of his somewhat irresponsible, outspoken utterances on political matters (e.g., his criticism of the Governor-General's action in granting a double dissolution.) But his majority is so narrow and the parties are so evenly divided, that it is clear that the Liberal candidate will have at all events a good sporting chance.

At Bendigo Mr. Arthur, a young lawyer, defeated Sir John Quick by 1110 votes, but as a third candidate polled 821 votes, it is clear that the Labour candidate's plurality is not as large as appears on the surface. Sir John Quick will not again seek the suffrages of his old constituency, and the Liberal candidate is Mr. F. Maldon Robb, a native of the district, who has a good chance of winning with effective organisation.

SAFE LIBERAL SEATS.

In the case of none of the Liberal seats in Victoria is there apparently any fear of a Labour victory. Mr. Agar Wynne (or whoever should succeed him in the candidature) is quite safe at Balaclava, and Echuca, Henty, Kooyong (where, apparently, Sir Robert Best is again to be opposed by Miss Vida Goldstein), and Wimmera are held by such large majorities that the sitting Liberal members are virtually impregnable. Corangamite, Corio, and Indi, which were Liberal gains last year, are held by smaller majorities (1390, 1034, and 1106, respectively), but Mr. Manifold, Mr. Kendall, and Mr. Ahern have increased their hold on the divisions, and should, it is thought, have no difficulty in retaining them. It was generally thought that Mr. W. H. Irvine was in danger last year, at Flinders, but the Attorney-General was returned by a majority of 4222, and he should be equally safe on this occasion. Mr. Hans Irvine, at Grampians (majority 2223), and Mr. Rodgers, at Wannon (majority 2513), are also thought to be in a secure position.

Summing up the position in Victoria, therefore, it may be stated that none of the twelve Liberal seats are thought to be in danger, whilst at least three Labour seats (Ballarat, Bendigo, and Fawkner) are possible wins. The Liberal organisation is in a more efficient condition than last year, whilst the Labour organisation is backward. There are still ten Labour candidates out of 21 seats to be selected.

QUEENSLAND.

Liberals represent only three out of the 10 Queensland constituencies, and it is improbable that any of them will be won by Labour. Mr. Groom, with a majority of 5197 at Darling Downs, and Mr. Sinclair, with a majority of 5992 at Moreton, have perfectly safe seats, and Mr. Stumm, who secured the new seat of Lilley with a majority of 2719 last year, is also considered quite safe. Of the Labour seats, Brisbane, Capricornia, Herbert, Kennedy, and Maranoa are all held by majorities of over 4000, and are probably safe seats for Labour. At Wide Bay it was thought that Mr. Wienholt had a good chance against Mr. Fisher last year, but he Leader of the Opposition secured a majority of 3159, and it will no difficult to shake his position. There remains Oxley, where Mr. Sharpe secured a majority of 2717. There were serious charges of electoral irregularities made in connection with this constituency last year, and it is believed that there is an actual Liberal majority of bona-fide votes. At all events, this would seem to be the only Queensland seat in which, superficially, the Liberals have a chance of winning.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

In South Australia the Liberals hold three and Labour four seats. Mr. Glynn will probably again be returned unopposed for Angas, and Mr. Livingstone is safe with a majority of 4741 for Barker. Mr. Foster's seat (Wakefield) was considered uncertain last year, but he secured a majority of nearly 2000 (1980), and he will probably be able to retain his position, although the division is clearly open to attack. Mr. Yates, who succeeded Mr. Roberts at Adelaide, was returned unopposed at the recent by-election, and is quite safe, and the same is true of Mr. Archibald at Hindmarsh, he also securing an unopposed return. At Boothby Mr. Dankel, the German-Australian who defeated Mr. Gordon, the old Liberal member, secured a majority of 1941 by means of a house-to-house canvas conducted with great perseverance and consistency. The seat can, it is thought, be won, but the Labour member has a firm hold on his constituency, and will prove a strenuous opponent. Grey was regarded as a possible win last year, but Mr. Poynton secured a majority of 980 votes, and the margin is sufficiently narrow to give the Liberals encouragement in their present campaign. In South Australia, therefore, there appear to be three divisions (two Liberal and one Labour) which are open to attack.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

Although there is a large Labour majority in the State Parliament, and there are six Labour Senators, Western Australia returns three Liberals as against two Labourites to the House of Representatives. The Labour party is, however, hopeful of redressing the balance on the present occasion. Their two seats are probably safe. Mr. Mahon succeeded Mr. Frazer in the representation of Kalgoorlie, and Mr. Burchell, who gained Fremantle from Mr. Hedges by a majority of 3293, will probably retain the seat. Dampier represented a gain from Labour last year, but as Mr. Gregory's majority was only 1211 the seat is clearly open to attack. The same is true of Perth, where Mr. Fowler secured a majority of 1845 in spite of a very bitter and strenuous campaign. Sir John Forrest is to be given the "contest of his life" on this occasion for Swan. But the Federal Treasurer is always told this by his opponents, and his prestige and popularity invariably secure his return. He had a majority of 2676 last year, and, although he will again be vigorously opposed, he should retain his seat without much difficulty. The only possible changes in Western Australia, so far as can be seen, are therefore in respect of the two Liberal seats held by comparatively small majorities.

TASMANIA.

Tasmania returned three Labourites and two Liberals last year. Mr. M'Williams and Mr. Atkinson are considered safe for Franklin and Wilmot with majorities of 1963 and 3329 respectively. The three Labour seats are held by much narrowed majorities, and all of them are considered open to attack. Mr. Jensen was elected for Bass with a majority of 742, Mr. King O'Malley was returned for Darwin with a majority of 660, and Mr. Laird Smith secured a majority of 1104 for Denison. Mr. O'Malley's seat is especially thought to be a possible Liberal win, as there has been a falling-off of labour employed on the Zeehan mining field. In any case, if any changes occur in Tasmania they are likely to favour the Liberal rather than the Labour candidates.

OPPOSITION FOR MR. COOK.

The executive of the Political Labour League met last night to consider nominations for the remaining five seats to complete the list of endorsed Labour candidates for the House of Representatives. Preparations were also initiated for the campaign.

The only decision arrived at was to contest Parramatta in opposition to the Prime Minister, Mr. Joseph Cook. By advertisement elsewhere applications are invited up to 5 p.m. on Friday.

Another meeting of the executive will be held on Friday night to deal with these and other applications.

"At the present," said Mr. J. Grant, the general secretary, yesterday, "our efforts are being directed towards securing the fullest number of names on the Federal rolls. We find the position is even worse than we originally thought. Reports from the country state that the police engaged collecting State rolls are leaving the people to understand that their names are being put on the Federal roll, whereas they are not. It is difficult to overtake these misconceptions. The people are bound, under a penalty of £2, if they do not see to their enrolment. They should call at the post-office and see the Federal roll. If their names are not on the roll they should get an enrolment card, and send it on at once.

"It is to be regretted," he added, "that the present contest will be fought mainly during the winter months. This means that many electors will not be reached by means of open-air meetings."

LIBERAL WORKERS' INSTITUTE.

CONGRATULATES PRIME MINISTER.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

At the annual congress of the Liberal Workers' Institute to-day the president (Mr. Myers) announced that he had, in the name of the institute, sent the following telegram to the Prime Minister (Mr. Cook):—"Liberal workers' congress congratulates yourself, Federal Cabinet, and Liberal members on the magnificent fight for industrial justice to all workers. Be assured of whole-hearted support in the coming campaign from Victorian Liberal workers."

Mr. Myers' action was ratified by the congress.

COUNTRY NEWS.

JENOLAN CAVES.

KATOOMBA, Monday.

Owing to the growing popularity of Jenolan Caves as one of the State's principal tourist resorts, it has been found necessary to make extra provision for the rapidly-increasing number of tourists visiting this centre. The arrangements made for the Caves inspection have been adversely commented upon by numerous summer visitors during the past season. The proposition of having the present system of stereotyped inspections altered was brought under the notice of the Assistant State Treasurer, and a committee, by several residents of the district, at Katoomba recently. But, so far, no different scheme has been inaugurated. The unsuitability of the present site for the tourists' reserve is also a matter requiring departmental consideration, as it is stated to be totally inadequate for the present requirements. With reference to the present camping reserve, the department does not favour M'Keown's Creek site, on the ground that campers using same might pollute the Caves' water supply.

PROPOSED NEW RAILWAY.

QUIRINDI, Monday.

A movement is on foot to secure the opening up of a line of railway to connect Murrurundi and Curlewis. It is suggested that such a line would proceed further up the Page River and pass through the dividing range, and that it would cost less than the duplication of the line from Murrurundi to Werris Creek, besides avoiding the heavy gradients through the Ardglen tunnel. Such a line would pass through splendid land, much of which is being cut up for closer settlement. It would also connect with the line from Werris Creek to Dubbo.

THE MOUNTAINS.

KATOOMBA, Monday.

Notwithstanding the fact that the month of June is generally considered by the public in search of holiday resorts as an "off" month for mountaineering, Blue Mountain resorts have had a record number of city visitors at Katoomba and other popular centres of the district on Saturday and to-day for the holiday. The weather for early winter has been exceptionally mild for the past few weeks. Old residents state that it is many years since such perfect weather, for early winter, was experienced in the Blue Mountains district.

HOTEL BURNT AT BOOMI.

MOREE, Monday.

The Royal Hotel at Boomi was destroyed by fire last night. The building was insured with the Liverpool, London, and Globe Company for £1500, and furniture and stock with the same company for £800. The property was owned by J. Maloney, of Quirindi, and occupied by Richard Lennox, of Boomi.

THE CHURCHES.

GOULBURN, Monday.

A successful meeting was held at Sts. Peter and Paul's Cathedral yesterday in support of a movement to raise £30,000 for St. John's College. Bishop Gallagher presided, and Mr. F. Coen represented the executive. A number of donations have been promised. The Bishop has given a hundred guineas.

At St. Saviour's Cathedral yesterday, Bishop Barlow ordained to the priesthood Rev. Percival Sharp, B.A., formerly of Bathurst, now domestic chaplain to the Bishop; also the Rev. G. North, assistant curate to the Archdeacon of Monaro.

WAUCHOPE, Monday.

The Wauchope Methodist Church, in Port Macquarie circuit, was opened on Sunday by Rev. F. Colwell, president of the conference, assisted by Revs. John Hulme, L. G. Wilson, and J. Morris (Anglican), in the presence of a large congregation. The church, which is a building of brick, costing £600, has an elaborate design, and is capable of seating 180 persons.

THE HOSPITALS.

COONAMBLE, Monday.

The member for the district has notified the hospital committee that the Government will grant £400 to the wards and the erection of nurses' quarters, provided the committee will give £200. This offer has been accepted by the committee.

PORTLAND, Monday.

At a meeting of the Jockey Club to settle up the accounts of the meeting recently held in aid of the local hospital it was announced that the net profits amounted to £65, and this sum has been handed over to the treasurer of the institution.

ARMIDALE, Monday.

Mr. T. F. Foyan, Tingha, was ordained deacon, and the Rev. E. J. Holmes, Gunnedah, ordained priest at St. Peters Cathedral yesterday.

BYRON BAY, Monday.

At the last meeting of the Byron Shire it was reported that all the hyacinth in the creeks in the shire had been cleaned out. In some places it was heavy, and the two creeks affected were expected to be finished in a week.

GOULBURN, Monday.

An effort is being made to increase the interest in the trades classes. Mr. Nangle, Superintendent of Technical Education, addressed a meeting at the technical college, and explained the new system.

Mr. F. W. Yates, a well-known local Labour man, has been selected by the electorate council as Labour candidate for Werriwa.

KATOOMBA, Monday.

Owing to the remarkable developments during the past 18 months, present telephone facilities are now proving totally inadequate, and as a result it is now proposed not to make an extension of the existing switchboard, but to instal a complete new equipment.

SINGLETON, Monday.

Mr. R. M. Bell, manager of Baroona estate for the past nine years, was farewelled by a large number of friends on Saturday night. Mr. Bell is going to Queensland, where, with his two brothers, he will launch into pastoral pursuits.

SMALLPOX.

THE BUNBURY CASES.

DEATH OF A PATIENT.

PERTH, Monday.

The boy Morrison, one of the Bunbury smallpox patients, died in the Quarantine Station on Sunday. Deceased occupied the next bed to the lascar who first brought the disease to the town, and who was under treatment at the hospital before the nature of the disease was discovered.

Nurse Hamilton, who relieved Nurse Williams at the Quarantine Station about two weeks ago, when she contracted smallpox, has now developed the disease herself in a mild form.

There are no fresh developments in the town, which by now has been proved free from infection, as all the cases to date have been contracted either in the hospital while the lascar was there or at the Quarantine Station.

THREE CASES IN SYDNEY.

Three cases of smallpox were reported by the health authorities yesterday. The patients were two children living at St. Peters and a woman at Erskineville.

NEWCASTLE.

BARQUE MEETS HEAVY WEATHER.

NEWCASTLE, Monday.

The German four-masted barque Carl Rudgert Vinnen arrived from Santa Rosalia this afternoon after a passage of 58 days. After passing New Caledonia the barque encountered strong winds, rough seas, and heavy falls of rain.

SCIENCE CONGRESS.

In order to give the British scientists a better idea of what New South Wales is like than can be got from any ordinary handbook or official publication, a sub-committee of the local branch of the Australasian Association for the Advancement of Science has just issued a handbook. This gives a description of New South Wales as it was and is from a number of points of view. Its geography and history are outlined, and from the articles which refer to social, economic, legislative, agricultural, and scientific subjects in their broadest aspects the visitors will be able to glean a good idea of what has been accomplished in various directions.

BARRIER MEAT SUPPLY.

BROKEN HILL, Monday.

Master butchers spent part of the holiday in discussing the price of meat. The matters in argument were the price of mutton and beef, and the shortage of stock. It was pointed out that sheep which last year were selling at 17s had now risen from 20s to 25s, and were very scarce. Cattle had risen correspondingly, if not on a higher percentage. The meeting decided to try to make arrangements for a better supply of stock.

INTERSTATE CHESS.

NEW SOUTH WALES V. VICTORIA.

MATCH UNFINISHED.

Possibly the strongest chess team that has represented New South Wales yesterday failed to fulfil expectations. With top board players, such as Messrs. Viner (champion of Australia), Jacobsen (ex-champion), M'Arthur, and S. Crakanthorp (State champions), the match was regarded as a sure win for the local men.

Anticipations, however, were not realised. Viner, who was opposed by Watson, played an interesting game. The latter was somewhat impetuous, for the second player on an opening like the "French." Viner built up a strong-looking attack, but it was cleverly met by his opponent, who emerged from the middle game with a slight positional advantage. Viner then developed his pieces, and secured equality. The game went to the 54th move, when it was unfinished, and left for adjudication in a Bishop and Pawn ending.

M'Arthur, who was not in form, played an unwise opening, which left him with a bad game. His opponent (Grant) won a piece, and the game went to Victoria at the 18th move.

A. Jacobsen (N.S.W.) played the Q P opening against Steele. A blocked position ensued, and the game became very complicated. At the adjournment the Victorian was a pawn to the good.

Spencer Crakanthorp (N.S.W.) had a hard fight against Erskine. The former, by bold play, eventually forced a win in capital style.

H. V. Crane (N.S.W.) and Loughran also had a hard tussle, which ended in a draw.

L. S. Crakanthorp (N.S.W.) was opposed to Coultas, a much improved Victorian player. The latter got a strong king's side attack, and forced a win for Victoria.

Bradshaw (N.S.W.) played against Read, who adopted a weak defence to the Ruy Lopez. The Sydney man massed his forces against a castled king, and won by a brilliant mate.

W. Crane (N.S.W.) got the better of a French defence, which he played against Harrison. The latter was at the adjournment a pawn to the bad.

Bignold (N.S.W.) also stands a pawn to the good in his unfinished game against C. Moulin.

Calvert (N.S.W.) had an exciting fight against Russell, who formerly played for this State. The game was unfinished.

The results are:—

LIGHTING OF KATOOMBA.

KATOOMBA, Monday.

Considerable public interest has been centred on the question of municipal lighting for the Katoomba Municipality. Since the installation of the Katoomba and Leura Gas Company some years ago, this service has been made use of for street lighting purposes, but, at the last municipal election, the ratepayers were called upon to decide by ballot whether they were in favour of a municipal electric lighting plant being installed. In the meantime, a private electric lighting company commenced operations at Katoomba, and were successful in having power installed in a large number of business premises and buildings. As the ratepayers recorded a negative vote on the municipal electric lighting question the matter again came before the council for discussion at the last meeting, when the question of making a definite decision was debated at length. Alderman H. K. Goyder moved that the offer of the Katoomba Electric Light Supply Company to light the streets of Katoomba with electric lights for a period of ten years at the price of £4 10s per light per annum be accepted, subject to the council's solicitor's approval of the agreement, and subject to the council having the right to purchase the poles, mains, and fittings erected in the streets at the termination of the contract if the council then decides to establish its own works. After discussion, the motion was carried.

BURNED TO DEATH.

LITHGOW, Monday.

The tragedy at Torbane, whereby Mrs. D. Charles was burned to death and her house razed to the ground, has aroused deep sympathy throughout the district. A relief committee has been appointed to endeavour to raise funds for the bereaved husband and three young children. An appeal is to be made to the various industrial unions in the district.

FOOTBALL.

RUGBY UNION.

PREMIERS AGAIN BEATEN.

Glebe defeated University by 13 points to nil.
North Sydney defeated Eastern Suburbs by 19 points to 10.
Newtown defeated Manly by 8 points to nil.
South Sydney defeated St. George by 6 points to nil.
Randwick defeated Western Suburbs by 5 points to 3.

The most noteworthy feature of the seventh round of matches in the Metropolitan Rugby Union competition was the defeat of the premiers by North Sydney. All the games were played on wet fields, and the ball proved in some cases most elusive.

Glebe inflicted on University their third successive defeat. The forwards of the winners were altogether too powerful, and gradually wore down the collegians. In the second half the speed of the students often resulted in dashes up field, but generally the winners had much the better of play.

Eastern Suburbs met with their second defeat at the hands of North Sydney in the early game at the University oval. The winners played a game better suited to the conditions, and consequently won, although the losers' forwards were heavier.

South Sydney retained their unbeaten record by defeating St. George. The rushing tactics that have succeeded against other teams again proved too much for St. George, and the defence, which proved very sound, was gradually worn down.

Randwick and Western Suburbs had an even tussle at St. Luke's oval, where the field made fast play impossible. The winners deserved their win, the forwards being very good.

Newtown defeated Manly at Manly oval by 8 points to nil. The superiority of the visitors mainly lay in their better adapting themselves to the conditions of wet weather, heavy ground, and greasy ball. Mr. Harding's work as referee tended greatly towards making the struggle a first-class exhibition of wet-weather football.

FIRST GRADE COMPETITION.

UNIVERSITY v GLEBE.

Played at University Oval, and won by Glebe by 13 points to nil.

University.—Full-back, J. M. Beith; three-quarters, R. M. Paine, M. Fenner, S. Garratt, N. G. Sutton; half-backs, G. R. Hamilton, W. R. Aspinall (capt.); forwards, R. C. Irving, J. S. Milner, R. G. Irons, C. G. Allen, G. P. Arnold, A. Langan, P. Hindmarsh, I. R. Heath. Paine retired hurt, and was replaced by Henry.

Glebe.—Full-back, F. Buckle; three-quarters, M. Massey-Westropp, G. Messenger, O. Oberg, J. Fisher; half-backs, L. W. Wogan, F. Wood (capt.); forwards, V. Charker, C. O'Donnell, C. Smith, R. G. Stone, R. Summers, J. C. Ives, G. Bowen, R. Forbes.

Referee: Mr. C. C. Butt.

Glebe started by rushing the ball to University's line, where Beith blocked them. Wood frequently tried to start his backs going, but the spoiling work of Hamilton and Heath nullified his efforts, and the University forwards were holding their own against the heaving opposition. A loose kick by Fenner cleared the line, and with Milner in the lead the Collegians dribbled the length of the field, but Buckle's relieving kick found touch at half-way. Here Paine retired hurt, and Henry took his place. It was not long before the Glebe forwards rushed the ball over the line, where Charker dropped on it. Buckle converted, and Glebe led by 5 to nil. Hamilton next made a fine run, but a bad pass spoiled a good chance. The spell ended with University attacking.

In the second half the winners' forwards had much the better of play. They bunched well in attack, and supported their backs splendidly in defence, while the fight put up in the first spell had told on University. Occasionally a long run by Fenner or Hamilton gave the Scholars hope, but they were poorly supported. Glebe made their second score by a nice passing rush, which Fisher failed to finish. Stone, however, dribbled on and crossed in good position. Buckle missed the goal. Glebe, 8 to nil. The issue was by no means settled, as the University sprinter twice looked like getting a clear run. However, the ball always bounced well for Buckle, and he saved. The Collegians tested the Glebe defence in a very torrid ten minutes after this, but Wogan relieved by one of his characteristic rushes down field. The Glebes took the ball, and several attempts to get it failed badly. Wood picked up, and sent a beautiful pass to Wogan, on to Oberg, whose pass to Westropp was forward. Finally Wood set his men going, and Wogan, Messenger, and Oberg all handled well, the last-named scoring. Messenger kicked the goal. Glebe, 13 to nil.

EASTERN SUBURBS v NORTH SYDNEY.

Played at University Oval, and won by North Sydney by 19 points to 10.

Eastern Suburbs.—Full-back, B. Acton; three-quarters, Tas. Jones, J. Bosward (capt.), R. Lucas, F. Coulsen; half-backs, W. S. Dixon, R. Geddes; forwards, H. George, P. Russell, C. Herford, C. Wallach, A. Holdsworth, J. Duffy, F. Thompson, A. Smith.

North Sydney.—Full-back, J. D. Wilkinson; three-quarters, L. R. Mayo, S. Glisson, S. Hay, A. E. Pratt; half-backs, L. Jacobs, O. Humphreys; forwards, L. J. Reynolds (capt.), J. Archer Burton, B. D. Hughes, S. A. Geddes, M. Hughes, S. Evatt, W. Tucker, N. Graham.

Referee: Mr. B. I. Swannell.

North Sydney started the game short-handed, but held their own with their opponents until the late arrivals appeared. The Northern forwards kept the ball at toe, and placed the Easterners on the defence. Burton was the first to score, after Mayo had failed to take a pass cleanly. Reynolds failed at goal. North Sydney, 3 to nil. It was not long before Eastern Suburbs equalised. George beat Wilkinson by a neat foot pass to Thompson, who picked up and sent to Coulson, who centred, and Herford scored with three comrades unmarked outside him. Lucas missed the goal. 3 all. The Shoremen continued on the offensive, and Geddes, Hughes, and Reynolds all figured prominently in the loose rushes. The Eastern backs were slow at going down on the ball, and the forwards also kept letting their opponents through. After twice failing to handle cleanly, Mayo dropped on the ball after Acton failed to ground it, and scored. Reynolds converted. North Sydney, 8; Eastern Suburbs, 3. Half-time.

On resuming, both sides tried dry weather tactics, and the ball flew up and down field, first favouring one, then the other, side. A fine try to North Sydney resulted from a passing rush, in which all the backs handled the ball, Pratt crossing in the corner. Reynolds missed the goal. North Sydney, 11 to 3. Eastern Suburbs' heavier forwards now asserted themselves, and after several close attempts to score Coulson scored in a good position. Lucas again missed the goal.

The premiers maintained a solid attack for some time, but the handling was not clean. However, Lucas made amends for missing two goals by drop-kicking a magnificent field goal from the muddy patch in the centre of the field. North Sydney, 11; Eastern Suburbs, 10. With only a point separating the teams, a keen struggle ensued, but eventually the shoremen gained control, and added two tries in quick succession. The backs got moving from the scrum, and, although every man was met by an opponent, Glisson scored by doubling around his wing man and scoring in the corner. Humphries goaled. North Sydney, 16; Eastern Suburbs, 10. North Sydney again attacked, and the ball travelled across goal, in a dangerous position, several times. Finally Burton sent to Hay, to Glisson, to Humphries, who dived over just as Thompson touched his foot. Humphries' kick just missed the posts, and North Sydney won by 19 points to 10.

NEWTOWN v MANLY.

Played at Manly Oval, and won by Newtown by 8 points to nil. Teams:—

Newtown.—Full-back, B. Prenderville; three-quarters, J. Parry, H. Hunt, W. Morris, R. Roberts; half-backs, W. G. Tasker (captain), L. Newman; forwards, T. Cooper, B. Ferguson, W. T. Watson, C. Hill, G. Hill, R. Hill, B. Rogers, W. Moon.

Manly.—Full-back: R. Farnell; three-quarters, C. Terry, F. Duffy, W. Pantlin, H. Merrett; half-backs, M. Eyles, H. Kirk; forwards, A. Buckley, R. Clifton, R. Campbell, L. Smith, J. Archer (captain), O. Dryden, A. Cowper, E. M'Mahon.

Referee: Mr. O. H. Harding.

The ground after the morning's rain was in a very bad condition, being muddy and treacherous. Newtown attacked strongly from the kick-off, and rushed play to Manly 25. Kirk eventually relieved, and the Manly forwards carried back to halfway. Here Watson secured in the loose, and sent to Parry, who cut in, and when tackled by Farnell passed back over his shoulder to Cooper, who threw himself across mid-way between the posts and the corner flag. Tasker's kick failed, and Newtown led 3 to nil. Newtown still kept up the pressure, and very shortly Cooper scored another try after some good dribbling by the forwards. Morris converted. Shortly after the drop-out Carr secured from a loose kick, and, running strongly, looked like scoring, but was magnificently tackled by Tasker a few feet short of the line. The half-time whistle went with Newtown leading 8 to nil. Farnell forced for Manly just prior to the interval.

On resuming, the locals made determined efforts to score, and Buckley, breaking away, sent to Archer, to Clifton, but the latter's pass was forward, and Newtown relieved. Play now became monotonous. Newtown dribbled the ball to the goal line, but in diving for the try R. Hill was beaten by Farnell, who kicked dead. Manly now took a hand, and Kirke, breaking round well, sent to Eyles, to Carr, who cut in and was only brought down by Hunt just short of the line. The Newtown forwards broke away after wheeling the scrum, but were penalised for Ferguson offside when a score appeared certain. Farnell's kick fell short, and Tasker found the line at Newtown's 25. The local team kept up the pressure, but were endeavouring to handle the greasy ball too much. At last a blue forward hung on, and Archer's kick just failed. Then Newtown returned to the attack, but the scores were unaltered, Newtown winning a fast and interesting game, well played under the conditions, by 8 points to nil.

WESTERN SUBURBS v RANDWICK.

Played at St. Luke's Park, and won by Randwick by 18 points to 8.

Western Suburbs.—Full-back, A. White; three-quarters, V. Conlon, A. W. Prentice, J. Walker, T. M'Caulay; halves, W. C. Prentice, M. Bate, W. Robinwards, H. Seddy, H. C. Prentice, A. Miller, E. son, R. Muggeridge, C. W. Prentice, A. Miller, E. Forbes.

Randwick.—Full-back, V. Grace; three-quarters, R. Manott, P. O'Keeffe, R. Bolden, H. Holmes; halves, P. Buchanan, E. Swinnerton; forwards, J. Stabback, J. Clarken, D. Anderson, E. Fahey, W. Cody, C. Moore, M. M'Nan, H. Bolden.

Referee, Mr. R. P. Cohen.

Shortly after commencing, Western Suburbs' forwards attacked vigorously, and kept the Randwick backs defending. In a scramble near half-way White received a nasty knock, play being stopped. From a throw-in Clarken and Fahey dribbled to their opponents' line, where R. Bolden, trying to pick up, knocked on. Here Cody marked in front of goal, and Grace missed an easy kick. Securing from a scrum, H. Bolden transferred to R. Bolden to Holmes, who scored. Grace converted. Randwick, 5 points to nil. The Randwick forwards were now playing excellently, beating their lighter opponents in loose and ruck. W. Prentice, with a brilliant run, transferred play to Randwick's 25. From a scrum Mitchell secured and dived over. W. C. Prentice failed to convert. The half-time scores were: Randwick, 5 points; Western Suburbs, 3 points.

The opening of the second half was noticeable for the fine play of the Westerners' backs. W. C. Prentice secured in the open, and passed to Conlon, whose transfer went astray. From a line-out near halfway R. Bolden secured, and breaking through the defence, transferred to Swinnerton, who scored. Grace converted. Randwick, 10 points to 3. Shortly afterwards Western Suburbs rallied, and after a good run Miller scored, Mitchell converting. Randwick, 10 points; Western Suburbs, 8. The game became very fast, Western Suburbs making every effort to obtain the lead. However, R. Bolden marked right in front of goal, Grace kicking the goal. Randwick, 13 points to 8. Randwick now held the upper hand, combination being the main factor of success. Swinnerton, punting high, R. Bolden secured, and scored. Grace converted. Randwick, 18 points to 8. At this period Mitchell was carried off the field, having sustained concussion of the brain. Western Suburbs attacked strongly, trying to add to their points, but the final whistle blew with Randwick winners by 18 points to 8.

SOUTH SYDNEY v ST. GEORGE.

Played at the Sports Ground, and won by South Sydney by 6 points to nil.

South Sydney.—Full-back, C. Wall; three-quarters, L. Malley, R. D. Fusedale, H. Boardman, A. Lawrence; five-eighth, W. Buist; half-back, H. Goddard; forwards, A. Pengelly (replaced by Dawson), J. Bond, W. Lenton, W. Maloney, P. Coll, J. Symons, G. Radcliffe, and A. Anderson.

St. George.—Full-back, E. West; three-quarters, H. Mullarkey, L. Lane, N. Mullarkey, A. Sargent; five-eigth, R. Sadler; half-back, J. Elliott; forwards, C. Wright, C. Hutchman, T. Proudfoot, C. M'Lachlan, K. Cooper, H. Billingham, N. Taylor, and R. Freeman.

Referee, Mr. R. C. Brown.

N. Mullarkey kicked off for St. George, with the wind blowing across the field. South Sydney forwards worked to their opponents' line, but a free and a relieving kick by West drove them back temporarily. Buist failed with a penalty shot at goal; then from a centre kick by Sargent, St. George worked to a better position, but Goddard marked. Buist had another unsuccessful shot at goal. Pengelly retired with a sprained ankle, and Dawson took his place. South Sydney three-quarters started a rush, but Fusedale punted too far, and West forced. Elliott was tackled before he kicked, and lost the ball. The forwards dribbled over, and Dawson dived on the ball, and scored. Buist just missed the goal. South Sydney, 3 to nil. Souths still had the better of matters, and St. George frequently forced. St. George were attacking, when Souths were penalised, but Fusedale marked under the bar. Buist kicked for the line, but H. Mullarkey secured the ball, and ran along touch. Fusedale intercepted his in-pass, and ran to half-way, where he centred, but West kicked the ball out in the corner. Half-time scores: South Sydney 3, St. George nil.

On resuming South Sydney again attacked, and from a scrum on the line the ball came out to Malley, who, beating his man, ran over and scored. No goal resulted. South Sydney 6, St. George nil. Buist punted to the right wing, but N. Mullarkey kicked up-field, and, following on, forced Wall out over half-way. South Sydney were having the better of the play in the open, but St. George often gained ground by resolute forward rushes. They carried the ball over, but a five yards' scrum resulted. South Sydney worked back to half-way, where play remained for some time. South Sydney made another invasion into the St. George 25, but the ball was again in neutral territory when "no side" sounded. South Sydney therefore won by 6 points to nil.

INTERSTATE RUGBY.

N.S.W. RETURNS UNCONQUERED.

The New South Wales Rugby Union team returned from Brisbane by the express yesterday morning. Mr. C. E. Morgan, the honorary manager of the team, spoke in very enthusiastic terms of the displays given by the light blues on their victorious tour, and stated that the backfield work was a revelation to the Brisbane people. The side won all three games, scoring 54 points, thus averaging 18 points per match. Jones, the Newcastle three-quarter, who played so dashingly last year in the representative games in Sydney, has, according to Mr. Morgan, improved considerably as the result of his tour through New Zealand last year, and his clever running was very much admired. Suttor, the Western crack three-quarter, has increased his pace, and his confidence and judgment make him the most dangerous attacking wing that the State has possessed for some time. He scored three tries in the first game. The new men to the interstate games Humphreys, Aspinall, Leddy, O'Toole, Bolden, and Simpson all played remarkably well and have improved as the result of their tour. Tasker also showed up very prominently in the games. The Queenslanders are very keen on winning in Sydney, and have altered their team.

HOME TEAM SELECTED.

Messrs. T. Duggan, T. Pauling, and S. A. Middleton, New South Wales Rugby Union selectors, met last night and picked the following team to play for New South Wales against Queensland at the Sports Ground next Saturday:—

F. Wood will act as captain, and the team is requested to report to him at the Sports Ground on Wednesday evening for practice.

AUSTRALIAN.

NATIVE BORN v OTHER STATES.

The match between the Native Born and Other States took place yesterday afternoon on the Australian Football Ground, the object of the game being to enable the selectors to form an opinion as to likely candidates for the carnival to be held in August next. A. Vincent captained the Native Born, and R. Robertson had charge of Other States.

The Natives had the advantage of the wind, and for the time they kept the Other States defending, the ball seldom passing centre. The bell rang with Native Born leading by 5-1 to nil. Three of the five goals were kicked by M'Inerney, of Paddington, Clarke and Erickson securing the others.

Changing over, the Other States were unable to stave off the aggressive Native Borns, who, despite the fact that the wind was against them, more than held their own. Half-time scores: Native Born, 5-4; Other States, 2-1. Murphy kicked both goals for the Other States.

The third quarter was all in favour of the Native Born, for, with the exception of a few brief flashes, the Other States were mostly defending. Three-quarter time scores: Native Born, 10-6; Other States, 3-1. The final scores were: Native Born, 10-8; Other States, 7-4.

INTERSTATE MATCH.

VICTORIA BEATS NEW SOUTH WALES.

Notwithstanding the rain yesterday, quite 3000 spectators visited Epping to witness the carnival games, the chief event of which was the interstate game Victoria v New South Wales. The visitors gave a splendid display, and thoroughly deserved their win by 3 goals to nil. Of the home side Lowe, Moore, Wyber, and Masters played well, but Hyde and Raitt always held the local vanguard.

Victoria: Twigg, Raitt, Hyde, Lowe, M'Millan, Fisle, Grieves, Brown, Ruddeman, Church, Anderson.

New South Wales: Lowe, Ross, Gill, Moore, Sneddon, Nash, Grogan, Wyber, Doerner, Masters, Blake.

Referee, E. Ratcliffe.

Moore, the New South Wales captain, won the toss, and elected to defend the southern goal. Ruddeman opened with the breeze against the visitors. Raitt forced a local attack back, and Grieves went forward, but a perfect centre shot was cleared by Gill, and the New South Wales carried the attack away. Doerner had an opening, but hesitated, a corner resulting, which Grogan placed badly, and Church cleared. A spell of even play followed, and Victoria went forward, Ruddeman just missing, and the visitors secured a resultless corner. New South Wales broke away, Wyber and Grogan being prominent, but Raitt was alert, and later a free put Victoria on the defensive, but Sneddon skied. New South Wales came again. Masters, however, passed wildly, and the attack being renewed Wyber sent over. A fine centre by Gorgan was cleared by Hyde, and Victoria then attacked, but Gill relieved. Even play followed, till Wyber sent over. Then a free put Victoria in an attacking position, Grieves giving a bye. Raitt sent the home side away, but "hands" being given against Masters pulled them up. Then a free to New South Wales resulted in Hyde driving them out, but Nash sent a hard drive to Twigg, and Grieves went away only to be checked by Ross. A fine cross by Grieves was neatly headed away by Ross, and then each side attacked in turn, till New South Wales was pulled up for an irregularity. Blake called on Twigg, and later Gill checked Ruddeman. Victoria attacked, but were sent back; and Lowe had a shot from Church to clear, but Victoria gained a corner, Moore heading away, and a free was obtained. Midfield play followed, till Anderson sent away, but New South Wales were alert, and invaded the visitors' territory, but without scoring.

The home team pressed, and Victoria's defence gave some fine clearing. Ross then sent the local side away again, but Brown and M'Millan caused anxiety till Ross relieved. Raitt saved an opening by Sneddon, but inaccurate passing spoilt a Victorian move forward. Ruddiman then, in a good position, was ruled off-side. Raitt sent the free back, but Wyber got his side going, a free bringing relief. Fisher, playing finely, gave his side an opening, but Sneddon sent his vanguard away, Hyde relieving. New South Wales raced away, but too much skying spoiled them, and a spell of midfield play followed. Victoria pressed again, but Ross and Gill relieved. Twigg then cleared a high shot well, and Ruddiman showed out well, till Ross checked. Then Brown and Ruddiman got going again, but offside spoiled their work. Offside also spoiled an attacking movement by the home team, but Blake sent one to Twigg, who cleared, and Sneddon brought play back again. Ruddiman, being injured, play was stopped for a time, and then Ross cleared a forward move by Brown. No score at half-time.

The second half opened with New South Wales attacking, Blake and Masters being prominent, but the former's shot just went wide. Ross stemmed a Victorian forward move, but they came again, and a fine centre by Anderson was badly missed by Ross; then Grieves securing in front of the goal, put the ball past Lowe. Victoria, 1 goal to nil. The locals rallied, and a fine shot by Masters was nicely cleared by Raitt. The visitors went forward, but Ruddiman could not score, although the local custodian was out of his place. The Victorians, through superior combination, kept their opponent's defence alert. Lowe was compelled to force, but from a well-placed free, Church tipped over the bar. Victoria, 2 goals to nil. Brown showed out in some fine individual play, but his shot was easily stopped by Lowe. New South Wales were penned in their own half for some time, Grogan and Wyber visited Raitt, but the latter punted into touch, and play for some time hovered about midway. Victoria attacked, Grieves sending a fast one to Lowe. Anderson met the rebound, but Lowe again cleared, the ball going to Ruddiman, who put it over. Victoria, 3 goals to nil. The visitors again bore down, Anderson missing a good opening just before Lowe gave a fruitless corner. Blake obtained, and gave his side a lead, but his perfect centre shot was cleared by Hyde. Play was in the Victorian portion till Anderson and Church made ground on the left wing, but Ross stopped further advance. Gill nearly let his side down, but Lowe threw the ball clear. Ross, playing soundly, with a fine clearance, sent Blake away, the ball finding touch at the Victorian 25. Matters looked ominous for the local team till Ruddiman passed forward to Grieves, offside. After a flash by the New South Wales front rank, Victoria pressed, a fine combined movement being frustrated by Nash, and play went to midfield. A false move by Hyde nearly brought a score, but only a corner resulted. A minute later the full-time whistle sounded, with the score Victoria 3 goals; New South Wales, nil.

INTERNATIONAL TOURNAMENT.

The first round of this tournament opened at Epping yesterday, and in the morning game England defeated Ireland after rather a slow game. The second game was won by Australia, by 3 goals to 1, after an interesting game.

ENGLAND v IRELAND.

Played at Epping, and won by England by 2 goals to 1.

Ireland:—Duggan, Hillyard, E. Doherty, McGee, Robbins, Drummond, Williams, Quill, Hill, Sanger, Tagart.

England.—Fowler, Stanger, Turnbull, Newton, Wheat, Davies, Timms, Edge, Butcher, Haskin, M. Smith.

Referee: W. Syn.

England kicked off and attacked, but Hillyard sent to touch and later England came again, but shot wide. A spell of midfield play followed, and then Ireland attacked but a bye resulted, and a further rush was stemmed by Newton. England pressed again, and Duggan saved a fine shot from Edge; McGee securing sent Williams away, but off-side spoilt the move. England went forward, but Doherty and Hill eased the pressure, and Davies securing made a fine opening for Haskin, whose neat head work was checked by Doherty. Ireland then went away, but Stanger saved and put England in attack, Newton sending behind. Still attacking, wild shooting prevented scoring, and Williams sent behind. Turnbull then stemmed an Irish attack, and England went forward, but sent over. At half-time no scores were registered.

England attacked and Duggan executed a good saver; then Stanger relieved an Irish forward move, and pressed unavailingly. Wheat tried but without effect, and "hands" against England gave Ireland a chance which was without result. After a spell of even play England broke away, and after some bustling play Edge and Haskin netted for England. Ireland went away, and Fowler well saved a shot from Robbins, who again became prominent to find the English defence sound. Timms showed out, but Hillyard and Doherty were alert. Eventually Ireland went forward, and, after some bustling play, Sanger levelled the scores. This reverse woke England up, and they attacked determinedly, and a penalty being netted by Butcher, they ran out winners.

AUSTRALIA v SCOTLAND.

Played at Epping, and won by Australia by 3 goals to 1.

Scotland:—Dymock, Traynor, O'Neill, Carmichael, Mill, Keith, Muir, McBeth, Forbes, McGhie, and Roy.

Australia:—Mitchell, Thompson, Warrior, Law, Hilder, Haigh, Burroughs, Watkins, Hughes, Carroll, and Melvor.

Referee: Mr. A. W. Wright.

At first the play was even, but good Australian combination carried them forward. Melvor hooked well with his left, but a good attempt just went over. Australian pressure was still maintained. The ball went from Carroll to Melvor back to Carroll, who netted in the corner. Australia one goal to nil. Keith momentarily relieved, but Thompson returned, and, with an easy one, Carroll made Australia 2 goals to nil. Keith sent Roy away on the left, but the latter's centre shot was too square, and Hilder relieved. Law sent Burroughs away, who centred well, and from a goal-mouth scramble Keith put in his own goal. Australia 3 goals to nil. With Muir, Forbes, and McBeth prominent, play was carried to the local 25, where McGhie was successful. Australia 3 goals to 1.

Australia, aided by the breeze, had their opponents watchful, but an attempt by Hughes went wide. After the Scottish goal was visited, Forbes had an easy chance of beating Mitchell, but he (Forbes) sent wide. The leaders went forward, but a good movement was mulled, Carroll and Melvor being off-side. Play still favoured the Australians, Carroll and Watkins just missing with well-directed "speculators." Mill, O'Neill, and Traynor were defending splendidly, the first-named sending well to McGhie, who tipped nicely to Forbes, but the latter stepped over the ball, and Scotland lost a chance. Australia remained in charge to the no-side whistle, and won comfortably by 3 goals to 1.

England.—Ibbotson, goal; Christie and Allen, backs; Bayliss, Simpson, and Teasdale, halves; Heathcote, Holt, Howcroft, Lawrence, and Patterson, forwards.

The Scottish forwards were very persistent in their attacks in the first half, the right wing men frequently operating to advantage. Goals were scored by Lyons (2), Rafferty, and Herron, and at half-time Scotland led by 4 goals to nil.

In the second half the Englishmen played much better football, and kept the game evenly contested, but failed to open their account. There was no score after the interval, and Scotland therefore won as stated. Clark, Jenkinson, Smith, and Rafferty were prominent for the winners.

SIR IAN HAMILTON'S REPORT.

WELLINGTON, Monday.

"I am quite satisfied with General Sir Ian Hamilton's report on the defence system of New Zealand," said the Minister for Defence (Mr. Allen), in the course of an interview. "He was asked by me not to spare us in any way, but to give us a plain outspoken statement as to the real condition of our affairs as be found them. Altogether the report is highly satisfactory to New Zealand."

NEW SHIPPING SERVICE.

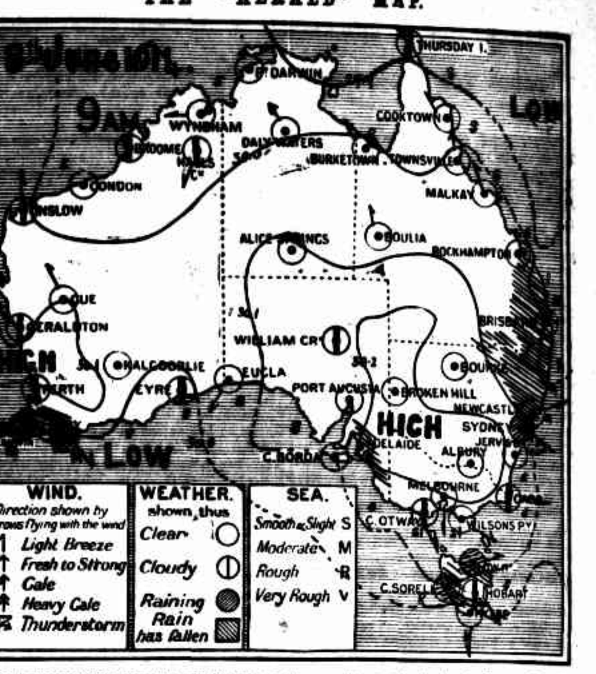

NORDDEUTSCHER LLOYD AND NEW ZEALAND.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Monday.

According to the Wellington agents of the Norddeutscher-Lloyd Company, the new steamer service to New Zealand will begin in July next, the vessels coming via Capetown and Hobart. The homeward route will probably be via the Horn, picking up Argentine frozen meat. The outward cargo from the Continent will be general merchandise, and in the homeward frozen meat and mutton will predominate.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

The immense high pressure which covered the greater part of Australia on Saturday has contracted considerably. The centre covers the Riverina and the western districts of New South Wales.

During the 48 hours ended at 9 a.m. yesterday the monsoonal depression has become a decided factor in the weather conditions over the north-eastern districts. Yesterday it was situated off Brisbane.

A new Antarctic disturbance is in evidence over the western portion of the Bight, while another high pressure has entered Western Australia, in the vicinity of Perth.

The Antarctic disturbance over the southern Tasman Sea does not appear to have much energy, while the high pressure to the north of New Zealand has lost its barometric values, and is moving eastward.

Ocean Forecast.—Fresh and squally southerly winds and rough seas on east coast, between Sydney and Rockhampton.

FINE RAINS.

EXTENSION OF MONSOONAL AREA.

An intensification of the monsoonal conditions, which until Saturday were responsible for moderate to heavy rains on the North Coast, has since then resulted in an expansion of the rain area westward and southward over the tablelands, slopes, and plains. The best falls in each of the favoured subdivisions during the forty-eight hours ended at 9 a.m. yesterday were:—North Coast: Ballina 232, Mullumbimby 212, Murwillumbah 209, Tweed Heads 147, Casino 97, and Lismore 95. Hunter and Manning: Port Macquarie 299, Manning 239, Seal Rocks 195, Camden Haven 95, Port Stephens 82, and Bullahdelah 78. Northern Tablelands: Armidale 120, Tenterfield 115, Uralla 71, Glen Innes 70, and Tabulam 68. North-west Plains: Boomi 128, Mungindi 115, and Moree 55. In the Western Division Mogil advised 158 points and Angledool 120. On the North-western slopes the rain was light to moderate, but scattered, the best amounts being Inverell 51 points, Yetman 43, Bundarra 35, and Bendemeer 20. Coonabarabran, 80 points, was the only report from the Central-western slopes. In its extension southwards along the coastal districts the rain worked as far as the metropolitan area, where Sydney received 93 points. Persistent showers were experienced in the city throughout the night and early morning, and at about 4 a.m. 24 points fell in seven minutes, or at the rate of 206 points per hour.

On the west of the mountains the cold weather, although not so pronounced as formerly, was yet in evidence yesterday morning, and many of the minimum readings failed to reach 40 deg. The lowest registrations in the State were:—Kiandra 19 deg, Braidwood 25, Adelong 27, and Nimitybelle, Cooma, and Cootamundra each 28.

At 9 a.m. yesterday it was fine, clear, and frosty on the west of the tablelands; cloudy at a few places on the South Coast and north-west slopes and northern tablelands; and cloudy to showery on the central and north coast.

From the commencement of the rain on Sunday night up to 9 p.m. last night, Sydney had received 134 points, 41 points being registered between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. yesterday. Showery conditions still prevailed in the city at a late hour last night.

CASUALTIES.

CHILD SMOTHERED.

The death took place at his parents' residence, Oakey Park, of Henry Herbert, aged 8 months.

It is stated that the infant was in good health when put to bed with three other children. In the morning the baby was found dead, apparently smothered. It is thought that during the night one of the other children inadvertently pressed on the little fellow's chest, thus causing death.

BODY IN RIVER.

COOMA, Monday.

The remains of John B. Swain, who had been missing for several weeks from Dalgety, were found in the Snowy River last night. An inquest will be held.

WELLSINKER INJURED.

QUIRINDI, Monday.

At Warrah Ridge, a few miles from Quirindi, to-day, a wellsinker named William Stockdale was working at the bottom of a well 27 feet deep, and Mr. Norvill, owner of property, and John Adams, overseer, were on the top hauling up. Just as a bucketful of dirt had reached the top the handle broke and the full bucket fell on Stockdale's head. He was with great difficulty brought to the top in an unconscious condition, and taken to Quirindi Hospital. His head had received terrible injuries, and his life is in danger.

YOUNG MAN'S DEATH.

AMUSEMENTS.

"THE BACCHAE OF EURIPIDES."

The uncertainty of the weather probably deterred many people from attending Miss Dorothea Spinney's recital at the Repertory Theatre last night, the attendance on the occasion being smaller than hitherto. Needless to add, those present were regarded tenfold for their determination. The subject of the evening was "Bacchae," the crowning masterpiece of Euripides. At the outset, Miss Spinney stated that, though there had been many expositions regarding the underlying meanings of the "Bacchae," she preferred to think of it as showing the glory of sacrifice. Pentheus has to be sacrificed, and, more, the deed has to be done by his mother, Agave. Dionysus, she also explained, was the god of nature, of joy, or exaltation, and of the vine, the last-mentioned attribute being only subordinate in his character. The artist's interpretation of the part of Dionysus must have surprised many of the audience. The whole of the glorious lines of the Gilbert Murray translation was delivered in measured speech, thus being in keeping with his god-like sanctity. All that wonderful Dionysian spirit with which the play is infused was left to the chorus of Eastern women, the followers and worshippers of the god; and, later in the play, to Pentheus, after that very pig-headed King of Thebes has his mind taken away. The change in Pentheus from hostile contempt of the curly-locked god to ecstatic desire in contemplation of the Bacchic mysteries he is to behold was finely shown. The Dionysian spirit of the choruses was fervently interpreted, but it was a beautifully pure spirit, entirely free from the low, orgiastic revelry popularly associated with the Bacchanalia, and insinuated by Pentheus in the early part of the play. The picture of the venerable old King of Thebes, Cadmus, wearing the fawn skin and carrying the Thyrsus Wand was delightfully shown.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

FINANCIAL.

QUEENSLAND CEMENT AND LIME CO.

A prospectus of the above company appears elsewhere in our columns. The company is being floated shortly to establish a Portland cement works at Darra, 10 miles from Brisbane. The capital is nominally £200,000, divided into 150,000 6 per cent. cumulative preference shares and 50,000 ordinary shares of £1 each. The public are invited to subscribe for 82,000 of the preference shares, which, in addition to the 6 per cent. cumulative dividend, are entitled to an equal share of any remaining divisible surplus after the ordinary shares have been paid their 6 per cent. (non-cumulative). The board of directors consists of Alderman J. W. Hetherington, of Hetherington and Rylance, colliery proprietors (chairman); T. M. M'William, of Brabant and Co. (vice-chairman); J. H. Adams, contractor to the Water and Sewerage Board; W. Bolland, late waterworks engineer, Charters Towers; Victor Campbell, of James Campbell and Sons, Ltd.; John Reid, of J. C. Hutton Propty., Ltd.; Walter H. Schmidt, of the Australian Metal Co., Melbourne; P. J. Symes, of Denham Bros. (Rockhampton), Ltd.; Mr. A. H. Whittingham, M.L.C., president of the United Pastoralists' Association of Queensland. The company proposes to manufacture not less than 30,000 tons of Portland cement per annum, the consumption in Queensland during 1913 being 36,000 tons, and increasing rapidly. As there are at present no cement works in Queensland, the entire State consumption is imported, the freight, duty, and other charges amounting to 44/9 per ton on foreign, 39/9 per ton on English, and 13/8 per ton on interstate, with every prospect of increase. As regards the raw materials, Mr. Dunstan, the Government Geologist, states: "The Gore limestones and the Darra shales would make a perfect combination for the manufacture of Portland cement." The directors estimate the cost of manufacture landed in Brisbane at 40/1 per ton, whilst the present wholesale net price on the wharf is no less than 74/8, leaving an ample margin for profit. A guarantee has been obtained from a prominent engineering firm representing well-known Continental cement machinery manufacturers undertaking to turn out Portland cement from the materials available to pass the standard test at an inclusive cost of not more than 37/6 per ton landed in Brisbane, under a penalty of £10,000. The directors' estimate of 40/1 per ton would, therefore, appear to be conservative. Mr. A. C. Elphinstone has been appointed general manager and secretary, and as works manager the directors have concluded preliminary negotiations with a Continental expert with considerable Australian experience, in whom they have every confidence. The registered offices of the company are in Brisbane.

DALGETY AND CO.

In respect of the half-year ended December 31 last, the directors of Dalgety and Company announce a dividend at the usual rate of 8 per cent. per annum. There is a strong feeling in the market, however, says the "Financial Times" of May 2, that for the 12 months ending June 30 next the rate of distribution will be raised, possibly by means of a bonus of 1 per cent., and in this anticipation the price of the £20 shares (£5 paid) has recently advanced from 6 1-8 to 7. To what extent Stock Exchange anticipations regarding the directors' dividend policy are correct remains to be seen, but it is certain that the company is benefiting from the high level of prosperity which at present exists throughout Australia.

NOVEL COMPANY POINT.

A novel point was before an English Court in Hongkong and China Gas Company, Ltd., v Glen, where Mr. Justice Sargant had to decide whether a company could enter into a binding contract to allot to a vendor, as purchase consideration for property sold to the company, not only one-fifth of existing share capital, but also one-fifth of any capital created in the future. In the case referred to, the vendor had sold the company a concession on those terms, receiving the agreed percentage as new shares were created and issued. The arrangement had been in force for about 50 years, and the company desired to take the opinion of the Court as to its legality and brought the action against the vendor's executors. As was perhaps to be anticipated, Mr. Justice Sargant came to the conclusion that the agreement could not stand as drafted. It could not be held that "the definite quantity of malt represented once and for all by the transfer of the concession is to be taken as the equivalent for ever of the obligation to render at any future time or times a wholly indefinite and unlimited quantity of meal." The considerations that weighed with the learned Judge were clearly those that led Lord Watson to observe in the Ooregum case that, although companies may legitimately issue fully paid shares for consideration representing in money's worth the nominal value of the shares, there is always the danger that the company may overestimate the value of the consideration, and, therefore, receive less than nominal value for its shares. In other words, there is always a risk of opening a door to the issuing of shares at a discount. As a result Mr. Justice Sargant decided that the agreement was only good to the extent of entitling the executors to receive an allotment of one-fifth of future issues (no question was raised by the parties as to previous allotments), with the important proviso that the said allotments were to be subject to payment in cash. The case reminds us that the facilities which company law gives for the manufacture of vendor's shares once elicited some strong observations from Lord Justice Vaughan Williams. He hoped it might be gravely considered by the Legislature whether it would not be for the advantage of the community, and especially of the commercial community, that an Act should be passed requiring the whole nominal amount of a share to be paid in cash, and nothing else. His Lordship said he was satisfied by his own judicial experience with reference to companies that such a law would be beneficial to companies themselves, and would also check a large amount of unwholesome speculation on the Stock Exchange, which was largely fed and supported by operations undertaken by vendors and promoters for the purpose of unloading fully paid shares, which they had taken for money's worth instead of cash.

SCOTTISH AUSTRALIAN INVESTMENT.

The interim dividend of 3 per cent. which was recently declared on the consolidated ordinary stock of the Scottish Australian Investment Company compares with 2½ per cent. at this time last year. For the twelve months ended June 30 last holders received a total return of 7½ per cent., as against 5 per cent. for 1911-12, and it may fairly be inferred from the distribution now announced that a further improvement will be shown in the total dividend for 1913-14. London Stock Exchange market estimates on this point vary. The fact, however, that the price of the consolidated stock has risen from 90 to 105 since the commencement of this year is significant, even though the movement has to some extent been in sympathy with the upward trend of all Australian securities.

STAMP DUTY PROBLEMS.

SPLITTING RECEIPTS.

Mr. Fred. C. Wills writes:—

Sir,—In regard to your reply to my letter in connection with giving separate receipts for collections totalling more than £2, I think you will find on reference to the Act that your contention will not hold good—Clause 23 (2)* reads: "Any person who upon a payment to the amount of £2 or upwards gives a receipt for a sum not amounting to £2, or separates, or divides the amount paid with intent to evade the duty, shall be liable to a penalty of not less than £2 nor more than £10." In view of this clause, I consider that your statement is incorrect, as you say that if "two weeks' rent over £2 was paid two receipts, one for each week, might be given," whereas I understand the Act to mean that on the receipt of £2, entirely apart from any consideration as to how it is made up, a stamped receipt must be given.

* The sub-section above quoted is a facsimile to section 103, sub-section 2, of the English Stamps Act, 1891. Messrs. E. N. Alpe, of the Solicitor's Department, Inland Revenue, and A. B. Cane, barristers-at-law, in their work entitled "The Law of Stamp Duties on Deeds and Other Instruments," now in its twelfth edition, are responsible for the following note after section 103, sub-section 3, of the English Act:—"If money amounting in the whole to £2 is paid upon separate accounts, or for weekly subscriptions or rents, separate receipts may be given." This is evidently the practice in England, nor does such practice appear to be in conflict with the sub-section that our correspondent quotes.

EXPORTABLE SURPLUS OF WHEAT.

Last week we gave an estimate of the amount of wheat in the Commonwealth still available for export overseas. To-day we give an estimate of the surplus yet available for export in New South Wales. It is not possible to make as close an estimate for the State as for the Commonwealth, because the exports to other States are not recorded, but something near to actuality may be achieved. The consumption is increased from 5 bushels per head of population to 6 bushels, for the reason given when the Commonwealth estimate was made. Thus, with a consumption of 11,160,000 bushels and seed requirements of 2,507,000, or a total of 13,667,000 bushels, we had available for export from the yield of 38,043,360 in the harvest of 1913-14 24,376,360 bushels. Export overseas to May 30 amounted to 15,574,303, and, reckoning the quantity sent to Queensland at 1,000,000 bushels, and over the Victorian border the same amount, we have already exported 17,574,303 bushels, leaving 6,802,057 bushels yet available from that harvest. The statement may be shown thus:—

	Bushels.	Bushels.
Yield (1913-14)		38,043,360
Consumption, 6 bushels per head	11,160,000
Seed, 1 bushel per acre	2,507,000	13,667,000
Surplus		24,376,360
Export to Victoria and Queensland	2,000,000
Export overseas	15,574,303	17,574,303
Still available for export from last harvest		6,802,057

At the close of last season we reckoned the carry-over in the State at 3,825,000 bushels. But inasmuch as the consumption last year was under-estimated by one bushel per head, we may reduce the estimated carry-over by 1,800,000 bushels and reckon the real carry-over at 2,000,000 bushels, which amount, added to the quantity still available from the 1913-14 harvest, gives the shippers in round numbers 8,800,000 bushels on which to operate between now and the end of November. Practically speaking, two-thirds of the exportable wheat has been sent out of the State in the first half of the wheat year.

TIN PLATES AND GALVANISED IRON.

Neither in tin plates nor in galvanised iron have the agreements among manufacturers for limiting output accomplished their design. Prices are still low and show little sign of any revival. Throughout the whole of April (writes the "British Trade Review"), the tinplate trade was in anything but a satisfactory condition, both from the point of view of new business and also with regard to prices. Shipments were heavy, but receipts from works were also on a more extensive scale than for some months previously. At the end of March stocks stood at 465,594 boxes, but at the end of April these had been reduced to 296,594 boxes, compared with 491,307 boxes at the corresponding period of last year. During Easter week over 200 mills closed down for the whole of the six days, and it was expected that stocks would by this action be reduced to such a level that a firmer tone would be manifested in the trade, and that higher prices would be obtainable. New specifications came in very slowly, and there is no doubt that buyers held off the market in the hope that the heavy stocks on hand would induce makers to offer substantial concessions. Although the market was undoubtedly weak, the hope had not been realised, and now that the regulation-of-output scheme is in operation, the leading manufacturers are optimistic with regard to the future, and decline to make any material modifications in their quotations, although optional contracts have been accepted at slightly lower figures than those currently demanded. At the end of March Bessemer standard cokes realised from 13s to 13s 3d, but business afterwards was reported in several instances at as low as 12s 9d. Nominally the quotation stood at the same figure as before, but a good many works ran short of orders, and in many cases 12s 10½d to 13s was accepted for prompt business. According to the Custom-house returns, the exports from the chief ports of South Wales tinplates showed an increase all round. From Cardiff the shipments were 530 tons, or an increase of 53 tons; from Newport, 3,828 tons, or an increase of 2,254 tons; and from Swansea, 22,902 tons, or an increase of 2,531 tons. In the galvanised-sheet trade matters have been going from bad to worse, and there is no doubt that the industry is in a very depressed condition. Orders have been few, and it is reported in Cardiff that the stocks both in India and Australia are so heavy that it will be some time before any large buying can be expected from those countries. Latest quotation for 24-guage corrugated was £11/11/ f.o.b. There is a duty of £1 per ton into Australia, and distributing prices to-day are £19/5/ per ton. The explanation of the big difference probably is that stocks were accumulated here when prices were high.

TIMBER FROM THE FAR EAST.

The attention of timber consumers becomes more and more turned to the Far East as their requirements increase, and the sources whence they have been in the habit of drawing their supplies show greater signs of exhaustion. In the Far East, particularly on the Continent of Asia, the incalculable timber reserves, embracing great varieties of both hard and soft wood, have hardly been touched. But the beginning that was made in this direction some years ago (according to the "Financier") has been followed by a rapid extension of operations, even if the present rate of exploitation cannot be called positively important. In England, at all events, this source of supply is appreciated, and Far Eastern timber arrives in the United Kingdom in considerable quantities. China and Japan, too, have become important buyers, whilst Australia continues to draw considerable supplies from there, where she has been a customer for many years. The principal timber cut for these markets at the moment is what is called the cedar, or so-called yellow pine. Of more recent years other growths are being cut, including the fir, a white wood which is largely exported abroad, but is also largely consumed at home in the preparation of ply woods. Siberian ply wood sells well in the neighbouring countries of China and Japan, and is now finding a market in more distant countries. The total quantity of timber exported in 1912 was 2,272,570 cubic feet, against 2,524,050 cubic feet in the preceding year, and 1,617,400 cubic feet in 1910. In more detail, in the year 1912 cedar logs were exported to the extent of 317,892 cubic feet, sawn cedar 461,032 cubic feet, oak 8306 cubic feet, ply wood 128,858 cubic feet, birch 350 cubic feet, aspen 367,204 cubic feet. The chief consumer of Far Eastern timber shipped at Vladivostock is England, then follow Japan, China, Korea, etc. The report quoted says that the success of Siberian and Amur timber in England is largely due to the substitution of Far Eastern cedar by the English in place of several varieties of American timber because it works out cheaper.

QUALITY OF BRITISH COTTONS.

The statistical returns of the cotton industry show that Great Britain's yearly share in the cotton trade of the world is still much in excess of that of the United States, her nearest competitors, but that Germany and several other countries are rapidly developing their resources and approaching very much nearer to our number of spindles. This should cause no disquietude, however, for British manufacturers are now aiming rather at high quality and artistic design than to the production of coarse counts, although, of course, they will always have a big trade in that direction.

WESTERN CHAMPIONSHIP.

BATHURST, Monday.

The Western District Golf Association's championship meeting was concluded to-day with team matches between Bathurst, Blayney, Orange, and Lithgow. The links were in splendid order, and with perfect weather, and profiting by their experiences on Saturday, the visitors were able to show their true form. A. G. Byass, who did not do himself justice in the championship rounds, easily won the Bogey Handicap in the afternoon, and all of the visiting players rendered a good account of themselves in the first round of the teams matches. Bathurst beat Blayney, and Orange beat Lithgow. In the final, Bathurst beat Orange by the narrow margin of one match. Simultaneously with the above matches, the Sydney professionals, D. G. Soutar, Fred Popplewell, J. Kirkwood, and C. Campbell (Leura) gave an all-day four-ball, best ball exhibition, which completed a programme which marks a fresh step in the rapid progress of the game in the western district. A large number of spectators followed the professionals, and they were rewarded by seeing some fine golf. Soutar and Kirkwood played Popplewell and Campbell, and on the day's play finished 2 up. The stroke rounds put up by the professional players were approximately:—Kirkwood, 75+73=148; Soutar, 75+73=148; Popplewell, 74+74=148; Campbell, 75+79=154. This puts the professional standard at about ten strokes better than the country scratch player, and emphasised the want of professional coaching and example in the western district.

LACROSSE.

INTERSTATE JUNIOR MATCH.

The Queensland B grade team played a New South Wales combined B grade team yesterday, at the Domain, when there was a large attendance, and a clever exhibition was given by the teams. After the first quarter heavy rain fell, which continued throughout the game.

Queensland were the first to show out, and very soon Kain scored, and after some even play, Wilson equalised for the home team. Queensland played in better form in the second quarter, but right throughout the game their stick work was much superior to that of the local side. In this term Patten and Wilson scored for the visitors, and Farebrother for New South Wales. A feature of the play was the fine defence of Trundle (Q.) and Turner (N.S.W.). Both players intercepted brilliantly. The half-time scores were: Queensland 4, New South Wales 3.

Gleeson replaced Neill at centre after the change. There was an absence of the body check by both defences, and dodging was made much use of by all players. One goal was secured by each side in this quarter. Kain was prominent in the visiting forward line; but the passing of the local team was decidedly bad at this stage. Queensland led at the three-quarter by 5-4.

The home team attacked strongly in the final quarter, and Barnett was prominent. Gleeson worked hard, and often found positions, but he was not given the ball. Towards the end of play Barnett scored for the home team. The sodden ground was very much against the players. Mr. Sanderson refereed.

TO-MORROW'S INTERSTATE MATCH.

The selectors have chosen the following team to represent New South Wales against Queensland, on the Domain, to-morrow, at 3 p.m.:—R. Walker, F. Roberts, S. Turner, H. Pierce, J. Nettle, E. Gleeson, C. Neill, A. Wilson, D. M'Pherson, A. S. Farebrother (capt.), R. Barnett, A. Wagstaff. R. Fountain is unavailable.

HOCKEY.

COUNTRY CARNIVAL MATCHES.

Five country teams, four from Goulburn and one from the Hawkesbury Agricultural College, played at the Sydney Grammar School area yesterday, and good games against metropolitan teams resulted. Towards the end of the day, when rain began to fall again, the play became very patchy.

METROPOLITAN v CENTRAL SOUTHERN.

This was the big match of the carnival, but was played under the worst conditions. The city team proved too strong for the visitors, and won by 7 goals to nil, but not until they were several times tried right out. The combination of the metropolitan players was in marked superiority to that of the country players, Lloyd, Newsome, and Hughes getting in some particularly fine concerted movements. Newsome (4), Lloyd (2), and Hughes (1) hit the goals.

WHITES v COLOURS.

This was the first trial game of the season, so that the contesting sides were keen on doing well, representative honours looming ahead. It was difficult to pick the better team, and the result of the match shows each side scoring one goal. Davidson scored for Whites, and Newsome for Colours, but in addition to these Ilray for Colours and Carfrae, Deffel, and McDonald (at goal) for Whites, were conspicuous.

ATHENIANS v HAWKESBURY COLLEGE.

The game was somewhat rough, and resulted in a draw, each side scoring one goal. Palmer, for Athenians, and Hughes, for the Agricultural College, were the goal-hitters.

CRITERIONS v CORONAS.

Although the Goulburn team (Criterions) won by 2 goals to nil, the match was by no means uneven. The Coronas forwards were very conspicuous. Goals for the winners were hit by M'Innes and Payne.

BANDITS v KENMORE.

Ten goals were scored by the Bandits, but Kenmore (Goulburn) players were unlucky, and only scored 2 goals. Hughes (4), Brem (3), and Mitchell (1) scored for Bandits, while Tichner and Armfield hit goals for Kenmore.

BUCCANEERS v ARCADIANS.

The visitors (Arcadians) were outplayed, being beaten by 6 goals to 1. Buccaneers were too strong for the Goulburnites. Rothwell (2), Clarke (2), Wildman, and Walsh shared the scoring honours for the city players, while Ashley hit Arcadians' only goal.

SYDNEIANS v WHEELMEN.

Both sides scored two goals in an interesting game. Donovan and Green hit the goals for the Sydneians, and the scorers for the visiting Wheelmen were Knop and Rodgers.

BASEBALL.

INTER-ASSOCIATION MATCHES.

At Waverley Oval yesterday afternoon teams selected from the various affiliated associations tried conclusions. Much of the play compared very favourably with that of the district division class.

ST. GEORGE ASSOCIATION v WESTERN SUBURBS CHURCHES' UNION.

The former association, which is in its first season, made a good showing against the more experienced players of the union, but were defeated 18-5. Batteries:—St. George: H. and A. Chapman (pitchers), B. Hayden (catcher). Churches' Union: B. Holland (pitcher), Watkins (catcher). B. Holland struck out eight for the winners, and Armstrong played well at second base. The best batters were J. Martin for winners, and V. Davis for losers; the latter ran his bases well. Umpire, Mr. A. C. Coulter.

Western Suburbs Churches' Union: 1, 1, 0, 5, 2, 1, 5, 0, 2—18.
St. George Association: 1, 0, 0, 2, 0, 1, 1, 0, 0—5.

EASTERN SUBURBS ASSOCIATION v A DIVISION.

The late game, Eastern Suburbs Junior Association v A Division team, was played in heavy rain, and resulted in a win for the latter by 12-11. Considering the greasy state of the ball, the play was excellent, and an eye-opener to those who have not previously witnessed this class of baseball. Batteries:—N. Farry and F. Foran (pitcher), A. Price and F. Hodge (catchers), for Eastern Suburbs Association; A. Kippax (pitcher) and F. O'Keefe (catcher) for A division team. Umpires, Messrs. J. T. Pope and D. Warton.

LAWN TENNIS.

BROOKVALE TOURNAMENT.

The mixed doubles handicap on the American [illegible] with the Brookvale Tennis Club is drawing to a close, and the finals will be played next Saturday. The scores to date are as follow:—Boyle and Twight (rec. 20) beat Holmes and Rose (scr.), 100-99; Boyle and Twight (rec. 20) beat Fraser and Miles (rec. 15), 100-70. The final will be played between Carew and Jamieson and Neil and Lyons. On Saturday, June 20, the ladies' and men's single championship of the club will be started.

CYCLING.

PICTON TO ASHFIELD RACE.

WON BY A. M'GLINCHEY.

The annual road race of the Redfern Club from Picton to Ashfield, a distance of 48 miles, was held yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the New South Wales Cyclists' Union.

There were 125 starters, and a large crowd was assembled at the Picton Post-office when, at 1.25 p.m., A. G. Mellor (handicap 35m), the limit man, was despatched. E. W. Pedersen, the State road champion, and W. Wylie were the scratch men. The roads throughout were fair, and the riders did not encounter any rain until Strathfield was reached. The Razorback Mountain, however, was in bad order, the road surface being deeply rutted. C. C. Hooper and S. Goodhew fell heavily at the summit. Hooper remounted, but subsequently his front tyre punctured badly, and he was forced to retire. Nearing Narellan Wylie broke his handle bars and pulled out, leaving Pedersen to continue alone.

A. M'Glinchey, who started from the 25m mark, was then riding very strongly, and passing Mellor took the lead in the next five miles. He was able to maintain this position for the remainder of the race.

When nearing the finishing line at Ashfield, a number of riders fell on the wet blocks, one of them running in without his machine. The officials, however, made him return for it, and the move lost him a place.

The result was:—

A. A. M'Glinchey (Western Suburbs Club), handicap 25m 1
J. Smith (Lidcombe-Auburn Club), handicap 12m 30s 2
J. M. Keen (Enfield-Burwood Club), handicap 7m 30s 3

The fastest time for the course was established by E. W. Pedersen, scratch.

MOTOR CYCLING.

HILL-CLIMBING CONTEST.

Rain interfered with the hill-climbing carnival of the Motor Cycle Club of New South Wales, at the Carrington Hill, Coogee, yesterday, and the programme was curtailed.

The result of the opening event was:—

Novice Hill Climb.

W. M'Donald (3½ h.p. A. and P.), hcap. 5s .. 2

BOXING.

OLYMPIA TOURNAMENT.

There was an exceptionally large attendance at Newtown Stadium last evening, when the semi-final rounds of the £1000 tournament promoted by the Olympia Athletic Club, Ltd., were entered upon. Mr. Wally Weekes was the referee. Results:—

8st 6lb division.—Fred Roberts (Waverley) and Andy Lambert (Redfern) provided an interesting contest for the full term, Lambert winning on points. He was down twice for eight seconds in the first round.

Novice, 9st division.—Boyo Reynolds (North Sydney) outpointed Joe Scutts (Leichhardt), after six interesting rounds, during which the winner did nearly all of the attacking.

9st division.—Jimmy Dell (Redfern) and Bob Brown (Thornleigh) went the full six rounds, but the referee was unable to decide the winner. Another round was ordered, and Brown gained a popular victory. The winner's body punches were very harassing to Dell.

9st 9lb division.—Eddie M'Lean (Newtown) and Jack Lynch (Petersham) contested six strenuous rounds, during which the latter piled up a sufficient margin of points to allow of him winning. Lynch's somewhat unorthodox methods nonplussed M'Lean at times.

10st 7lb division.—Sid Cox (Mortdale) and Jack Clarke (St. Peters), both heavy hitters, went the full term, Cox winning easily.

11st 6lb division.—Jack Carter (Helensburgh) forfeited to George Brewer (Windsor). Carter is ill.

Heavyweight division.—Albert Pooley (city) beat Wally Evans (Mosman) on points after going the full six rounds.

Special contest.—Jack Murray (Surry Hills) gained the decision over Eddie Corrigan (Forest Lodge), the latter having to cease hostilities in the fourth round owing to an injured leg.

HARRY LAUDER.

"PAIRTED ON THE SHORRE."

It was a holiday house in holiday mood that packed the Theatre Royal last evening, and rocked with merriment when Harry Lauder presented his second budget of songs.

And as the laughter rippled from stalls to circle, and broke out into wild hilarity in the gallery, it was easily seen that Harry Lauder's success is due to no fortuitous knack of tickling the humorous susceptibilities of his audience. The reason lies deeper than that. He seems to live in an atmosphere of mirth and good humour; his irrepressible personality immediately grips the audience, and old and young, rich and poor, become one big family joining in with his songs.

The chief of the new offerings—thanks to the gramophone—is already widely popular in Australia, and as the artist sang "We Parted on the Shore," one could see the pawky humor which presented, not a bluff sailor, but a "Longshoreman Billy," with an insatiable thirst, who ingeniously talks about the "sharp" end of the ship and the "blunt" end. Then with a lightning change is seen the well-known figure with his crooked walking-stick, and, amid appropriate settings, he sings "The Wee Hoose Amang the Heather." He first tells in homely fashion about his "mither's hoose," and as he talks a vision is conjured up of a bonny wee hoose amang the heather wi' the burn rippling through the glen.

Someone demands an Irish song, and the singer replies, "I'll gie ye a wee sprig o' shamrock amang the thistles," and sings "Barney o' Killarney." And so the evening wears away, song after song, "Saftest of the Family," "I Love a Lassie," and "When I Get Back to Bonnie Scotland," and everyone is surprised when "A Wee Deoch an' Doris" presages the finale. In his own fashion Harry Lauder has the whole house singing with him, and he sends them away with the lilting Scots songs running in their minds, and their hearts warmed with his kindly humour.

THE BORWICK RECITALS.

Mr. Leonard Borwick's third recital last night included the Chopin "Sonata in B minor," being the second of the only two that master composed. It is not as interesting as the one made famous by the "Funeral March," though the Largo will always linger in the memory as a movement the charm of which is a thing remote from the dust and turmoil of the work-a-day world. The pianist's rendering of the melting theme, as of a song from afar, heard as the stream of life floods past, was highly poetic. The opening of this sonata, an "allegro maestoso," may be described as rugged in form and abrupt in manner, yet without really reaching up to the majestic. Indeed, the composer does not truly "find himself" until he embarks upon a melody that is distinctly Chopinesque. The presto was brilliantly played, and the crowded audience, which filled every seat in Concordia Hall, insisted upon an extra number.

The concert was opened with the Bach "Organ Fugue in G minor," as transcribed for piano by the player, delivered with rhythmic clearness of outline in every part, and a suggestion of thunderous pedal-tones at the end. This example of the old Cantor's genius contrasted finely with the Beethoven "Rondo in G" which followed. This piece was wonderfully well played, the finish of style, as in those ascending passages in the bass so smoothly transferred to the left-hand, revealing all the symmetrical grace of the composition. They were "Three Harpsichord Lessons" inspired by Scarlatti's alert fancy; to which a fourth was added in response to the enthusiasm. A Schumann group also delighted the audience, inasmuch as all were loved, and the "Nachtstuck" has served as a cradle-number to children in a thousand English homes. Mr. Borwick, it is to be observed, takes Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" at the tempo of our mothers, which is slower than that adopted by the rising generation, which, as Ibsen tells us, "is knocking at the door." Mark Hambourg, one of the modern school, plays it faster. The old tune heard last night, is almost certainly the right time. Mr. Borwick no doubt studied the piece under Mme. Schumann, who must have heard the composer himself play it on many occasions. Last night's charmful rendering involved a repetition.

Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in C sharp minor," the one most often heard, though the one of later date is also familiar here, was another appreciated contribution. The artist showed the grandeur and the poetry of the composition, which suggests that strand "where none intrudes, by the deep sea, and music in its roar." The evening closed with the "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 12," brilliantly rendered by the artist, the enthusiasm aroused being prolonged until he consented to respond with Liszt's fascinating "Soirée de Vienne."

This evening's programme will include the "Waldstein Sonata," groups by Brahms and Chopin, and compositions by Bach, Mozart, and Debussy.

BRITISH TEAM ENTERTAINED.

The New South Wales Rugby League entertained the British Northern Union team at dinner last evening at the Fresh Food and Ice Company's Rooms. Mr. Fred. Flowers, M.L.C., presided, and a lengthy toast list was carried through. Mr. Flowers proposed the toast of "The King." Mr. J. Joynton Smith "The British Team."

Mr. J. Clifford, joint manager of the visiting team, in responding, said that five out of thirteen men on the field yesterday only got off the ship on Thursday; and it must necessarily be some weeks before the men are really in their best form. When they returned to England he hoped he would be able to say that this team was superior to that of 1910, and so satisfy all the home critics.

Mr. Harold Wagstaff, captain, said: "We will win like men, and lose like gentlemen, and when we return from Queensland I think we will win."

Mr. W. A. Davies, vice-captain, proposed the toast of the "New South Wales Team." He was disappointed, but the New South Wales team had played the better games, and he hoped to show better form when they returned from Brisbane.

Sid. Deane, captain of the New South Wales team, responded, and said the games had been played in a good spirit.

AMATEUR GOLF.

NEW SOUTH WALES CHAMPIONSHIP.

FIRST ROUND.

Two of the matches in the first round of the above event were played at Kensington yesterday, W. C. Sturrock beating P. Sydney Jones by 7 up to 6, and T. F. Howard defeating J. B. Ferrier by 2 and 1. In the firstmentioned match Sturrock was in fine form, and going out in 38 was 4 up at the turn. His play was not brilliant, but he did not make mistakes. Jones was playing well, but not so well as his opponent. Coming home, Sturrock again did a 38, having every hole in bogey figures except the thirteenth and fourteenth, which were each taken in four; and the seventeenth where he was one stroke over in 5. He finished the morning round 5 up, his card reading:—

Out .... 4, 5, 4, 4, 4, 6, 3, 4, 4—38.
In .... 5, 3, 4, 4, 4, 5, 3, 5, 5—38.
76.

In the afternoon Sturrock was again out in 38, a 6 at the second being his worst hole, and though Jones played well he was unable to reduce the deficit, and Sturrock won on the twelfth green by 7 up and 6 to play. His putting was exceedingly good.

The match between Howard and Ferrier was one in which fortune favoured first one and then the other. Both players were out fairly well in the morning, Ferrier being 1 up at the turn, but Howard went ahead, and was 1 up at the fifteenth, and 2 up at the seventeenth. He was lucky in halving the eighteenth by means of a stymie, and finished the morning round 2 up. Howard was round in approximately 84. In the afternoon Howard was 3 up at the fifth, but Ferrier, making an effort, the former turned only 1 up. Coming home, there was little between the players, Howard winning by 2 and 1. The golf on either side was not first-class, Howard taking 82 in the afternoon.

TOOTHOLOGY BY A "NATIONAL" DENTIST.

DENTISTRY PAST AND PRESENT.

Galin, in A.D. 131, taught that the Teeth were true Bones existing from birth and along through the centuries to the twentieth great strides have been made in Dentistry. The two main branches of Dentistry are Surgical and Mechanical.

The Surgical Dentist must be skilled in the extraction of Teeth; must understand "Regulating" or restoring of overcrowded and displaced Teeth, and must also be a specialist on the filling of hollow decayed Teeth.

The Mechanical Dentist deals with the construction of Artificial substitutes for lost Teeth, and this branch requires much Mechanical Science.

EVERY "NATIONAL" DENTIST IS A SPECIALIST—

either surgical or mechanical, and if YOU have broken and decayed Teeth, let our skilled Surgeons attend to them. We have the finest Dental equipment in Australasia, and an absolute advance in Dental Plates. The "National" Plates are POSITIVELY UNBREAKABLE—we should like to demonstrate this to YOU personally.

Let us look your case over, and prescribe for you—our advice is FREE, and all extractions are FREE, regardless of whether other work is ordered or not, while our large practice and modern equipment enable us to give the very best Dental Service at moderate Fees. Open Daily till 9 p.m.; Saturdays 9 a.m. till 1 p.m. (only).

HUNYADI JANOS—THE NATURAL APERIENT WATER

Occasional Constipation, although it may attract little attention from the sufferer, nevertheless demands prompt attention.

Fortunately, the remedy is simple, and, still more happily, Providence has placed it within the reach of every household.

Nothing more is required than a wineglassful of Hunyadi Janos Natural Aperient Water every morning before breakfast for a week—"only that and nothing more."

This is worth remembering, because even the best digestion is apt to be upset now and then with constipation and other fleeting ills.

HUNYADI JANOS.

BETTER COOKED JOINTS AND A CLEAN STOVE.

With the increasing price of meat, greater care should be exercised in the cooking to get the most goodness out of each joint. The butcher cannot be held responsible if he delivers you a tough roast, or a leg of mutton which is mostly gristle—the real test only comes in the eating.

But no matter how inferior the joint, the Savoury Roaster makes it tender and delicious, and keeps all the nutriment in the meat, whereas the ordinary roasting process robs it of many of its qualities.

The Savoury Roaster is a [illegible] of scientific construction, designed for perfect cooking of roast meats and vegetables. It is equally effective in any stove, and keeps the inside of your stove always scrupulously clean and sweet.

SPECIAL REDUCTIONS IN IMPORTED COSTUMES AND COATS AND SKIRTS, ALSO MAIDS' COSTUMES.

We are making a very special display this week of stylish Model Gowns and Coats and Skirts. Also in Maids' Costumes. Ladies will note that we are making a very considerable reduction on all lines in these goods. As to quality, we need hardly mention this, in view of the well-known fact that everything sold in our store is of assured quality and value.

We shall be happy if Ladies and their Daughters will visit our showrooms irrespective of whether they desire or not to make a purchase. We recognise how interesting it is for the public to see the very latest in Dress, and everything appertaining thereto. A visit to the "White House" is undoubtedly a fascinating way of spending an afternoon in the city, and at the same time we quite realise that people are not ALWAYS wanting to buy. Please, therefore, accept our standing invitation to walk round our showrooms at leisure.
